BRITISH APPLAUD CHOICE OF BEATTY TO LEAD THEIR GRAND FLEET

The promotion of Vice Admiral Sir David Beatty to the command of the British grand fleet in the North sea has met with almost unanimous approval in Great Britain. The London Morning Post said: "It has fallen to Sir David to take part in more fighting than any other admiral during the war, and upon every occasion he has unmistakably manifested those inestimable qualities which are so seldom found united in one man—swift intuition, rapid decision, resolute and daring action. In a word, Vice Admiral Beatty is a born fighting admiral. Officers and men under his command look upon Beatty as a second Nelson. Beatty has won his reputation while he is still young—a happy fate—and equally happy is he in that he has earned it, by brilliant achievement. There are many ways of gaining popular acclaim, but there is only one which stands the test of time and circumstances, and it is Beatty's way. Beatty commanded the battle cruiser squadron which began the Jutland fight. He is forty-five years old and is married to a daughter of the late Marshall Field of Chicago.

Exercise Promoter. "You say my husband needs exercise, but he won't take any, and I don't know how to make him," said a woman plaintively. "Is there any way in which we can force him to exercise?" "Did you ever try on windy days making him wear a hat that will be sure to blow off?" asked the doctor.—Buffalo Express.

Mrs. George A. Clark—President Of The T. K. & M. Railroad.

The South claims no more remarkable woman than Mrs. George Clark, president of the Tennessee Kentucky and Midland railroad. In her position of president of this great company she is by no means a mere figure head with subordinates doing the executive work of the enterprise. She has a remarkably keen mind and herself directs the details as well as the greater moves of the company. Mrs. Clark succeeded her husband to the presidency of the company, and her aim has been to bring to realization his dream of opening up the timberlands of the Southern hills and so supplying quantities of wood to the parts of the North, where it was most needed. For this purpose this railroad business was organized and Mrs. Clark has been true to her trust in carrying it out since she became the manager of the company as chief executive. Mrs. Clark has the intellect which is generally accredited exclusively to men. She has a surprising energy and mental alertness. But her executive ability extends beyond her railroad business into her own home where she is as feminine as she is most unworldly wise. Physically she is fragile and faintly and to the ordinary observer her life is centered in her home and her little son. She is gentle and gracious in her home as she is unyielding in her business when once her judgment has been made. In her work among the Southern hills Mrs. Clark has come to know the mountaineers of that region and in addition to being a railroad president, and a homemaker she finds time as well to be something of a missionary. While other teachers have been busy seeking to educate the mountaineers in the rudiments of academic knowledge Mrs. Clark has tried to teach them how to live through a higher appreciation of the things about them. She seeks to teach them an appreciation of the beautiful and constantly entertains them as her guests that they may trust her more. The qualities which make for success in Mrs. Clark are for the most part inherited. She is the product of a line of sturdy Quaker ancestors. She represents the fourth generation which has occupied the old Quaker home on the Hudson. It is a home so sturdy and staunch that one wonders if it reflects the characteristics of the people who have lived in it or whether they have absorbed some of its own rugged strength with its huge solid walnut furnishings.

GERARD ABSENT, GREW IN CHARGE OF AMERICA'S INTERESTS IN BERLIN

Joseph C. Grew, secretary of the American embassy in Berlin and charge d'affaires, is the man who received from Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg for transmission to the United States the German suggestion that Berlin was ready to consider peace negotiations. Mr. Grew, who represented the United States in Ambassador Gerard's absence, is a young man for so important a post, being only thirty-six years old. He was graduated from Harvard in 1902 and began his career in the consular and diplomatic service in 1904 as clerk to the consulate general in Carlo. Since then he has served in Mexico City, Petrograd, Vienna and Berlin. Mr. Grew's home is in Boston.

Brains. The largest apes have only sixteen ounces of brain, while the lowest type of man has thirty-nine.

Old Time Police. Glasgow in the eighteenth century had a competent volunteer unpaid police force. Immerse the article in a pot filled with cold water to which some common salt has been added. Boil the water well, then cool slowly. The glass treated in this way will resist any sudden change of temperature.

Might Be Worse. "What do you know about Bill? He's a hot air!" "Why, Bill travels for the same house I do." "I know that, but he is all right otherwise?"—Exchange.

No Respector of Persons. Mistress to maid-servant by way of mild rebuke—I don't think your young man has very good manners. I noticed that he did not rise from his seat when I came into the kitchen. Maid (deprecatingly)—I'm very sorry, ma'am, but he doesn't do it even when I come into the room.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

KINDNESS. When we consider the results it brings I wonder why it is we are not all kinder than we are. How easily it is done! How instantaneously it acts! How infallibly it is remembered!—Drummond.

Forget Your Aches.

Stiff knees, aching limbs, lame back make life a burden. If you suffer from rheumatism, gout, lumbago, neuralgia, get a bottle of Sloan's Linctment, the universal remedy for pain. Easy to apply; it penetrates without rubbing and soothes the tender flesh. Cleaner and more effective than musky ointments or poultices. For sprains, sore muscles or wrenched ligaments resulting from strenuous exercise, Sloan's Linctment gives quick relief. Keep it on hand for emergencies. At your Druggist, 25c. (Adv.)

Hugo's Slip. Victor Hugo puts into the mouth of Charlemagne, in "Aymaillet," the words, "You dream like a scholar of Sorbonne." That famous institution was founded in 1254, 450 years after the days of Charlemagne.

Burying the Hatchet. This expression, meaning "let bygones be bygones," is derived from a custom once in vogue among the North American Indians. According to a command of the "great spirit," they were obliged, when they smoked the pipe of peace, to bury in the ground their tomahawks, scalping knives and war clubs in token that all enmity was at an end.

No Increment? It was the first anniversary of the Pnoodies' wedding day, and the good wife had prepared a special dinner in honor of the occasion. "Priscilla," said Pnoodies after the feasting was over, "that was the best meal I ever ate. You are worth your weight in gold."

Watch Your Pep. Pep is a slang word invented to convey the idea of those who are always up and about, who are full of "ginger," who never go to sleep at the switch. When you are full of pep you can go a long way toward doing almost anything. But pep runs out. If your stomach goes back on you because you don't know how to take care of it; if you consort with weak minded people taking on the color of their weak mindedness; if you burn the candle at both ends, then your pep runs low. Watch your pep.—Life.

Refusal to accept the terms of the agreement, under which troops would be withdrawn from Chihuahua, means the closing of negotiations through the joint commission for adjustment of the questions at issue between the United States and the defacto government of Mexico.

What effect the new situation then presented would have on the policy of the United States is not known. The more general opinion among government officials, is that the Mexican executive would not alter his repeated declaration that the American troops must be withdrawn unconditionally and any further discussion of international subjects could not take place while foreign troops violated the sovereignty of Mexico.

If Carranza persists in his refusal there will be nothing for the members of the joint commission to do but to hold one last conference to close the record and say good-bye.

CARRANZA'S TIME LIMIT UP, YET HE DOESN'T ANSWER

STATE DEPARTMENT CONTENDS REPLY MAY BE ON WAY, BUT DELAYED

REFUSAL OF MEXICAN CHIEF WILL END EFFORTS OF COMMISSION

Head of Facto Government Believed to Insist He Cannot Discuss Question With American Troops on His Soil

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Although General Carranza had not replied to the demand of the United States that he either ratify or repudiate the protocol drawn by the Mexican-American joint commission, the expiration of the time limit was not made the occasion for formally declaring the negotiations at an end.

While the time expired at midnight, officials were inclined to take into consideration that a reply might have been delayed and indicated that a favorable reply, even though a day or more late, would not be rejected, inasmuch as an adjustment of international difficulties was the chief object.

Refusal to accept the terms of the agreement, under which troops would be withdrawn from Chihuahua, means the closing of negotiations through the joint commission for adjustment of the questions at issue between the United States and the defacto government of Mexico.

What effect the new situation then presented would have on the policy of the United States is not known.
