MACKSBURG.

MACKSBURG, Ore., Feb. 1.—(Special)—Would that we all, when tempted to resign at the continued rain, at the muddy roads that place the gratification from newly-acquired autos, as well as of all other pleasure vehicles away into the future; that check our ardent plans and thwart our ambition for earlier flowers and vegetables than ever hitherto—might hear our early settlers tell of how things were in western Oregon fifty or even one thirty years ago, when a dozen miles must be traversed to reach the nearest store; when the wagon plodded along with the steps and the wheel hubs out of sight in the mud; when the state Mt. Hood and the blue outline of the Cascades were hidden by the forest and when the orchards were too young to bear and the only fruit to be had was the wild blackberry and a crab-apple so sour that the face of the bravest settler grows distorted at its memory, even now. These recitals help us to make light of present day annoyances.

The first month of 1917, that came in, so seriously, is acting as if angry at the thought that his sojourn is nearing the end and is treating us to weather that carries the mind back to the blizzards of the east. There is comfort, however, in the thought that the winter is so nearly spent there can not be a very long continuance of the present weather. There is one species of the ranch denizen who delight in the swollen streams and in the rain-soaked ground. The aquatic fowls sailing on the water or going with stately tread, over the soft ground are pleasing to the eye in their snowy plumage always unsullied by the mud from which they dig their food.

Cheering it is to watch them in these stormy days and to know they will soon be followed by big broods of yellow goslings or downy young ducks as pleasing to see and so good for the table in the fall.

All building is stopped for the present, but the regular whistle from the saw mill tells us that work is going on there. Land clearing has also received a temporary check, but will recommence with renewed vigor when the storm is over.

Frank Schultz, whose serious injury to his knee was mentioned in the Enterprise, last week, is recovering gradually, though he is still unable to work.

Little Mabel Eby is getting over a severe burn and is again in school.

CASCADE COUNTY BILL WILL PASS THE HOUSE TODAY

ALL EXPECT MEASURE CREATING NEW COUNTY WILL BE APPROVED BY LOWER BODY

CONSOLIDATION COMMITTEE GETS TOGETHER AT LAST ON PROGRAM

Plan Includes Union of Labor Departments—Bill Will be Introduced in Both Houses Today by Clackamas County Legislators.

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 31.—(Special to the Enterprise)—Representative H. C. Stephens' bill dividing Clackamas county and creating Cascade county is the first bill to be considered on the third reading in the house tomorrow morning.

While one appropriation bill is ahead of it on the calendar that bill will be shoved aside to go to the ways and means committee and the Cascade measure will be read for the third time and voted on immediately after the second reading of the bill.

Stephens, who has been making a heroic fight for the measure in the house, is satisfied that it will carry tomorrow, but does not wish to state what he believes the vote will be.

Senator Dimick, on the other hand is making strenuous efforts to have the bill defeated when it comes over to the senate. It is practically conceded on all sides that the bill will carry in the house.

Rumors were heard today that some trading has been done by a few representatives on the strength of the bill, but this rumor is hard to trace down, although it came from a reliable source.

The joint consolidation committee finally got together today on a plan for the consolidation of the labor departments, and decided to send in the bill originally hit upon. This consolidates the labor commissioner, industrial accident commission, board child labor inspectors and industrial welfare commission. This bill provides for two commissioners, one in charge industrial accident commissions activities and other to have charge of the other activities enumerated.

This bill has received strong disapproval from the governor and he recently issued a statement declaring himself against it. While no statement came from the executive offices directly to that effect it has been hinted by those close to him that this bill, if it passes the two houses, may have a hard time getting by his office.

However that may be, time bound is to tell as the bill will come in to both houses tomorrow morning. Representative Brownell will introduce it in the house and Senator Dimick in the senate as chairman of the respective houses and senate committees on consolidation and it will be sent out through each house on its journey to determine whether it will ever reach the governor's office.

Severe Cold Quickly Cured.

"On December first I had a very severe cold or attack of the grip as it may be, and was nearly down sick in bed," writes O. J. Metcalf, Weatherly, Mo. "I bought two bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it was only a few days until I was completely restored to health. I firmly believe that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is one of the very best medicines and will know what to do when I have another cold." Obtainable everywhere.

25c PER MONTH IS THE AVERAGE COST OF OPERATING A MITCHELL WATER SYSTEM

BANISH THE BUCKET BRIGADE! The Water Bucket Must Go. It is a back breaker, a back number and a useless consumer of energy.

Think how many miles of steps your wife is obliged to take each day because she does not have the advantages of water under pressure. Is it any wonder that she is dog tired each night. The useless waste of energy in lifting a heavy water bucket each time a little water is needed, the endless trips to the well or spring, these are the things that make for physical breakdowns. Think of the chance of your water becoming contaminated and the health of your family destroyed. Think of the danger of fire, a fire that a steady stream of water will quickly kill but when this is not at hand will greedily consume your home, your property and possibly a life. These things can't be thought of in the terms of dollars but the fact is that

YOU'LL GET YOUR MONEY'S WORTH OUT OF A MITCHELL WATER SYSTEM IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE

No Secret About the Mitchell System
The Mitchell System is a simple system, nothing difficult to understand or operate, about it. The reason it gives better service is because it is made up of better parts. In making our outfit we use the Mitchell Pressed Steel Pneumatic Tank; it's tested under heavier pressure than you can put on it and is guaranteed for 125 pounds; we use only the BEST glass water seal pumps. If there is a better pump than the Mitchell, the most critical pump makers in America do not know of it. For power, if a gasoline engine is needed, we install a Stover, the most dependable there is. Its simplicity will appeal to you at once. More than 2,000 users in the Northwest say it's a "good" engine, and so it is.
In fact, our outfits are made up to suit your requirements; we don't attempt to make your requirements suit our outfit. Write us and we will tell you how we do it.
