

GEORGE REDDAWAY BUYS THE E. M. HOWELL FARM

MERCHANT WILL LIVE ON OLD HOME OF MAYOR HACKETT ON CLACKAMAS

George Reddaway, merchant of this city has purchased the fine farm of E. M. Howell on the Clackamas river, located about five miles from this city and known as the Howell peach farm.

Mr. Reddaway expects to retire from business, and will build a modern this place at an early date. Mr. Howell has purchased the grocery store, contents and residence now occupied by Mr. Reddaway on Seventh and Monroe streets.

WOOLEN MILLS DECLARE FIVE PER CENT BONUS IN FAVOR OF EMPLOYEES

PROFIT-SHARING PLAN TO BE CONTINUED AS WAS ANNOUNCED

The Oregon City Woolen Mills Thursday announced to their employees that a five per cent bonus on their earnings will be paid to them until further notice. This bonus is in addition to the profit-sharing plan announced by the company the first of the year, and is in line with the company policy to do all they possibly can for the welfare of their employees.

The Oregon City Woolen Mills is just completing a three-story addition, size 30 by 250 feet, increasing their capacity fully sixty per cent. All the latest devices for the comfort of their employees are being installed.

The bonus will be in effect from April 1.

FOOD PRICES SOAR TO SKIES ALL OVER OREGON

PRICES IN PORTLAND HAVE GONE UP BEYOND SALARIES - NO RELIEF

PORTLAND, Or., April 18.—Retail dealers in food products rapidly are adjusting their price lists to meet the constantly increasing demands of the wholesalers, jobbers and manufacturers.

Obviously the retailers cannot absorb the additional charges made by the men "higher up" and quite naturally pass the cost along to the consumer.

Everything is going up except the salaries. And no relief is in sight. Contrary-wise, prices threaten to increase for the next few months, or until the new crop can be harvested.

Nor will the new crop make much of an impression unless there is enough of it.

People who want to reduce the higher cost of living will have to wield the trowel or destruction through her super this summer.

It may not be much to the credit of Oregon that one of her principal food products—wheat—gains the doubtful distinction of being responsible for most of the food world's availing privocities.

As wheat goes up flour goes up, and along with flour go a great variety of bakery products, from spaghetti and macaroni to pie and cake.

Flour now is selling at the retail stores at $2.55 for a sack of 49 pounds. The price is expected to reach $3 before the new crop is placed on the market. And the new crop isn't apt to help the situation much, as it is due to be far below the normal in volume.

This same 49-pound sack of flour that now sells at $2.55 was only $2.15 before the United States entered into war. What the average consumer can't figure out is the cause for this difference in price. Doubtless the grower, the grain dealer, the miller, the wholesaler and the retailer all made a fair profit at $2.15.

Nothing of value has been added to the flour since the price went up. No extra cost has been attached to its production or its marketing.

"Who, then, gets that extra 70 cents?" is the consumers' pertinent query.
