

Violence is Decried by Leaders of Union Men Who Announce That Camas Men Sympathize

The striking paper makers of the Crown Willamette Pulp & Paper company, meeting last night at Willamette hall here, completed arrangements for the conduct of the strike for whatever period may be necessary, depending entirely, they say, upon the attitude of the mill owners. Over 300 men crowded into the hall and listened to addresses by Otto Hartwig and others, and gave loud demonstrations of their satisfaction at the attitude of the Camas mill-workers in their refusal to come here and work.

According to telegraphic advices which were received by the union men here from Camas, Friday night, an attempt had been made to bring employees of the company from Camas to work upon the paper machines at the local plant. The men, who are also organized at that place, refused to come. Hartwig says that no effort will be made to call out the Camas men unless the strike here assumes much larger proportions than at present, which he says is hardly probable.

Plant H of the Crown Willamette company, located on the east side of the river here was not operated Friday. The other side is running on part shifts in several departments.

Other meetings of the union men will be held today at 2 o'clock and at 8 o'clock. Manager Melhain of the Crown Willamette company has been invited to attend any or all of the meetings, according to the union men.

The situation at the Crown Willamette Paper company's plant has reached the stage where operations are practically at a standstill as far as the manufacture of the finished paper was concerned. A few men are still at work in the pulp and sulphite plants of the mill but if the strike of the 500 men employed on the paper machines is effective for any length of time, the entire force will be obliged to stop operations.

The executive committee of the union, meeting at noon Friday, decided upon certain plans for the conduct of the campaign. Pickets are to be appointed for the purpose of informing employees who have not already learned of the reasons for the strike, and a committee has been appointed to provide for the maintaining of a head of steam at the plant at all times to guard against fire.

"There is to be no destruction of property and no violence," said Otto M. Hartwig, president of the Oregon State Federation of Labor, addressing the men today. "You can get nowhere with that and it only reacts upon you."

We are making no demands of the company except the right to organize a union here. We ask neither an increase in pay, nor shorter hours, but Roy Ott has been discharged because of his activity in this movement and we demand that he be put back."

The company declined to make any additional statement Friday except to say that only certain parts of the mill were in operation and that unless men were secured to work, the entire plant would have to be shut down. It was said that no further steps had been taken toward the hiring of strike-breakers.

At Friday afternoon's meeting, Mr. Hartwig announced that this action on the part of the mill had only served to crystallize the organization of the men. "But this mill is not the only one in Oregon City that is to be brought to a realization of the conditions existing. Before the campaign of organization is over," he said, "we will have removed the black stain which has been cast on Oregon City as a laboring town."

The following are the recently appointed officers of the Paper Makers' Union: President, Roy Ott; vice-president, Joseph Davenport; treasurer, R. B. Grady, secretary, D. E. McMahon; financial secretary, F. Phillips.

GERMAN SUBMARINE IS SUNK BY AN AMERICAN IN A RUNNING FIGHT

WASHINGTON, June 6.—A German submarine is believed to have been sunk by an armed American steamer yesterday in a running fight lasting an hour and a half, in which 35 shots were fired by the submarine and 25 by the steamer.

An official announcement today says the steamer's final shot "apparently struck the submarine, which raised clear out of the water and stood stern-end up for a few seconds. She then disappeared."

The announcement follows: "The department of state is advised by telegraph of an engagement between an armed American steamer and a submarine. The guns of the steamer were manned by an American naval crew. The submarine was first seen at about 7000 yards. She had a six-inch gun forward and another aft. She flew no flag."

"Upon sight of the submarine, the steamer hoisted the American flag and waited for about 10 minutes. As the submarine approached the steamer fired. The submarine responded. The steamer kept a speed that would permit the submarine to come within range. Then followed a fight lasting for an hour and a half. The submarine came to within a distance of 2300 yards. By that time the submarine had fired 35 shots and the steamer 25."

"The last shot of the steamer apparently struck the submarine, which raised clear out of the water and stood stern-end up for a few seconds. Then she disappeared. The captain of the steamer and the commander of the guard believe that the submarine was sunk. The steamer suffered no damage."

FARMER NEAR SUNNYSIDE HAS A SUCCESSFUL POULTRY BUSINESS

One of the most attractive farming sections of Clackamas county is in the Sunnyside section, near Clackamas. Here are the farmers busily preparing the ground for their seedling, while the wives, realizing that their assistance is needed at this time, are helping to put in the crops or are weeding the gardens. The soil is unusually fertile in this section of the county and the grain has never appeared more healthy, although the recent rains have had a tendency to retard its growth. Strawberry plants are covered with snowy white blossoms, and the cherry trees are laden with small cherries. The apple trees look thriving, and the crop is promising.

Far and near you can see the farmer at work in his field, making good use of the days of sunshine that he has longingly looked forward to. Although the season is late for planting, the farmers of Clackamas county are going to do their share in supplying the shortage of rations, if there be any, during the coming summer.

One of the most attractive farm homes in the Sunnyside section is that of H. Ringhouse, the well-known poultryman of Clackamas county. Mr. Ringhouse took up his residence in the Sunnyside section about eight years ago, coming to Oregon from Illinois.

Since coming to Clackamas county, he has devoted his attention to poultry raising, and owns one of the finest poultry farms in the county. Mr. Ringhouse is a bird fancier and the White Wyandottes have been selected by him. On his farm are many houses containing the finest of these birds. There are over 300 young chicks, while there are about as many older ones. Every pen is kept in the best of sanitary condition. There are other houses built especially for pigeons. Mr. Ringhouse is in this business as well, and among the breeds that he is specializing in are the baldhead performing Tumblers, Carnos and the Fantail pigeons. The Carnos are being raised for squabs, but the baldhead Tumblers and other smaller pigeons are only for pets. Many of his finest pigeons are now setting, and the eggs are almost ready for hatching.

Not only does Mr. Ringhouse devote his attention to his poultry and pigeons, but is growing fruit as well. There are five acres planted to prunes, and about as many more to apples, and each tree is given careful attention. That is one reason that these fruit trees are bearing large crops. His strawberry patch, close to home and covering almost an acre, shows the care and attention that this farmer is giving his vines.

OREGON CITY STUDENT WINNER OF HONORS AT STATE U LAW SCHOOL

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene June 6.—According to grades compiled today by the registrar's office for the semester just ended, J. Bothwell Avison, a senior in the university from Oregon City, won scholarship honors in the law school.

Mr. Avison is the first regular graduate of the law school and completed the semester with an all "B" and "C" record of 16 hours. Comparatively speaking, this is the highest record any scholar can achieve, as the work of the law school, according to Dean Hope, is more exacting in examination and general work than other departments.

In his address in London, Vice Admiral Sims expressed the hope that if a new battle of Jutland occurred, the American navy would have an opportunity to take part.

AMSTERDAM, via London, June 6.—The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, commenting on Admiral Sims' speech on Sunday at the celebration in London of the first anniversary of the battle of Jutland, says that the admiral may wish nothing more than a new encounter with its enemy. KEET KIDNAPPING CASE NEAR A SOLUTION AND SUSPECTS ARE CAUGHT SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 6.—Officials believe they are near the solution of the mysterious Keet kidnapping case. Six arrests have been made and more are expected.

Thus far little 14-month-old Lloyd Keet, son of J. Holland Keet, wealthy Springfield banker, has not been recovered. However, it is believed that he will be returned to his parents as soon as the police run down important clues they uncovered today.

Those arrested are: Taylor Adams and his wife, Allie Adams; their two sons, Clayton Adams, 20, and Maxie, 28; C. J. Piersol and Sam McGinnis. McGinnis was arrested early today; the others late last night.

The former denied any connection with alleged plots. He was arrested because of statements made by the others yesterday.

No direct connection between the alleged activities of the six and the disappearance of the Keet baby has been established.

Confessions are said to have been made by two of the six. Others, not yet arrested, were implicated by these.

Taylor Adams was taken at Kansas City on Monday. One of his sons is said to have been employed at a downtown store here, from which mysterious lights flashed days ago and caused a widespread belief that it was a signal to the abductors of the Keet baby. The exact connection has not yet been established.

Plans to abduct a St. Louis manufacturer of munitions were confessed to by Piersol. Other confessions include the abduction of C. A. Clement, a jeweler, whom they expected to hold for ransom.

GERMANY EXHAUSTING HER FIGHTING CORPS ALONG WESTERN FRONT

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES in the field, June 6.—Germany has only 21 divisions of troops on the western front—approximately 315,000 men—which she has not yet flung into the fighting line.

The 107 divisions (1,605,000 men) with which the British and French offensives have been engaged in recent weeks, have suffered losses averaging between 2000 and 3000 per division, or from 214,000 to 321,000 men.

These figures are those of French headquarters. They give not only a clear idea of the tremendous efforts which Germany is making to stop the French and British advance, but also the terrible toll which the allies have taken in the fighting.

The French estimates are that Germany has a total of 150 divisions of all kinds of troops now on the western front. (This would be about 2,340,000 men.) Of these 150, only 123 are divisions of front fighting men, the others being auxiliary corps. One hundred and seven of these 128 fighting corps have been identified as opposed to the Alsne and Champagne fronts.

Council Defeats Proposal To Transfer Water Board's Property to City for Park

The city council last night defeated the proposal to secure a city park in the south end of the city, by a vote of 5 to 4. Those voting in favor of the park were: Councilmen Metzner, Tobin, Templeton and Friederichs. Those against were Councilmen Moore, Bridges, Van Auker, Buckles and Cox.

By a vote of five to four, the city council last night defeated the move to secure a city park at the south end of Washington street by the transfer of 13 1/2 acres of land now held by the water board for municipal property in other parts of the city.

The vote followed considerable discussion of the majority report of the committee appointed April 2 to consider the transfer. The findings of the committee were that too great a consideration was involved in the transfer. Those favoring the project met this statement with the evidence that this is the only city on the coast that has not a city park, that the putting of the money into the improvements would be a safe investment and that unless the property was secured now, private individuals might secure it and thus the city would lose an opportunity to get a good park site.

John Lowellan was elected to succeed Linn Jones whose term as a member of the water board has expired, by a vote of five to four. Mr. Lowellan was nominated by Councilman Van Auker, John Lowellan was formerly county commissioner.

A crusade against objectionable barns in the city was announced at the council meeting and complaints will be sworn out today by City Attorney Storey, and Police Chief French. In condemning the attitude of livery men who allow their barns to remain in an unsanitary condition, regardless of the city's ordinances, Councilman Templeton said: "If we have city ordinances covering the situation they should be enforced regardless of whether the offender is the mayor or a member of the council. If Councilman Cox's barn is a nuisance, as I have heard it is, he should be forced to remedy the situation and comply with the ordinance."

The two barns against which most objection is turned, according to the councilmen, are the Williams Livery barn between Fifth and Sixth streets at Washington, and the Blum barn at Fifth and High streets.

The improvement of Prospect street was authorized by the council at a cost of not over $1000. Of the entire amount of the improvement, the city expects to pay approximately $800 and the property owners will have to pay the balance of nearly $2000.

Because the one bid submitted for the construction of the High street sewer extension was $95 above the estimate of the city engineer, the council voted to refuse to accept the bid and ordered the engineer and the street committee to proceed with the work immediately. The only bid submitted was that of Moffatt and Parker for $298.50.

That all of the pool rooms in the city are constantly violating certain sections of the city ordinance developed in the course of a discussion over the amendment of the city ordinances which would permit pool rooms to operate cigar stands without having to pay additional licenses. The strict pool room legislation on the city's books was made in 1911 when saloons were in the city.

The opening of Twelfth street and Taylor was voted down upon the recommendation of a committee. The purchase of 450 feet of fire hose was proposed and will be voted on at the special meeting of the council set for June 20.

The final reading and vote of an ordinance fixing the grade of Third street from Main street to the river will be held at that time.

Chief of Police Lee French has been ordered to proceed with the collection of the annual dog tax immediately. The report of the chief for the past month shows six arrests of which four were for drunkenness and two of insane persons.
