

Newsy Briefs From All Over the County

Mackburg

MACKBURG, Ore., July 12.—Already the harvest has commenced, beginning with the fruit. The strawberries have all been disposed of, cherries, raspberries and loganberries are taking their place. Should the latter crop be as abundant as is the early fruit the harvest must truly be a bounteous one.

That favorite of the thrifty housewife, the wild blackberry, is unpretentiously plenty. Along the roadside and in the woods these graceful vines are climbing everywhere. Beautiful to the eye while in blossom they are no less so when laden with fruit in the rich crimson of its unripe state or when as now growing black and ripe in the sunshine. The shining black of the ripened fruit thrown into contrast by the foliage of dark green would, alone, be sufficient to charm the passer-by, but interspersed here and there by the wild rose, now in full bloom, they give a sense of beauty and of luxury that must have been inspiring to travelers like the great French Author Chateaubriand who in the 18th century came to America in search of health and of material for his books. Before the railroad, the ocean steamer or the telegraph, exploring the pathless Northwest Territory with only an Indian guide, he found here the subject for his novel "Atala," which is read with avidity today by all lovers of scholarly romance.

After a three months' voyage on a sailing vessel he must have come in one of the vehicles drawn by oxen from the Atlantic coast. We know not how long was time spent in this journey, but early settlers tell of being six months in crossing from the Mississippi to western Oregon. In "Atala" there is a glowing description of our part of the state. While here he must have been in ignorance of what was transpiring in his native land, torn then, as it is today, by the ruthless hand of war. We only know that when he returned, invigorated by the American mountain air and laden with honor from his literary toil, it was to find himself alone in the world. All of his family having met the doom that befell the nobility in the revolution of France. The lovely wild roses, the sheltering shadow of the evergreen and the pleasing flavor of the wild fruit, are invested with an added charm in view of the comfort they have afforded to travelers in the past.

Unconditional surrender of the imperial troops seems inevitable.

PEKING, July 11.—The movement to restore Hsuan Tung, the young emperor, to the throne has ended in absolute failure.

Previously, added General Chang Hsun, the military leaders had expressed the need of such a change. But now, concluded the imperialist leader, the project is definitely abandoned, the recent imperial edict is rescinded and the old republican terms and orders are restored.

The new republic centers at Nanjing, where Pen Kwo Chang is provisional president.

Old Folks Saved From Suffering

Mrs. Mary A. Dean, Taunton, Mass., in her 87th year, says: "I thought I was beyond the reach of medicine, but Foley Kidney Pills have proven most beneficial in my case."

Mr. Sam A. Hoover, High Point, N. C., writes: "My kidney trouble was worse at night and I had to get up from five to seven times. Now I do not have to get up at night, and consider myself in a truly normal condition, which I attribute to Foley Kidney Pills, as I have taken nothing else."

Mrs. M. A. Bridges, Robinson, Mass., says: "I suffered from kidney ailments for two years. I commenced taking Foley Kidney Pills ten months ago, and though I am 63 years of age, I feel like a 18-year-old girl."

Foley Kidney Pills are tonic, strengthening and up-building, and restore normal action to the kidneys, not to a disordered and painful bladder. They act quickly and contain no dangerous or harmful drugs.
