These 3000 numbers should inform practically every man subject to call among the first 687,000 men. However, from 5000 upward will be neces sary to cover certain scattered districts. Numbers ran so high that officials were not certain that so few as 2000 would be enough to cover the first call.

At the rate the drawing is proceeding it will be difficult to complete it before 5 o'clock Saturday morning.

Late this afternoon General Crow der announced that the draft would continue until all numbers have been recorded.

The second number drawn was 2522, the third 9613. Chairman Chamber lain of the senate military affairs committee drew the second. Chairman Dent of the house committee the third. Senator Warren, ranking Republican member of the senate military affairs committee picked the fourth; Representative Kahn, ranking Republican member of the hous military affairs committee, the fifth; Acting Chief General Bliss, the sixth; Provost Marshal Crowder, the seventh, and Adjutant General McCain, the eight. The announcers are slowing down, getting hoarse and changing shifts frequently.

Hefore drawing the first number Secretary Baker made a brief speech, in which he explained the purpose of the drawing, and assuring the nation the draft was being conducted with all fairness.

General Crowder, jude-advocate general of the army, also made a short explanation of the mechanical processes by which the names were to be drawn.

Representative Kahn of California drew the highest number among those drawn by the officials. He drew 10. 218. This means he drew only one man, as only one district registered more than 10,000.

When Secretary Baker and other prominent officials had done with the honorary drawing of the first eight numbers, the task was turned over to General Crowder's staff.

The regular staff handled the task boards with the utmost dispatch.

CAVES ARE NEW CLASSROOMS IN FRANCE TODAY

NEW YORK, July 19.-Schools in caves, with pupils and teachers wearing gas masks, are extremes to which war-ridden France has gone to insure for every child "that heritage in which alone is the property of an enduring nation," says an official report to the regents of the university of the state of New York, by John L. Finley, president of the university and state commissioner of education. Mr. Finley recently returned from France, where he studied the effect of the war on the French school system.

France has not for one moment forgotten her culture defense, said President Finley. Women by thousands have taken the places of men teachers called to the fron, many of them, incapacitated from battle, have returned to teach.

DISSENSION OVER A MAN LEADS GIRLS TO SURRENDER AT SALEM

SALEM, Or., July 24.-Quarreling among themselves over a man who was aiding them, two of the girls who escaped Sunday night from the Industrial School for Girls, waiked into Salem about midnight last night, and from a downtown garage telephoned to the school authorities to come after them, and Chief of Police Cooper and Sheriff Needham found the third girl asleep in the dairy barn at the state school for the deaf.

The girls told the officers that two men helped them to escape in an automobile. The girls were brought to Salem and after spending some time in town went out to a dense woods near the school for the deaf. They spent Sunday night in the woods, they said. Monday, they said, they were brought meals by a third man, who caused the trouble which prompted two of the girls to give fflemselves up. One of the girls objected to the man's advances, and the other two sided with him and the row began. The girls told the officers they did
