WITH THE JUNIOR AMERICAN GUARD

Realizing that at some time in the not distant future the United States will be placed permanently on a universal military training basis, the late Captain Andrew C. Zabriskie organized the Junior American Guard, to be composed of boys who would volunteer to fit themselves to fight for their country when called upon. In less than two years more than ten thousand boys, scattered through twenty-three States, have joined the guard. The organization is non-sectarian and there are no dues. Brevet Major General George R. Dyer is president of the Junior American Guard, and his assistants include the best known military men in the country, including Major General Leonard Wood, Colonel William G. Bates and Lieutenant Colonel Sidney Grant.

LESS GOLD SOLD IN OREGON THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 20 .-Although the receipts from Oregon at the mint and smelters at San Francisco show a falling off in output of gold for that state of some $75,000 for the first five months of 1917, as compared with the corresponding period of 1916, it is not an indication that the mines, as a whole, are less prosperous this year than last says the U.
