Wesley Milliken, son of Rev. and Mrs. Milliken, stationed at Fort Stevens, passed the highest physical examination in a class of 2000 men stationed at that place. One of the examining physicians, at the conclusion of the examination, stated that he was a perfect specimen for a soldier. This physician's statement was corroborated by six other physicians who were conducting the examination at Fort Stevens. The Oregon City boys are anxious to see active duty in France.

HUNTERS HAVE GOOD LUCK ON MOUNTAIN TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Calvert and Captain and Mrs. J. H. Porter, who formed a hunting party, have returned to Oregon City, after a ten days' trip spent in the mountains about 80 miles from Roseburg. The party left this city for Roseburg on the Southern Pacific, and from that city packed into the mountains for 30 miles, the women of the party being as good hikers as the men, and were also as good shots. One day's travel, after pitching camp, brought the party into a wild section, and after remaining over night without a tent for a covering. The following morning, after a light breakfast had been partaken of, the hunt for deer was started. Many were seen, but these were in the distance, and too far off to be shot at. The party continued the hunt during the entire day until afternoon, when their efforts were rewarded by getting three deer. The members of the party are planning a similar trip at the opening of the season.

WOLF CREEK HILL IS NOT A POST ROAD SAYS UNCLE SAMMY

SALEM, Or., Sept. 4.—Efforts of the state highway commission to get the government to classify the section of the Pacific highway near Grants Pass, in Josephine county, known as Wolf Creek hill, as a post road for improvement in cooperation with the state, have failed, according to word received by the commission.

The commission has been informed that the secretary of agriculture will not consider the road as a post road, and this will necessitate the highway commission making arrangements for improving the road without the aid of post road funds.

This decision of the secretary of agriculture will also affect the post road work contemplated in Douglas county, between Glendale and the national forest, as similar conditions exist. The government would not accept the state's showing that the road would be used as a star mail route.

This action of the government, however, will not affect the state and government post road cooperation in the elimination of Roberts mountain on the Pacific highway in Douglas county, the highway commission has been advised. A finished macadam road will be built in this connection.

RAID ON HOME OF H. DILLON NETS 45 GALLONS OF WINE

About 45 gallons of home-made wine were seized in a raid on the home of Henry Dillon at Glen Echo station on the Portland Railway north of Oregon City, late Friday afternoon. Sheriff W. J. Wilson, Deputy District Attorney Tom Burke and Deputy Sheriff Joyner were the members of the raiding party.

Dillon had been on a prolonged spree of three or four days' duration and Thursday night drove his wife from the house. Complaint was made and the raid ensued. Upon the protestations of the wife, Dillon was not taken into custody, but he is being closely watched and will be arrested upon the first offense.

Dillon dumped part of the liquor into a sink when the officers appeared. According to his story, the liquor was left in the house by previous occupants. He says that he found the wine when he moved there three days ago, sampled it, and it was worth drinking, he claims.

SPOKANE MAN HELD FOR OBTAINING LAND ON FALSE PRETENSES

C. H. Felsenstein, of Spokane, was bound over to the grand jury Friday and is held in jail here in default of $250 cash bail, on a charge of obtaining property under false pretenses.

According to the complaint, Felsenstein traded land in Benton county for a five acre farm near here which the owner, Henry Kerbs, claims is worth $10,000. Upon investigation it was found that much of the Benton county land did not belong to him, Kerbs alleges.
