ABERNETHY GRANGE
DRAWS BIG CROWD
IN FRIDAY'S SESSION

Abernethy Grange, held a very useful and interesting session Friday in spite of the fact that the main speaker of the day, Rev. J. W. MacCallum, of this city, failed to keep his promise to appear before the grange. The leading speaker was County Agriculturist Werner, who spoke of his special work of educating the farmer to see the advantage of the help of specialists, and then giving them that special help, which in his case was the use of lime and commercial fertilizers, and testing lands therefor. He promised to get lime at $6 a ton in carload lots for the farmers, and expects much from the projected state lime plant. Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson, the veteran grangers, who every Saturday for 10 years have attended some grange, spoke on phases of grange work, and its great advantages as a social organization. Their suggestion of having a grange hostess was immediately put into execution, and Mrs. Ida Kittenhouse was appointed to the position. State Secretary Howard spoke on the state session. Grange master Dye took Rev. MacCallum's place and spoke on the war, emphasizing that this was a war for liberty, and should be prosecuted with vigor. He showed that fully 50 percent of the Germans were striving for that very liberty which was ours, and that when the liberty forces get together some wonderful things are sure to happen. Among other things that were taken up is the holding of a grange picnic in the near future, and Red Cross work. Attendance was fair in spite of the epidemic of sickness, which has put several of the leading members either in quarantine or hospital.

FOR BACK SALARY

An action was filed in the circuit court on October first in which Frank I. Paul is plaintiff and school district No. 105 of Clackamas county—C. B. Nelson, Frank Capen and Geo. Thompson, trustees, the defendants. The petition further recites that the plaintiff was engaged as teacher by the district for the school year of 1914 and 1915 at a salary of $100 per month, and that soon after election he applied for a temporary certificate but the county superintendent, by a mistake, issued a permit only. Paul then submitted his certificates and credits to the superintendent of public instruction, who, the complaint alleges, stated that he was entitled to a certificate to teach, but wished to investigate the certificate and credits and later informed the plaintiff Paul that the certificate could not be issued without examination. Paul goes on to state in his action that the school district agreed he should continue his year as teacher, which he did, but that nothing was paid him after February, 1915, and that the school district owes him the sum of $333.90. Stipp, Brownell and Stevers appear as attorneys for the plaintiff.
