

Newsy Briefs From All Over the County

Macksburg

MACKSBURG, Ore., Dec. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bowers, have returned from Montana, bringing with them their invalid daughter, Mrs. Schaufel, in the hope that a return to her native climate may do more for her restoration to health than medical skill has so far, been able to accomplish.

Mrs. Kate Seward, who has been staying in Portland, with her daughter, Mrs. White, has returned to her home. Mrs. Seward's only son is coming to spend the winter with her.

Miss Olga Seward is employed in Eastern Washington.

The sale of Lorne Masterton's live stock and farm implements was a most successful one, the proceeds reaching a higher amount than was expected. Mr. Masterton is one of four U. S. volunteers. His many friends are unanimous in wishing him a safe return from and a prosperous career after the war.

Mr. Garrett, a brother of the veterinary surgeon of that name, is with his family, occupying the place vacated by Mr. Masterton.

A drive along the Canby road shows a number of new buildings, put up since the beginning of the year. A fine new dwelling has gone up on Mr. Winegar's place. George Koch and Mrs. Henry Brush have each a fine new barn. A new granary has made its appearance on the ranch of Henry Herkamp and Mr. Seward is about to begin improvements on his home. Further south a new dwelling is being built for Mrs. Evans by her two sons, and Simon Miller's new garage is finished.

Each of our public schools received in the past week its annual allotment of new books from the State Library association. Not every one may estimate the value of this yearly distribution of new and attractive books in a rural community. To say nothing of the delight they bring to the genuine book-lover, they are highly calculated to inculcate a love for the better literature in those who hitherto have been strangers to the charm. No corner of the earth is so well adapted to foster the love of books as is the one which has a regular season of protracted rain. The many days that must be spent within doors would be unbearable without pastime of some kind. Among the diversions that we can afford, reading holds first rank and it is incumbent upon us to see that the literature consumed in our homes is of a kind to leave its readers, at the end of the winter's reign, richer in information, stronger in mental power, keener in perception and higher in principle than ever before. In this timely contribution of the state library association readers as valuable aid and must receive most hearty gratitude from every resident of our state. The drenching rain of Thanksgiving day was far from extinguishing the fires of gratitude in our hearts. Though deterred from attending distant services, the family and social reunions at home were not omitted, and Thanksgiving dinners were partaken of with as deep a gratification as we could have had in church.

Barlow

BARLOW, Ore., Dec. 6.—Thanksgiving day here was a quiet one, nearly everybody remaining at home and Hooverizing with a plain but good dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Larson received the sad news Thanksgiving day of the death of their grandson, 7-year-old son of Charlie Larson, who was drowned in a lake. The child was missing three days and the parents living near the lake feared he might have fallen in. The lake was dragged and the body of the little fellow found. Charles and family were to have spent Thanksgiving with his parents here. They have the sympathy of this community.

Mrs. Ada Andrus spent her 82nd birthday on Thanksgiving day, by inviting some of her friends to eat dinner with her. Mrs. Andrus' cooking and serving the dinner herself.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Morton, Jr., are visiting at the Geo. Ziegler home, on their return trip from Alaska, where they have been for the summer. The Morton home is in California, near Los Angeles. Mrs. Morton, Sr., and Miss Julia Ziegler were raised together from childhood to grown women.
