EBSON BABY DIES.

Under a smiling April sky, the little body of Shannon Hugh Eason was laid away in the Sandy cemetery Monday afternoon. W. J. Wirtz spoke briefly and the Misses Kate and Mary Junker and R. S. Smith sang several appropriate songs. The little mound was completely buried under heaps of beautiful flowers.

The local institute held at the I. O. O. F. hall last Saturday was a success in every way and does credit to the ones behind it. The choruses were well rendered. Little Dorothy Eason's song was splendid, and the song by the grade girls in their old time costumes and powdered hair, showed the result of pains taking care on the part of the teachers. The solos by Mrs. John Waldron, accompanied by Mrs. John Risley, were doubly appreciated.

A ripple of excitement was occasioned in our little city last Saturday evening when an old man appeared on the streets who had the semblance of being out of civilization for years. He was unshaved and his hair was so long that he braided it and it hung down like a school girl's. He was harmless, however, just an eccentric old man who buried himself in the mountains and only came out to civilization at long intervals.

UNION MEN DENOUNCED IN COUNCIL RESOLUTION

Denouncing in scathing tones what he termed the efforts of striking mill workers in Oregon City to keep union men from donating free work on the construction of the Liberty Temple here and urging that criminal action be taken against the agitators, Councilman Henry Templeton introduced a resolution before the city council Wednesday night condemning all such conduct. The measure was unanimously adopted.

"I think every one of these loafers should be put to work upon the rock pile," said Councilman Fred Metzner. "They are producing nothing and are consuming as much as working men and at the same time trying to keep other workers from earning. I noticed Baker has taken drastic measures against such conduct and I am preparing a measure to submit to the council which is along the lines of the action taken by the city government of Baker."

The council's action was caused by a report of the efforts of a mill striker to keep union carpenters from working on the Liberty Temple. This building is a patriotic edifice, built by contributed labor and of material given by various people in Clackamas county.

Following is the resolution: "Whereas, the United States of America, the mother of democracies, is now engaged in a life and death struggle against the unspeakable Hun as personified by the Kaiser and Von Hindenberg his commander-in-chief, together with their vassal empires, for the re-establishment of the rights of mankind on the European Continent, for the protection of small nationalities, and for our own safety and well-being, and

"Whereas, the burden of this conflict of democracy on the one hand and autocracy on the other is now resting and will continue to rest upon the shoulders of the American nation and her people, and the time has come when anything un-American and un-patriotic cannot be and will not be tolerated by patriotic American people, and

"Whereas, there is no 'no-man's land' in America and whoever is not for our government is against it, now, therefore be it

"Resolved, by the common council of Oregon City in regular session assembled, that we do hereby most emphatically condemn all pro-Hun propaganda, sabotage and criminal syndacalism, and all expressions by word

Roosevelt Nephew Would Force All Idlers to Work

SEN. THEODORE DOUGLAS ROBINSON

Senator Theodore Douglas Robinson, member of the New York state senate, and nephew of Colonel Roosevelt, has introduced a bill to require all idlers, rich and poor to go to work. He insists the fact that a man has enough money to maintain himself without work is not sufficient, and that in these war times he must do enough to pay his way.

or act of anything unpatriotic and un-American; that we hereby further condemn I. W. Wism in all forms, whether traveling under its true name or whether veneered by some more attractive and catchy title; we further condemn slackers in all forms, whether misers, idlers, agitators, hyphenates, pacifists, camouflagers of patriotism, all of which go to strengthen the hands of the Kaiser and to weaken the stability of our government, and be it further

"Resolved, that we do hereby further condemn, any and all persons, who in this hour of peril to democracy, stand idly by and do no work or help to produce, but only consume and thereby either directly or indirectly impede and hinder the war program of our government, who together with the food profiteer, and the man who refuses to liberally and freely loan his funds to our government for the purpose of conducting this war, is a slacker in the same degree as a deserter at the front, be it further

"Resolved that a copy of this Resolution be spread upon our minutes, and a further copy thereof be furnished to the public press."

The following statement was issued Wednesday night, after the council meeting, by R. A. Junker, business agent of the Carpenters' Union.

"There seems to be a misunderstanding regarding the attitude of union carpenters of this city toward the building of the Liberty Loan Temple.

The story has gotten out that Price Bros. crew have refused to work on the Temple. As this is being repeated in such a manner as to reflect on Price Bros., thereby injuring their business, it is unfair. Price Bros. not only have nothing to do with union men not working on the Temple but Al Price told the writer that if 'the powers that be' would give his foreman charge of the work he would put his whole crew out on the job.

"The facts are as follows: On Monday just at quitting time C. A. Miller came into the new Price store and told some of the union men that they were wanted to help build the Temple evenings after working hours, expecting, of course that they would donate their labor. One man asked him who was to have charge of the work and he said P. D. Forbes and Harry Jones. As these men are both considered very unfair to organized labor, Mr. Miller was informed that the union carpenters would not work under them. At the same time he was told that if he, representing the city,

FOOD WILL WIN THE WAR

Great Shooter Is He

Mr. Miller said he had nothing to do with the arrangements and could not help it. The next morning the writer again begged Mr. Miller to try and straighten the matter out so that union men could donate their services, but was told it could not be helped. There are 77 union carpenters in Oregon City and so far only one has gone to work with the other bunch.

"However at a meeting held April 3 the local union decided to put a crew on the building on April 4.

The committee in charge of the Liberty Temple has authorized the following statement:

"We are greatly pleased at the action taken by the Carpenters' Union and regret the misunderstanding which seems to have been the result of misinformation all around. There was no intention on the part of anyone to stir up trouble.

The decision to build the Temple for the Liberty loan committee was taken hastily and, at the first opportunity, in Tuesday morning's Enterprise, the proposition was placed before the people with a picture of the proposed building and volunteer carpenters, plasterers, painters, and helpers called for.

"Mr. Green, in behalf of the plasterers, has volunteered his services and Mr. Fox, in behalf of the painters likewise.

"The decision and spirit of the carpenters this evening clears up the matter, and we are pleased that all will work together for a cause that is greater than local differences."

LONG, A TRANSIENT PLEADS GUILTY TO LARCENY OF CHECK

J. H. Long, a transient who has been employed for the past few days in one of the local paper mills, pleaded guilty Wednesday to the larceny of a check, and was sentenced to 30 days in jail and assessed a $50 fine by Judge Sievers.

Long, either found or stole the check, in the sum of $10.00, endorsed a fictitious name on it and cashed it in at a local restaurant. He was arrested Tuesday evening and when first arraigned today pleaded not guilty, claiming that he received the check in the course, cashing it for a "stranger" who approached him on the street. Long had made good the check with the local merchants prior to his arrest. On this account a forgery charge was not lodged against him by the district attorneys office, being charged with simple larceny of the check. He finally changed his plea before Judge Sievers, and the jail sentence will be suspended at any time he raises the fine.

LAWRENCE MULLIGAN RECENTLY ENLISTED SUMMONED TO COLORS

Salem, Or., April 3.—In an opinion by Justice Moore, the supreme court today affirmed Judge J. U. Campbell, of the lower court for Clackamas county, in the case of D. W. Olds against Edwin D. Olds, appellant. Relative to the contention of the appellant that the complaint was insufficient in failing to allege that defendant at the time of the accident had been relieved from the obligations of the industrial accident insurance by filing with the commission a written notice of his election, not to be subject to the provisions of that statute, the opinion quotes from the statute and says: "Our statute creating the industrial accident commission does not proclaim any presumption in favor of or against an employer or any other person, and hence it was unnecessary to allege in the complaint that the defendant prior to the injury had declared his election, in the manner prescribed, not to contribute to the industrial accident fund."

Lawrence F. Mulligan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mulligan, who recently enlisted in the Base Hospital Corps, Unit 46, was summoned to join his company, and on Saturday left for Camp Lewis, where he will have temporary quarters.

Lawrence Mulligan entered the service of the Southern Pacific Company when a lad of 15 years at Springfield, Oregon. He had just completed his course of study at the Springfield high school, and was placed in the office of the railroad company. He was gradually promoted and later transferred to Junction City, Oregon, where he was employed for a year, and later came to Oregon City. He was cashier and clerk for the railroad company for three years in Oregon City, and last fall was given the position of traveling auditor with headquarters at Seattle, and a month ago he was promoted.

Lawrence Mulligan is one of the prominent young men of this city, and his friends here have promised him many delicacies when he arrives "over there." He spent the last day in Oregon City bidding his friends adieu before his departure for France, which he believes he will be soon.
