THOMAS IS PEEVED

Pet Cat at Jack Bros. Rosents Fire in Stove at Store

"Thomas" gave a yell that could be heard across the street and he jumped from the stove, with his feet badly burned, and made his escape from the building. CITY NOT COMPELLED TO CALL AN ELECTION

The city will not be compelled to call a special election to amend the charter to provide an appeal from the city to the circuit court. This was the ruling of Circuit Judge Campbell in dismissing the writ of mandamus brought by Roy Ott, prominent union leader and others, against the city fathers and Recorder Loder.

On February 2, a petition carrying 15 per cent of the legal voters was filed with the council, demanding that a special election be called to vote up on a charter amendment providing such an appeal. Instead of complying with the petitioners the council tabled the petition, and Roy Ott, with others, brought mandamus proceedings on the ground that Ordinance No. 682, defining initiative and referendum powers, in the city charter, should be construed as mandatory upon the part of the officials. Judge Campbell held differently.

City Attorney Story argued that the court had no jurisdiction of the subject matter and further that the adoption of such an amendment would be void, in that it would impose additional burdens upon the state, by the municipal corporation, on the ground that circuit court is a state institution.

Judge Campbell's ruling will also affect the recent petition which was filed asking the council to purchase a fire truck for the city. This was filed under similar circumstances and the council likewise refused to take any action.

The petition was originally circulated by the paper mill union in an effort to provide a method of appeal from the decisions in the local recorder's court, in cases resulting from the present paper mill strike.

David Hardy and wife are the plaintiffs in an equitable proceeding against Geo. A. Ostrum and Jessie A. This complaint charges that in 1912, the plaintiffs entered into a lease at an agreed stipulation of $50.00 per month, with an option to purchase the property, with the defendants, and that up to January, 1916, the defendants lived up to their part of the agreement in every way. From that date on, however, it is charged, that defendants defaulted, and under the terms of the lease have forfeited all rights in the place. The defendants, however, are still willing to let the defendant purchase the place upon payment of the sum of $921.54, and ask the court to require Olson to tender this amount together with accrued interest and taxes, within sixty days, or forfeit all rights and title to the place.
