SOCIALISTS SAW GERMANY'S ERROR

Urged That Inhuman Deportations Be Stopped Because of Effect on Neutrals.

GERARD SUMS UP SITUATION

by the whole world over the ruthless fourteen and sixty to work in munition deportations of the people in Belgium and France, socialist deputies are being taken, only the school teach WANTED-A serviceable Durham or in the reichstag protested against ers, doctors, and priests escaping." the continuance of the practice, Ambassador Gerard's evidence shows the extent of the horror.

In the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung of December 2, 1916, the following protests against the deportation of Belgians to work in German, appeared, made, respectively, by Socialist Deputy Hanse and Deputy Dittmann, members of the reichstag:

"Thousands of workmen in the occupied territory have been compelled to forced labor; we earnestly ask the government to restore to these workmen their liberty, especially in Belglum. In truth, we (the Germans) find no sympathy in neutral countries; even the pope has made a protest against this procedure, and several neutral states have done the same. Common sense itself demands that we abandon this procedure which moreover is in opposition to the Hague convention to which we have agreed."

"In opposition to the secretary of state, I must recall that when formerly the Belgian workmen who had fied to Holland returned to Belgium, Governor General von Bissing promised that these Belgian workmen would under no circumstances be deported to Germany. This reassuring promise has not been kept."

Ambassador Gerard's interesting testimony appears in his recent book :

Ambassador Gerard's Evidence. 'ine president (during my visit to America in 1916) impressed upon me nts great interest in the Belgians de ported to Germany. The action of Germany in thus carrying a great part of the male population of Belgium into German capacity for blundering, alvirtual slavery had roused great indignation in America. As the revered Cardinal Farley said to me a few days before my departure, You have to go back to the times of the Medes and the Persians to find a like example of

"Mr. Grew had made representations about this to the chancellor and, on my return, I immediately took up the question.

"I was informed that it was a military measure, that Ludendorf had feared that the British would break through and overrun Belgium and that the military did not propose to have a hostile population at their backs who might cut the rail lines of commun.

ward as amongst the neutrals. Many times and more and more we have had occusion to observe that the newtrals show more sympathy for Belgium than for any other belligerent," Old Men and Boys Taken.

The news dispatches indicate that the deportation and forced labor of Belgfans still continue. In a dispatch from Havre (New York Evening Post, September 13, 1917) it is stated; "The removal of the civilian population of Belgium continues, according to ailvices received here. The town of Rouees, Immediately behind the battle · in Flanders, has been evacuated opletely. Ostend is being emptied andually, and two thousand persons already have been sent from Courtml." In another dispatch from Havre But-er, (Washington Post, September 24, 1917) it is stated what "the German military authorities at Bruges, Belgium, are conscripting forcibly all the boys and Aroused by the indignation shown men of that city between the ages of factories and shipyards. The rich and poor, shopkeepers and workmen, all

German Officer Rebuked Men. The following "Order of the Day" shows how the town of Huy escaped the fate of so many Belgium and French towns. Drunken German soldiers were frightened and began to shoot men and hurn houses. The commanding officer condemned this be cause it was not done by his order and because two German soldiers were wounded. It is evident that massacres and arson were permitted only when commanded by the officers. "Last night a shooting affray took place. There is no evidence that the inhubitants of the towns had any arms in their houses, nor is there evidence that the people took part in the shooting; on the contrary, it seems that the soldiers were under the influence of alcohol, and began to shoot in a senseless fear of a hostile attack.

"The behavior of the soldiers during the night, with very few exceptions. makes a scandalous impression.

"It is highly deplorable when officers RIVER FROM OREGON CITY. Belgians Forced to Make Munitions. "Several of these Belgians who were put to work to Berlin managed to get away and come to see me. They gave me a harrowing account of how they had been sefzed in Belgium and made to work in Germany at making munitions to be used probably against their own friends.

"I said to the chancellor, "There are Belgians employed in making shells Hague conventions.' He said, 'I do not believe it.' I said, 'My automobile is at the door. I can take you, in four minutes, to where 30 Belgians are working on the manufacture of shells." But he did not find time to go.

"Americans must understand that the Germans will stop at nothing to win this war, and that the only thing they respect is force."-James W. Gerard, My Four Years in Germany, 191. pp. 3951-52.

A similar point of view is expressed in an article entitled "Vae Victis" from the Hungarian newspaper Newszawa of Budapest (quoted in K. G. Ossiannilsson, Militarism at Work in Belgium and Germany, 1917, pp. 53-54.)

Mixed Hungarian Opinion. "Mechanical skill, and especially qualified mechanical skill, is for the moment a more important factor than usual, and as it must be obtained where it can be obtained. Belgium has had to suffer in accordance with the old saying which always holds good : Vae victis (woe to the vanouished). In Poland mechanical skill and the arms which exist there are mobilized under the glorious and fortunate banners of Poland :' in Belgium under 'the banner of necessity.""

". . . The question remains; for what kind of work will the Germanuse the Belgians? . . . every kind of work in Germany is war work, wheth er it is called agricultural or indus trial work. As the deported Belginnhave not given their consent, their us is contrary to international law, and the policy of the Germans in Belgium and Poland is equally to be deplored.
