

SLACKERS FIND LITTLE COMFORT OR SAFETY IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY

Merle Jones, who cut off his finger to keep out of the army, was escorted into active service by Sheriff Wilson, who took the young Melino tad to Camp Lewis Thursday and turned him over to the authorities.

Jones has just completed a 60-day sentence in the federal jail following his conviction before Judge Bean, Jones, at the time of the act, had just been married a few weeks and he and his young wife connived the scheme thinking he would not be eligible for army service. He chopped the index finger of his right hand off at the first joint with an ax.

Patrolman Ed Surfus, who picked up two Camp Lewis deserters Tuesday night took the boys over to Vancouver Thursday and turned them over to military authorities where they will face court martial proceedings, and probably be given a severe sentence. Surfus will receive $100 from the government for making the arrests.

UNIQUE SENTENCE IS METED UEL PARKER BY JUDGE CAMPBELL

Society will not be forced to care for a certain nameless walf, if the sentence of Judge Campbell, pronounced upon Uel Parker, of Hood River, is carried out.

Parker Monday pleaded guilty to a statutory charge brought by District Attorney Hedges under the 1917 illegitimate child act, the complaining witness being the daughter of a Clackamas county farmer, Judge Campbell on yesterday held—probably the first sentence of its kind in Oregon—that Parker must pay the mother of the unborn child the sum of $100 per year for the next two years, and the sum of $150 per year for each subsequent year until his child is of the age of 14 years. In default of such payment or unless he can give sufficient bond to cover these payments, he is to be confined in jail.

Parker was unable to arrange either bonds or payment and was locked up by Sheriff Wilson immediately following the sentence.

FURTHER PROOF OF GERMANS' DUPLICITY

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 10.—"Prussianism and the idea of enduring peace among nations can never be brought into harmony; compromise cannot even be considered," Robert Lansing, secretary of state, declared here today in an address as honorary chancellor of Union college for 1918. Instance after instance from his own experiences at the head of America's foreign office was cited to prove his point because, he asserted, "Americans, even those intellectually equipped, have but vague ideas of the attitude which made Prussianism possible."

"It is a fact not generally known," said Secretary Lansing, "that within six weeks after the imperial government had, in the case of the Sussex, given this government its solemn promise that it would cease ruthless slaughter upon the high seas, Count Bernstorff, appreciating the worthlessness of the promise, asked the Berlin foreign office to advise him in ample time before the campaign of submarine murder was renewed, in order that he might notify the German merchant ships in American ports to destroy their machinery, because he anticipated that the renewal of that method of warfare would in all probability, bring the United States into the war."

The causes of the war, Mr. Lansing said, were simply the German desire for world dominion.

"That was and is the central thought of Prussianism," he said. "It excited the cupidity of the governing and wealthy classes of the empire; it dazzled with its anticipated glories and by its promise of a boasted racial superiority the German millions who were to be the instrument of achievement. With a devotion and zeal worthy of better cause, they turned their energy into those channels which would aid the ruling class."

"We must go on with the war. There is no other way. This task must not be left half done. We must not transmit to posterity a legacy of blood and misery. We may in this great conflict go down into the valley of shadows because our foe is powerful and inured to war. We must be prepared to meet disappointment and temporary reverse, but we must, with American spirit, rise above them; with courageous hearts we must go forward until this war is won."

SCIENTISTS MARVEL AT WONDERFUL SHADOWS

BAKER, Or., June 8.—When the moon this afternoon on schedule time darkened the face of the sun for a period of one minute and 53 seconds persons in the path of totality of the eclipse enjoyed or suffered all the many thrills and sensations which tradition connects with the heavenly spectacle. In the wierd darkness of mid-afternoon, observers marveled feared or experienced a combination of emotions indescribable, as the phenomenon affected them.

Despite knowledge that nature was merely doing the expected and looked-for, it was impossible to throw off a feeling that it was a solemn occasion, that the wierd darkening of the sun was the working of a supernatural power and that the end of time had come. It was overpowering and awe-inspiring; it was an experience none privileged to pass through will ever forget.

Expectant and eager only to see the spectacle, previous to the passing, people were excited and talkative. As the sun's light began to darken and birds sought their nests and chickens their roosts and the chill of twilight descended, the feeling changed, conversation ceased and all felt the influence of the impending demonstration of nature as something of grave portent of mysterious meaning.

The nerves tightened and expectancy rose, yet, with all, there was feeling of awe as if disaster was at hand and as stars began to twinkle in mid-afternoon it was fearsome.

Then as the moon's face began almost completely to cover the sun's surface, the tense feeling seemed to relax. The wonderfully beautiful solar corona began to appear and as its pearly light radiated from behind the dark shadow of the moon, an overpowering feeling of witnessing a divine revelation took hold of one. Its beautiful tints and colors, radiating from the scintillating mass of light, was a marvelous spectacle and a slight which burned its details into the mind of an observer never to be forgotten and, to the ordinary person, almost indescribable.

Strawberries Will Remain At High Price All Season

H. L. Morrell, of Willamette, one of the prominent strawberry growers of Clackamas county, is harvesting his crop of berries. Mr. Morrell says that the crop will be somewhat short this year owing to the dry weather, and also to the aphid trouble that is prevailing in many yards. Mr. Morrell has four and one-half acres of land in strawberries. Two of the varieties are the Gold Dollar and the Marshall. Both of these varieties are of excellent quality, and sweet in flavor, but the wholesale price remains somewhat high, thus allowing very few people to purchase these for canning purposes. The wholesale price at the present time is $2.50 per crate, and it is believed by the strawberry growers that the price of berries will not be any lower than $2.00 by the close of the season.

Morrell is averaging 38 crates per day, and has about ten pickers. The berries are easily marketed here, and it is not necessary for the growers to go elsewhere than the local markets to market their produce.

ONE BLOW WITH A PIECE OF HOSE COST ANDY FROMONG NICE SUM

Andy Fromong, who pleaded guilty to a state charge of assault and battery, in Judge Campbell's court Wednesday, was sentenced Thursday morning to pay a fine of $50.00, and the costs of the action. On payment of the costs the fine will be remitted.

Fromong and Chas. Snelwood had an altercation on a street car in Willamette last winter and Fromong struck Snelwood a vicious blow on the head with a piece of hose. The trouble grew out of the strike conditions at the time. Fromong was indicted by the April grand jury, and pleaded guilty at the conclusion of the evidence taken at his trial Wednesday in the circuit court.

AUTOIST FINED FOR DANGEROUS DRIVING IN CITY

City Recorder John W. Loder yesterday fined Stan Bogueki $10, on a charge preferred by Chief of Police Henry Cooke, for reckless driving of an automobile. Bogueki, according to the charge of the officer, was turning his machine from Seventh street onto the approach of the bridge, and failed to heed the pedestrians that were crossing the street just ahead of him. As a consequence of his not slowing up, he struck and knocked down Mrs. Mary Cheister. She was not badly hurt and was able to walk away, but the Chief of Police, who was nearby, took him in for his negligence. The chief is insistent that the traffic rules be strictly followed, and he has his eye on a number of other habitual violators of the city ordinances.

BLACK WALNUT TREES VALUABLE FOR GREAT AGE

In the matter of the damage suit of the Ganong estate versus the State Highway Commission, novel evidence was introduced at a recent session of the tribunal. This was a cross section of a three foot black walnut tree, for the destruction of which the Highway Commission is held as liable by the estate trustees. It is maintained by those familiar with the case that the loss of the trees is a decided setback as a black walnut tree of the dimensions of these magnificent growths, is the product of a life-time. It is said that there is no comparison between a black walnut tree and a maple, as regards value—due to the great length of time required for maturity.

This Formula Said To Be Effective On Plant Bugs

As many farmers of Clackamas county, as well as local people, are complaining of worms destroying the cabbage plants. Mrs. Harry Wilson, of Gladstone, is offering a formula for destroying the pests. This is made by using a teaspoonful of salt per quart, dissolved in a gallon of water. Sprinkle this on and around the plants, and it will readily kill the worms eating these plants.

Mrs. Wilson has also found a way to prepare rolled oats that will be greatly appreciated by the housewives, who are using the same. To soak the rolled oats in water overnight will soften them, and requires less cooking, and when cooked are much more palatable than if not soaked.

BUSINESS HOUSE CHANGES HANDS IN RECENT DEAL

E. B. Anderson, who has been in the confectionery business in Oregon City for the past nine and one-half years, sold his confectionery store Saturday morning to Julius Goldsmith, of Eugene. Mr. Goldsmith took possession Saturday afternoon. He is the eldest son of Mrs. A. Mr. Anderson will also help his father, E. A. Anderson, of Maple Lane, with his farm work, and later will take up his residence at his beautiful home at Mel-drum. This was formerly owned by J. E.
