Macksburg

MEADOWBROOK, Aug. 22.—P. O. richest month in all the year, bringing us the beginning of the reward for the Spring planting and Summer warfare against our harvest's foes, the battle with weeds and all noxious growth, the struggle to keep our soil from turning into adamant, the anxious watching through parching drouth and the conflict with insect pests, is in its latest half.

The fruit, which from the time of the late Spring frosts has been confronted by its several enemies and has come off victorious, is ripening fast and in such abundance that despite the vigorous drying, preserving and its wholesale consumption by the rising generation, can not wholly escape waste.

The birds, whose warble was so content in the nesting time are, with few exceptions, silent now; but that only affords more opportunity to give attention and appreciative hearing to the few who still keep up their song. The meadow lark, who, we know, is reserving his gayest tone for the dark days of winter, sings often enough to tell us that he has not lost his charm and that nothing will tempt him into accompanying his rivals to the far-off sunny South.

The roses, since their early profusion in May and June and their annual rest in July, are opening in renewed beauty and are assuring us that not until December frosts have come shall we be deprived of their loveliness and cheer.

Regularly the thresher whistle blows reminding us of the work which is to provide us and our brave soldiers over the sea with the staff of life. Promptly, very promptly, does the whistle sound to announce the meal-strewned toll are to be satisfied by

FANCY PARASOLS ARE PASSE

Attractive Colored Umbrellas Have the Call for Best and Every-day Use.

Don't buy a fancy parasol this year. This is the advice given by an authority on the sunshine question.

The automobile is partly to blame for the decline of the parasol, and the rugged outdoor life so many women lead is another reason why parasols are no longer carried. There are no few of the "Lydia Languish" type of woman these busy days that the attractive colored umbrellas are used for best and every day for rain and shine, and there is no need for parasols.

There is a certain type of woman, however, who will refuse to part with the parasol. She is the kind that 15 years ago, or such a matter, carried three or four elaborate parasols when she went on an out-of-town visit, strapped together with a leather buckle, on which was a silver or gold plate bearing her initials. The thin white China silk ones were about as much protection from the sun's hot rays as are transparent hats.

The new umbrellas, however, are just as pretty as were their parasol predecessors. They are of the most brilliant or subdued colors, green, blue, wine, red, brown, gold or purple, with or without a fancy border. The handles, of course, are the short stubby ones which really are sensible, and are held comfortably on the arm by a hoop of cord, ribbon or a ring handle of ivory or celluloid.

About the only new parasols sold now are those for little girls, or the tiny motorcar sunshades.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever.
