CITY COUNCIL PAYS HOMAGE TO LATE MEMBER

At a special meeting of the city council Wednesday night Mayor Hackett appointed Raymond Caulfield to fill the unexpired term of the late Captain M. D. Phillips as city treasurer. The appointment was confirmed by the council, which voted to attend the funeral of Mr. Phillips in a body and adopted the following resolution:

A RESOLUTION

That Whereas, it has pleased the Supreme Ruler to remove from our midst and association our friend and fellow official, Captain M. D. Phillips, and

Whereas, Captain Phillips has long been a resident of our state, and of this city, and has always proved himself a faithful friend and conscientious and upright citizen, and in his association in an official way with the members of the city government, in the conduct of municipal affairs, he has at all times been ready and willing to do his part in whatever capacity he was called upon, and he has ably and conscientiously discharged his trust as a city official, and

Whereas, his sudden and unexpected calling off was a shock to his friends, family and fellow officials, and we, and they, can hardly realize that he will never more be with us, and that the places and people who have known and loved him will know him no more.

Therefore, he is resolved that in the death of Captain Phillips, our city and state has lost one of its most useful and energetic citizens, his country one of its bravest and best defenders, and his wife and daughter, a faithful and devoted husband and father.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the city council of Oregon City, and that a copy be sent to the widow of our deceased friend and associate, and the city press be presented a copy thereof, and as a mark of our respect, that the flag over the city hall be placed at half mast for thirty days.

Passed by the council Oct. 30th, 1918.

Approved, E. C. HACKETT, Mayor.

Attest: John W. Loder, Recorder.

LARGE NUMBER ARE EMPLOYED IN SHIP YARDS OF OREGON

Twenty-eight thousand and eighty-six men employed in the 15 yards of the Columbia river district, according to the census taken by Judge J. H. Stevenson of the division of demerits and transfers of the Emergency Fleet corporation. In the 11 industrial plants allied with the shipbuilding industry are 6586 more, making a total of 32,692 men engaged in the shipbuilding industry in this district, which includes Portland, St. Helens, Columbia City, Astoria and Tillamook, Oregon and Vancouver, Wash.

Of the 28,086 shipworkers, there are but 4660 in deferred classification under the draft. Of these but 1617 are class 1 men; 514 are class 2; class 3 has 210; class 4 has 1719 and class 5 has 5660.

In the industrial plants 961 of the 6586 employes are deferred because of their employment, placed by draft board as follows: Class 1, 248; class 2, 104; class 3, 25; class 4, 369; class 5, 153.

ALBERTA L. DUNN For County Treasurer

Alberta L. Dunn, of Oregon City, Oregon, and present County Treasurer, is the Republican candidate for the above office at the General Election, November 5th, 1918.

NO. ON BALLOT 58

Miss Dunn has had more than three years experience in the Treasurer's office—as chief deputy and as County Treasurer; having been appointed by the County Court to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of her father, M. E. Dunn.

Miss Dunn is well qualified by experience to hold the position for which she is a candidate; and has very aptly chosen as her slogan, "My past experience, my qualification." (Paid Advt.)

J. U. CAMPBELL DESERVES VOTES OF THIS COUNTY

Supreme Justice Campbell.

Sounds good, doesn't it? All right, then listen.

Clackamas county has better than 14,000 registered voters, embracing Republicans, Democrats, Socialists, Prohibitionists and Independents.

If all of these 14,000 men and women have a deep-rooted loyalty for a Clackamas county candidate for a state office, they will not forget to go to the polls November 5 and write in the name of J. U. Campbell for associate justice of the state supreme court to succeed the late Frank A. Moore.

The people of Clackamas county do not need to be informed about the judicial qualifications and personal fitness of Judge Campbell for the office he seeks. He has been on the bench here nine and one-half years and his record is exceptional, and he deserves promotion.

The vote for Justice Moore's successor is going to be light, as many people will not take the trouble to write in a name on the ballot, but if the 14,000 voters of this county will be particular to vote on Tuesday, November 5, for Judge Campbell, it is more than probable his election will be assured.

This is not only a matter of loyalty to one of our own citizens, but it will also be a due recognition of the attainments of Judge Campbell.

If Judge Campbell should lose this election by a few hundred votes, and it may be very close, you would feel some responsibility should you fail to go to the polls, wouldn't you?

All right, then vote for Campbell. Write in his name in the space provided on the official ballot and place a cross in front of his name, and you'll feel better for having done it.

POPULAR YOUNG LADY IS MARRIED THURSDAY TO WASHINGTON BOY

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Belsell, of 614 Jackson Street, when Miss Tessie Sims, daughter of Mrs. Belsell, became the bride of Private George Henry Scheivette, of Vancouver Barracks. Rev. W. T. Milliken, pastor of the Baptist church, officiated in the presence of only relatives.

The bride was prettily gowned in blue silk. The rooms of the Belsell home were prettily decorated with cut flowers. Shortly after the marriage ceremony about 50 friends of the bride, who had been "in on the secret" of the marriage, slipped quietly to the Belsell home, and took the bridegroom and his bride by surprise. Refreshments were served, and the remainder of the evening was spent socially.

The bride accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Belsell to Oregon City from Springfield, Oregon, last February, and is one of the most popular employees of the Oregon City Woolen mills, and since making her home in this city has won a host of friends.

The bridegroom is a Washington young man, and entered the service some time ago. He expects to leave for overseas duty within a month. He has resumed his duties at the Barracks in Vancouver, and his bride will remain here during his absence.

The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Scheivette is the culmination of a pretty romance of about six months ago.

HUSBAND IS LAZY MAKES NO PROVISION WIFE WANTS DIVORCE

Two suits for divorce were filed here yesterday, Ada Doores, who was married at Marquam November 5, 1893, to W. W. Doores, charging him with cruel and inhuman treatment and the use of intoxicants to excess. She says he is shiftless, indifferent, careless and lazy, and will not provide her with the common necessities of life.

W. F. Fillmore has filed a divorce action against Mamie P. Fillmore. They were married at Dover, N. H., January 7, 1914, and he says she called him vile and improper names and wrote him a letter saying: "If you pay me $200 and if you pay me $300 by next Sunday, I will let you get a divorce on desertion. If you are ready to talk business I'll meet you at South Tacoma Station alone."

Rachael A. Bauer was given a decree of divorce Thursday in her suit against William A. Bauer.

CANDIDATES FOR CITY ELECTION ARE ANNOUNCED

Many candidates for the city election have filed and the ticket shows a full field.

The race for mayor between R. L. Holman and H. M. Templeton promises to be very interesting and close, while for City Recorder John W. Loder has the field to himself.

For City Attorney J. E. Hedges and George L. Story have filed. George Swafford and Raymond Caulfield will run for Treasurer, Caulfield having filed Wednesday.

The ticket for councilmen is pretty well filed and is as follows:

Ward 1.—Two-year term—F. A. Metzner, J. J. Tobin and David C. Williams; four-year term—H. A. Shandy and Roy Woodward.

Ward 2.—Two-year term—E. A. Brady, W. C. Green; four-year term—F. E. Allbright and Geo. E. Griffith.

Ward 3.—Two year term—W. G. H. Kruger; four year term—Chas. W. Kelly.

Ward 4.—Two-year term—E. W. Scott, E. D. Van Anken; four-year term—J. C. Bridges and George J. Eberly.

YEAST CAKES HELP PREVENT SPREAD OF SPANISH INFLUENZA

The use of yeast as a preventive against and cure for Spanish influenza is suggested by Dr. F. H. Knoff, a leading specialist of diseases of the lungs and physician to the Tuberculosis clinic.

Yeast, Dr. Knoff said, has been used with success for many years in the treatment of acute bronchitis, diseases of the skin and gastro-intestinal diseases. He advises people to eat three yeast cakes, one with each meal.

The free use of yeast, the doctor claims, will ward off possible attack of influenza. The product increases the white blood corpuscles, which attack the disease, and thereby adds to the power of resistance in the body, Dr. Knoff explained.

"Many doctors here and elsewhere are administering yeast in treating various infectious diseases," Dr. Knoff said, "and report exceptional results. There are many physicians who eat yeast with each meal while treating infectious diseases. Some, whose duties bring them in contact with infectious diseases at intervals, remain on the yeast diet throughout the year. The number of doctors who do this is greater than the public appreciate."

"Records show that yeast has been used with success in previous epidemics of influenza here and abroad and it seems that if it were to be administered freely in the present epidemic."

"Spanish influenza, which is ordinarily prevalent in young adults, makes its appearance almost annually in Germany during June and July. Spain experiences an epidemic of the disease practically each year during the months of July and August, at which times about thirty per cent of the population is affected," Dr. Knoff said.

MILITARY FUNERAL IS GIVEN OVER REMAINS OF CLACKAMAS BOY

The funeral services over the remains of the late Roy Inel, only son of J. Inel, of Clackamas, were conducted Wednesday afternoon. Services were held at the Brady funeral parlors, and were largely attended by the intimate friends of the family. The young man was given a military funeral, and a squad of soldiers were here from Vancouver Barracks to assist with the impressive service. The pallbearers were soldiers. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery, and many friends of the young man attended the last rites. The grave was completely covered with flowers.

Work of picking up bodies of the Sophia's victims continued today. An actual count chows 177 bodies have been brought here. Of these 147 have been identified. Other bodies have been picked up by a fleet of boats at the scene of the wreck.

POLES AND WIRES ARE DOWN IN MANY SECTIONS IS REPORT

According to the report of Deputy Sheriff Joiner, the high wind which prevailed throughout this territory Sunday afternoon played havoc with the telephone lines in Clackamas county. Joiner was over the county Monday delivering ballot boxes to several polling places, and says that in several instances he had to stop his machine and remove telephone poles from the road. He reports that on the Molalla road especially the wires were down for almost a mile in some places.

FILTHY PRACTICE UNFORGOTTEN Mask Is Torn From Face of Money Loving Portland Newspaper Publisher

It remains for Sam Jackson and his Portland Journal to lead the voters of Oregon from the wilderness into the paths of righteousness. That is, to say, that Mr. Jackson will condescend to champion their interests and bestow his paternal care upon them, providing they get in Sam's band wagon and help him "put over" his two pet schemes at the coming election.

To those who have watched Mr. Jackson's editorial activities in the past, his present efforts are as amusing as they are ludicrous. The only time Millionaire Sam puts the voters on the back is when the voters can do something for Sam. A nearly effusion occurred in the days of single tax agitation. Sam was a single taxer and just about election time the voters were the best people on earth, according to the Journal's editorial columns.

Shortly after the single tax measures met their tragic fate, a little incident occurred which showed very clearly that Sam Jackson's interests come first as a general rule. The little affair was inconsequential in a way, and yet it showed very clearly that Sam's interest in the general public was a secondary consideration.

Sometime prior to 1915 the Oregon Social Hygiene society asked the Portland newspapers to discontinue publication of quack advertising for venereal diseases, Chinese doctors, etc. Realizing that such a move would be of untold benefit to the public, the Portland Oregonian and the Evening Telegram cheerfully complied with the request of the board and cut out all such advertising. The Portland Journal, however, flatly refused to heed their request, handled all of such filth it could crowd into its columns, as long as the necessary payments were made by the advertisers, and continued this insidious practice without regard to the rights of the public for protection, until the legislature of 1915, once and for all put a quietus on such filthy business. The law of conscience, the law of duty to the state, meant nothing to the Portland Journal; the legislature then stepped in and stopped the work with a law which covered the Journal's case to a nicety. And being a law-abiding citizen, of course Mr. Jackson complied with the law.

The Journal's action aroused wide condemnation for it was quite apparent that the dollar was of more importance than the rights of the public to protection from the medical leeches. The citizens are naturally vexed with a great deal of suspicion, Mr. Jackson's tirade against the existing delinquent tax publication law and the present legal rate law. Both are fair from every standpoint; both are performing their functions, if practical value to the citizens of the state can be taken as the measure of necessity for laws. Behind Mr. Jackson's campaign against the present statutes lies a personal desire to even up scores with the papers of the state, most of whom took occasion to roast the Journal in the days of single tax and the days of the campaign against the medical quacks.

Mr. Jackson's record as a champion of the people will not lend support to his present campaign. The voters are keen to remember, and consistency is the true test of a man, or a newspaper's interest in the rights of the people. For this reason there is a re-election against the Jackson bills in all parts of the state.

The safe way is to vote "NO" on all measures where there exists even the slightest suspicion of insincerity. The people's weapon is the initiative; preserve the sanctity of the initiative by punishing those who would abuse its powers. Vote "NO" on both Jackson bills.

Wednesday night an automobile driven by C. Demarco, of Portland, containing three passengers, all of that place, became stuck on the railroad crossing between Oregon City and Parkplace, near the Nichols hop house, and was struck by train No. 13, southbound, and badly smashed.

The wheels of the car became caught between the tracks and Mr. Demarco made efforts to dislodge the auto but was unsuccessful. Upon seeing he could not save his car, the passengers got out and Mr. Demarco made an effort to flag the train, but the engineer did not understand him and afterward said he thought the car was free of the track.

The occupants had no more than got free of the auto than the train hit it with such force as to drive it for 75 or 80 feet along the track. The car was in a demolished condition when brought to this city late Wednesday night and taken to the garage for repairs.

FRANTIC APPEAL IS LAST MESSAGE FROM WRECKED STEAMER

JUNEAU, Alaska, Oct. 30.—"Hurry, we are sinking. The water is coming into my room. Just time to say goodbye. For God's sake come quick!" This frantic appeal—the last wireless message from the lost steamer Princess Sophia—was received by the United States lighthouse tender Cedar about half an hour, it was thought, before the storm sent the Sophia to the bottom of Lynn canal, north of here, with all aboard. About 340 perished.

"We are coming. Save your juice so you can guide us," the Cedar's operator answered. He thought D. M. Robinson, of Vancouver, B. C., operator on the Sophia, was excited and tried in vain to calm him. Robinson's body was found yesterday.

The Cedar, which had been standing by the Sophia, tried to get through the storm to the doomed vessel, but the high waters and winds forced her to put back to safety.

Work of picking up bodies of the Sophia's victims continued today. An actual count chows 177 bodies have been brought here. Of these 147 have been identified. Other bodies have been picked up by a fleet of boats at the scene of the wreck.

Most of the unidentified were women and children whose clothes had no pockets to contain the letters, cards or other means of determining their identity. Several Alaskans, well known in the interior, today were on their way here from Skagway to help in the work of identification. They knew most of the victims. Rescue workers last night found the body of Walter J. O'Brien, Canadian Pacific Railway company agent at Dawson, Y. T., who, with his wife and five children, was lost. When found he had the body of his small son clasped lightly in his arms. The child was removed with difficulty. Among the bodies identified today were those of John F. Pugh, Juneau, collector of customs for the Alaska district; Charles G. Beadle, purser on the Sophia; and Mrs. John Beaton, wife of the man who first discovered gold in the Iditarod country of Alaska.

George A. Harding, owner of lots 1 and 2, block 21, has been permitted by Circuit Judge Campbell to enter as an intervenor in the suit of Dr. L. A. Morris against the City of Oregon City, and he filed a complaint Thursday alleging that he will be irreparably damaged if Morris is given a title to the property in dispute, which Harding and the city officials contend is a street, and which Morris is claiming under a deed from Mrs. Josie DeVore Johnson. Harding says that if Morris wins his suit against the city he (Harding) will be deprived of ingress and egress over and across the intersection of Center street, Tenth street and Bluff street.

City Attorney George L. Story has filed an answer to the Morris complaint, setting up the ancient records dating back to 1849, to show that the property claimed by Dr. Morris is a part of Tenth street.

HARDING PROPERTY WOULD BE DAMAGED IF MORRIS WINS SUIT

Portland men perished in the destruction of the Grant Smith-Porter built ship Dumaru, which was struck by a bolt of lightning, igniting a deckload of gasoline, on her way from Guam to Manila. Information telegraphed from San Francisco says but one life boat was picked up, containing five persons, three of whom are Portlanders. The three saved are Albert E. R. Staats, second mate, 1169 Ivon street; Oscar R. Morris, steerman, 6422 Sixtieth avenue Southeast, and Claud Ranfield, 430 1/2 Mill street. The master of the ship, Ole Borisson, not however a Portlander, was saved.

WOOLEN MILLS ARE WILLING TO DEVOTE OUTPUT TO WAR WORK

Woolen mill operators in Oregon expressed a willingness Tuesday at a conference with Judge C. H. Carey, chairman of the Portland district of the resources and conversion section of the war industries board, to operate at full capacity on war orders if desired by the federal government. Their mills now are working 80 per cent on war contracts. Further business for the government is in prospect, and Chairman Carey desired to know the volume of business that can be taken care of in this district.

Mill operators here are willing to hear the awards made by the army quartermaster at San Francisco on the bids submitted Monday for 186,000 blankets at an aggregate cost of $1,430,000. If the expected contracts come it will keep the Oregon mills going at full speed for a considerable period.

It was reported at the conference yesterday that 55 per cent of the mills in the United States are working on government orders; 30 per cent are filling contracts for civilian trade, and 15 per cent are idle. Pacific coast mills have a larger per cent of their equipment working on war orders than mills in other parts of the country.

Sheep, goat, elk and antelope have been protected by Nevada until 1920.

ANGIE A. ROMIG SUES EDWIN J. FOUST FOR PERSONAL INJURIES

Angie A. Romig entered suit for personal damages in the sum of $2500 against Edwin J. Foust in the circuit court here Wednesday. She alleges in her complaint that defendant severely beat her upon the leg and arm, and tore quantities of hair from her head, and ask for the above sum as compensation for a great mental shock. Both parties live at Milno. A few weeks ago, a suit was filed by Edwin J. Foust against John Romig asking damages in the sum of $1500 for alleged slander. Foust alleged in his complaint that on May 25th, Romig said that his wife had caught him (Foust) in their chicken house, and that when she tried to close the chicken house door, Foust broke open the door, kicked her on the shins and tore out her hair. The suit was dismissed on October 4.

P. W. MEREDITH FOUND GUILTY OF ESPIONAGE

P. W. Meredith, a Mount Pleasant farmer, who was indicted for violation of the espionage act, was found guilty in the federal court at Portland Wednesday, and his attorney, W. S. A TITAN 10-20 will do your farm work whether on the Draw Bar or on the Belt

Here are six very important points for you to consider in buying a TRACTOR

- The company that makes the tractor—Is it in business to stay or will it be short lived and leave an orphan tractor on your hands?
- Tractor service—Can extra parts and expert help be obtained on short notice? Does the company have a branch house within a few hours of your farm?
- Kind of fuel used—Does the tractor operate on low grade fuels and does the company give a written guarantee to that effect?
- General design—Is the tractor sturdy and well made or is it flimsy and apt to be short lived? Has it four wheels and is it of standard construction.
- Drawbar—Can it be used for all kinds of drawbar work such as plowing, discing, drilling, harvesting, etc.?
- Belt work—Will it do belt work as well as it will drawbar work? Has it a large belt pulley and is the belt pulley located in front of operator's seat where it is easy to line up?
