INTERVENTION IN RUSSIA IS NOT LIKELY AT ONCE

PARIS, Dec. 26.—After several days of furious discussion of the subject in the press, it appears settled that there will be no military intervention in Russia this winter—if ever. Instead, the allies will sustain the moderate elements in Russia, hoping thus gradually to circumvent the Bolsheviks. As forecast in a cable of last Friday, the peace conference will consult with the committee of former provisional Russian ministers, with the exception, however, of Professor Paul Millukoff, ex-premier, whose sudden departure from Paris after a stay of only a few days, gives rise to much comment and speculation.

EISNER OPPOSES EBERT

PARIS, Dec. 31.—Kurt Eisner, the premier of Bavaria, has sided with the Independent Socialists against Friedrich Ebert, the German premier, according to advices to the Petit Parisien.

One of the largest and most delightful banquets ever held in Oregon City was staged at 6 o'clock Saturday evening by the Oregon City Woolen Mills, when its hundreds of employees and its executives gathered around the festive board in a happy Christmas celebration.

The cutting room of the garment factory was made over into a tastefully decorated banquet hall. Christmas bells and Japanese lanterns dangled in profusion from the ceiling, and walls. There were four tables, each 66 feet long upon which nearly four hundred plates were laid. The tables were decorated with miniature Christmas trees, and beside each plate were a paper service cap and a whistling balloon, and a souvenir menu.

At the close of the banquet A. R. Jacobs, president of the company, made a splendid talk to the employees, and he sprang several wholly unexpected surprises, which were enthusiastically received. The greatest demonstration was occasioned when Mr. Jacobs announced that notwithstanding the future was fraught with much uncertainty for manufacturing institutions of this kind, and that nearly all competitors throughout the world were on a nine or more
