Elk Prairie

ELK PRAIRIE, June 12.—When neighbor meets neighbor in Elk Prairie, he does not question as to the weather but who has moved "in" and how many pupils are there now? Mr. Fletcher is one of the latest to add one to our school census. It is reported that Mr. Fletcher has brought Eugene Sullivan's relinquishment and will move here soon.

Miss Corlett and her brother, of Spokane, arrived at the home stead of the former, a few days ago.

Joe Harless, of Molalla, moved Miss Burdett's household goods to this place, and also hauled lumber for her house.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray and Frances, were visitors at the home of D. B. Gray Sunday, as were also Zena and Willis Badger. The party spent part of the day picnicking along Fall Creek.

Mr. Gray's flock of beautiful goats was increased by forty-three kids this spring. The three being the most important—being triplets, their relationship is duly announced by the red ribbons which they proudly wear.

Mr. Rossmann found the relic of some former chase in the form of a bear's skeleton, while clearing his homestead.

Mr. Snider's son is now on his homestead and is building a house.

A new road is being made between the Snider's place and Mr. Rossmann's homestead.

Mrs. Tidd and son, Vernon, accompanied by Miss Burdett and her brother visited Falls Creek, on the Badger homestead, a few days ago.

Willis Badger is earnestly hoping that he has not broken any of Oregon's game laws. While trapping for chipmunks, recently, he caught what was probably a member of the lizard family, but would more easily be described as a speckled beauty trout, up on legs.

coming up from Scotts Mills. This will require about three miles of grading and cut the distance in two. Mr. Hertzell may move back to the neighborhood soon. There are two children in his family and it was only for the sake of sending them to school, that the family moved away, as so many many others did.

Mr. Hong, of Molalla, brought Mr. Hertzell up in his auto.

Wm. Kruger and Mr. Krits brought several heads of cattle of D. B. Gray, and a veal from D. W. Badger and took them to Scotts Mills via the Elk Prairie trail.

Mrs. Everett Shultz was in the Elk Prairie part of Coal Creek School district posting notices of school election. The district is so large that it took nearly a whole day to accomplish this task.

Red Cross meets with Mrs. Giddings Thursday. We will then adjourn until fall.

UNCLAIMED HORSE AWAITING SHIPMENT DIES ON BUSCH DOCK

A dead horse on the Busch dock was the cause of considerable trouble here the first of the week as no one would claim the animal and Mr. Busch wanted it removed and could not do so until the owner was found.

The animal was tied to the dock last Friday for shipment to Portland, but when the boat arrived it was overloaded and the animal was left tied at the dock. He became entangled in the rope and fell, breaking his neck.

It was thought he belonged to the Red Front barn of this city or to a man named Glass, but neither of them would claim the animal, which was later taken away by the Milwaukee Rendering company.

ECHO LODGE PEOPLE ENTERTAIN SUNDAY BY GIVING PICNIC

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Critser of Echo Lodge, near Rock Island, entertained in a most delightful manner at a picnic Sunday, which was held near their home. The affair was in honor of the wedding anniversary, the birthdays of Mr. Critser and daughter, Mrs. G. E. Bentley, of Hoff.

A pretty place was selected along the banks of the Willamette river, where a luncheon was enjoyed by Mrs. Julia Rider, Mrs. Flora Jarrett, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Albright, Allen Waldron and Mr. Nelson, of Oregon City; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bentley and children, Florence, Margaret, Donald and Harold, Mrs. Ethel Johnston, of Twilight, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Bentley and Verion Foster, of Hoff; Newt Critser and son Donald, Merlin and Roger Gaffey, of Echo Dell; Mrs. Fay, of Powell Butte, Oregon.

COLONEL C. H. DYE WILL MAKE EFFORT TO ESTABLISH FOUNTAIN

Colonel C. H. Dye will represent the Live Wires of the Commercial Club in an effort to have established on Main street a drinking fountain for horses. The fountain erected at the corner of Main and Seventh streets by the Clackamas County Humane Society is without water, and is not only out of repair, but since the new traffic ordinance was enacted, the corner is too congested to be a suitable place for a horse drinking fountain. Colonel Dye presented the following verses that had been submitted by a country resident:

THE HORSE'S COMPLAINT
Well, what do you think?
When we come to Oregon City we can't get a drink.
The fountains for people are running high,
But we poor horses have to go dry.
We hear so much from the Oregon Dries
It causes great tears to well from our eyes.
And now, what do you know,
Even the Methodist fountain has ceased to flow.
And so good people on Main street we think
It will be a great kindness to give us a drink.
Ye mayor and council please dig up some chink
And give us poor horses some water to drink.

YOUTH ARRAIGNED.

Raleigh Wheeler, a minor of Canby was arraigned Monday on a charge of delinquency and was released after a fine by the judge.

Mr. Tibson, of Molalla, brought two gentlemen to view our neighborhood. Messrs. Williams and Broom from near Corvallis were in Elk Prairie recently looking for a homestead or a relinquishment.

Kirk Hertzell and Bullock were guests of D. B. Gray and family a few days ago. Mr. Hertzell has property in this neighborhood, and talks of returning to the farm. His family is in Portland at present.

Gus Collins, who lived on the Shandy place for two years, returned to this neighborhood for a brief visit.

Since this is a neighborhood of homesteaders what one does, is done by all. Some one started digging springs, then all developed springs. A preference being shown for those which will flow to the house and barn, Miss Burdett, and Messrs. Snyder and son each have located this variety. Chas. Tidd, formerly of Oregon City has located a fine spring that he expects to build his permanent home near. In fact a well would seem like a disgrace in this land of springs and streams.

Miss Burdett is the most recent to complete her homestead cabin, while Mr. Snyder has already begun a more permanent domicile.

Mr. Mack was through this neighborhood looking for light work on a dairy ranch. He was on his way over to Crooked Finger but decided to go around by way of Scotts Mills. Mr. Mack said that he had been doing missionary work and distributing bibles on his way. He worked for a time on Ernest Russell's Goat ranch, in the Forks of the Molalla.

Kirk Hertzell was in this neighborhood a few days ago, as he heard that there was to be a united effort to connect the Molalla road with the one
