MISS SNEDEKER MAKES ANNUAL REPORT AS COUNTY CLUB LEADER

Report Shows Something of the Big Work Being Done Among Boys and Girls of County

Miss Romney P. Snedeker, county club leader for Clackamas county has filed her report for the past year's work in her field of endeavor with the county court.

Her report shows that 635 boys and girls from the various county schools were enrolled during the year in the various clubs. They were enrolled in clubs engaged in corn growing, potato growing, gardens, poultry, pork, calf, sheep, canning, sewing, cookery and rabbits. There were 167 girls in the sewing classes and 138 in the classes in cookery.

Two hundred sixty nine of these boys and girls completed their year's work in these various clubs. The club leader keeps in close touch with the work under her jurisdiction through personal visits, meetings with the clubs, field meetings and through correspondence. The club work is entirely optional with the children and none are supposed to be enrolled without the written consent of the parents.

This work is supported by county, state and national appropriations. At the Clackamas county fair there were 147 exhibitors from among these club members and $262 in cash prizes were awarded them.

At the state fair there were 85 exhibitors and this county was awarded first on county exhibit, first on artistic booth and first on the juvenile poultry exhibit. At this fair the clubs also won five capital prizes, which gives the two girls and three boys who won the free trip to the Oregon Agricultural college in 1920 besides their winnings of $42 in cash.

At the Portland live stock show the three boys composing the judging team from this county won first place over 14 other Oregon teams and two from Washington. Besides the individual members of clubs from this county won prizes in the show ring amounting to close to $200.

This county's judging team also participated in the stock show in Spokane and they came off with second honors there.

Miss Snedeker closes her report by tendering thanks to the county court for its cooperation in her work, also to various stockmen of the county and to the parents of the different students.

Enterprise Brings Old Friends Together

That the old world isn't so large has been proven on many occasions in this little city by the falls. This time an article appeared in the Morning Enterprise a few days ago announcing the arrival of Mrs. M. Montchalin from Carson, Wash., who came here to visit relatives and to display some handsome lace sent her by her cousin to be sold in order to defray expenses of coming to America to make her future home.

The paper reached the home of a French family by the name of Grand, residing at Willamette, and the couple's children being familiar with the English language read the article to the parents, who are unable to read English. The name was at once familiar when the mother's name appeared, and they immediately visited the little woman and were filled with delight at finding someone from their old home town of LePuy, France, who were old time friends of Mrs. Montchalin's parents now residing in France.

The meeting was a most happy one and many reminiscences were exchanged before their departure. They said they were so surprised at finding anyone here from their little village in France, and were looking forward to the time when others from that section would come to America to make this grand country their home.

Mrs. Montchalin leaves on Saturday for Portland, where she is to show some of the lace at the Woman's Exchange at 186 Fifth street. There she will demonstrate the making of lace on the large pillow her mother has. All lace made by her and her cousin, Mrs. Marie Avinec, will be sold and the proceeds forwarded to France. This money is to be used in defraying the expenses of the trip of the family of Mrs. Avinec to come to America in the early spring.

The husband of Mrs. Avinec is recovering from gas received while fighting in one of the big battles of France. He is looking forward to the time when he will engage in farming as the Montchalin family are at the present time.

Mr. and Mrs. Montchalin are engaged in farming and at the same time following the milk goat industry. They have 30 head of registered Swiss goats, and are engaged in making Rochefort cheese for which there is an unusually large demand. Much of this is being shipped to the California markets, besides that sold in Washington and Oregon. It is the intention to increase their band of goats in the spring, and are to import some of the goats from Switzerland.

The land upon which the goats are pasturing is well adapted for the goat industry, and Mr. and Mrs. Montchalin believe that they can double their profits by securing others and making a much more profitable business than carrying on the dairy industry as others are following in their section. Their farm is located near the Columbia river and close to the Carson hot springs.

LOCAL FRENCH MAN LEAVES TO CLAIM BRIDE

Jules Baron, Resident of Willamette, Sails December 15 for France

Jules Baron, a native of France, but whose present home is at Willamette, where he has resided for some time, and a member of an engineering corps of United States soldiers going overseas during the war, will leave Friday of this week for France to claim a bride, a handsome young French girl whom he met while being stationed at Meurthe Moselle.

Mr. Baron leaves New York on the steamer Rochambeau December 15, and received his passport for the trip, and is now one of the happiest men in Clackamas county. He expects to return with his bride about February.

Mr. Baron, when the war broke out, desired to go to France and enter the service to fight for his former country, and not being able to do this attempted to enter the United States army, but owing to injuries to his arm he was not able to pass the physical examination, so he enlisted as an interpreter for the engineering corps of the United States army, and his service was invaluable to Uncle Sam's men.

Judge Gives Orders In Hawley Case

Judge Bagley's latest decision in the Hawley divorce was filed in the county clerk's office here today, coming over by mail from Hillsboro, where arguments were presented earlier in the week. Two orders were filed, one overruling the motion of the defense to make Mrs. Hawley's complaint more definite and certain and the other relating to the payment of alimony, suit money and attorney fees.

Judge Bagley took over the official conduct of the case after the defense had filed an affidavit of prejudice against Circuit Judge Campbell, of Clackamas county, based upon Campbell's action in awarding the plaintiff $7500 attorney fees, along with other stated sums for suit money and alimony. In the matter of attorney fees, Judge Bagley has gone even stronger than did Judge Campbell, for his order fixes the fee of the plaintiff's attorney at $10,000, and gives to the plaintiff $350 alimony during the pendency of the action, besides $500 suit money. It is specifically provided in the order that additional and further alimony may be granted at any time upon proper showing, and the order also recites that $500 shall be paid at once as attorney fee, and that no further attorney fee shall be paid except as the court may direct. The order permits the defendant to visit his child at proper times.

Memorial of Elks in Hall Well Attended

The annual memorial service of Oregon City lodge of Elks, held in the Elks temple Sunday afternoon, was attended by the largest crowd in the history of the local lodge, and the big audience listened attentively to an interesting program arranged by the local lodge committee. The annual address was given by Mayor George L. Baker, of Portland, who referred to the principles for which the organization stands, and he laid particular stress upon the flag, that all Elks delight to honor.

Mr. Baker's address was a clarion call to good citizenship. He spoke feelingly of the members of the lodge who have passed during the last year, and paid a high tribute to Walter A. Dimick, J. W. Roots and G. R. H. Miller.

Pleasing vocal numbers were rendered by Mrs. Roatha Fowler Miller and Otto T. Wedemeyer, of Portland, and piano selections were given by Mrs. C. H. L. Chandler, of Oregon City, who was an able accompanist.

Cold Snap Is Near Season's Record

PORTLAND, Dec. 8.—(Special)—The cold this morning, of the quiet, still kind that sets the ice thickly on the ponds and even causes long ice fingers out over the river, was almost a record for the season, a minimum temperature of 26 degrees above zero being registered by the weather bureau thermometer at 7:20 a. m.

The coldest so far this season was 25.8 degrees above, registered on Thanksgiving morning. Extreme cold has set in over the east again, with zero temperatures registered as far south as Colorado and east to the Mississippi river in some places. It was above at Baker, zero at Boise and 4 below at Pocatello, where there has been very heavy snow for several days.

Roseburg and Marshfield each reported minimum temperatures of 28 above and at North Head it was 22 above. At Spokane it was 14 above, at Walla Walla 12 above, but at Havre, Mont., it was 12 below.

No relief from the cold is yet promised by the weather bureau, the forecast for tonight and Tuesday being fair, with light winds, mostly northerly. The Willamette river remains stationary, affected only by the tides. The chill rain Saturday night was almost snow, and a few flakes fell in the eastern part of the city, but the minimum temperature of the day was 32 degrees above.

The marriage of Miss Tempest Jennings and Mr. Albert William Buckles, of this city, was solemnized Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, November 30, at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. T. Milliken, of Portland. Rev. Following the marriage ceremony, the newly weds went to Gresham, where they visited the mother of the bride, who has been seriously ill at that place, and also visited other relatives, and were not aware of the joke played on them by some of the young people attending the wedding when they reached their destination. Their automobile had been decorated at the rear with old shoes galore, and was the reason the automobile had attracted attention while proceeding towards Gresham. Returning to this city they have taken up their residence in a cottage on Sixth and John Adams streets.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jennings, and has many friends here. She attended and graduated from the Oregon City high school.

For the past two years he has been associated with his father in the grocery business at Tenth and Main streets.

Following the marriage the young couple returned to Portland to make their future home.

The bride is known in Oregon City, where she resided for some time, and also resided in Gladstone. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hamm, whom she accompanied to Minnesota some time ago.

The bridegroom was in the service, and was one of the heroes of the trenches in France.

Mrs. R. J. Blanchard, one of the oldest Oregon pioneers and residents of Clackamas county, celebrated her 90th birthday anniversary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Blanchard, the latter her daughter, at Gladstone, Thursday, Thanksgiving day, in a delightful manner.

The rooms of the Blanchard home were prettily decorated for the dinner with chrysanthemums and one of the decorative features of the table was the birthday cake with 90 tiny candles and lighted for the occasion. This was made and decorated by Mrs. Blanchard's granddaughter, Mrs. T. B. Hayhurst, of Gladstone.

Among the guests attending was W. B. Blanchard, aged 87 years, father of Mr. Blanchard, and whose home is at Brownsville, Oregon.

Members of the Blanchard family attended the dinner.

Mrs. Blanchard has resided in Can-amah for many years, and is well and favorably known throughout Clackamas county.
