MACKSBURG SCHOOL PLANNING TO HAVE MAY DAY FESTIVAL

MACKSBURG, April 22.—No fairy tale ever depicted more striking metamorphosis than that which takes place here in the garden and with the fruit trees within a few shut-in days. To take, after a short interval, a glimpse of the ground where, when loose seems only careful preparation of the soil for seed was noticeable and see long rows of tender green peeping above the soil to fill in, that on embryo stage or of the plum trees where—so lately—only a microscopic promise of buds was visible and behold them white with blossoms from the lowest to the highest branch is surely as wonderful as any tale in the Arabian nights.

Doubly charming is this transition now, after months of apprehension that we were to have no fruit at all owing to the winter's unwanted cold.

JERSEY CATTLE BREEDERS HOLD ROUSING MEET

The Clackamas County Jersey Breeders' association held a most interesting and enthusiastic meeting at the Community club hall at Twilight Saturday. The meeting was an all day affair and was largely attended by breeders of Jerseys who were from various sections of the county.

The morning session was devoted largely to the business of the organization, and at 12:30 a delicious dinner was served, when nugget (potato) salad, cakes, pie, sandwiches, pickles, home bread, baked beans, hot coffee with real Jersey cream was served. There was plenty for all and four tables were spread.

The afternoon session opened with selections by some of the breeders of the Jerseys, one of which was dedicated to the Jersey cow and was all received by the lovers of the breed.

The principal address was made by Mr. Fine, connected with the Oregon Agricultural college, whose subject was "Official Testing." Mr. Fine spoke of some length on this subject and was of value to the breeders, who have not had their cows tested.

Mr. King advised that the testing be followed, and those cows that are not producing as they should be weeded out. He said that many other states were looking towards Oregon in supplying them with Jersey cows, for the state has made a reputation of having some of the best record Jerseys. Among the states which he has helped to supply with this breed of cattle recently when they have been sent by the carload lot is Idaho, while orders have come in from Montana and Wyoming. Some of the southern states are also looking towards Oregon supplying them with heads of the herd, a pure-bred bull having recently been shipped to Alabama.

Among the reasons the Oregon Jerseys are favored is the show record they made, and secondly the record they are making in production. Cows that have been tested brought a dairyman $500 apiece, and the entire herd was purchased recently by a Idaho dairyman.

Mr. Fine says the testing can be kept with very little cost, as an expert from the Oregon Agricultural college visits the farm where the testing is desired, and this may be made at a cost of about $9 per month. He told the method of making the test, and advised having the Bobcock tester when the representative from the Oregon Agricultural college arrives at the farm.

Several inquiries were made following his talk and the questions were readily answered by Mr. Fine, who is well posted on the dairying question.

A. Malar, whose home is near Boring, talked on "Private Testing." He talked from his experience in dairying, from the start to the present time, and values the testing process. He entered the dairying industry with scrub cows, later getting good grade cows, and now believes there is nothing like having the registered stock. At the present time he has a herd of 13 cows that are making a good record, and he is one of the most enthusiastic breeders of the Jerseys. In keeping the record of each cow during her milking, this is placed after each milking, and has found it most valuable, especially when visitors call at his farm desiring to make a purchase. They can judge for themselves, he says, just as to what the cows are producing, for the record appears after her name in tabulated form.

Brooks Hogan, who is in charge of the famous Jerseys of the William Ladd farm at Oswego, was present and spoke in favor of the Jersey cattle. "Who has never petted a Jersey?" asked Mr. Hogan, but as there was no reply, he exclaimed "We all pet them for we all love the breed, and it is a breed that appreciates kind treatment."

Mr. Hogan gave an outline of the coming jubilee to be held by the Jersey Breeders' association during the first week of May, when a number of the officers would visit Portland at that time. The first day, May 3, the members will congregate at Eleventh and Yamhill streets, Portland and take automobiles and make a trip to Scappoose, Oregon, where they will be the guests of the Harry West Jersey farm, when some of the best Jerseys in the Northwest are to be seen. Returning to Portland a banquet will be held at the Hotel Portland at 6:15, after which there will be a program, and addresses made by visiting officers and others. The following morning the Jersey breeders will leave by automobiles for Cornelius, where farms will be visited, and then to Carlton. Among the places visited there will be the Ed Carey's dairy farm. Other places to be visited during the four days' session will be Rickreall, Mountmouth, McMinnville, Albany, Gray's station, Shedd's, Salem and the return trip made to Portland.

Among those to make the trip from the Clackamas county organization will be Mr. and Mrs. A. Malar, of Boring; Mrs. L. J. Ewalt, of Gervais, Oregon; M. A. Spangler, of Spangler station; W. J. W. McCord, of Twilight; Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Hogan, of Oswego; N. H. Smith, of Redland; R. G. Scott, Oregon City; Mrs. Hart, of Sandy.

The day's program closed with judging Jersey cattle, when some of the high class stock of D. F. Skene and W. J. W. McCord, of Mount Pleasant, whose farms adjoin the property where the meeting was held, judging the cattle were E. O. Fish, N. H. Smith and John Lenhard.

Among the Jersey breeders represented at this meeting were W. J. W. McCord, D. F. Skene, N. H. Skene, Mr. L. J. Ewalt and son, Mr. Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. Hart, John Lenhard, J. Monto, Henry Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Gorman, E. O. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. A. Malar, Z. Eljessen, Mr. Marks, Phillip King, Mr. Hill, William Rakel, A. A. Spangler, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kanne and sons, A. D. Grubbe, H. N. Hall, Judge Grant B. Dimick.

Among the visitors were Clarence, Herbert and Francis Banne, sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kanne, whose home is in Happy Valley, near Mount

Scott. The lady accompanied their father, and are members of the judging team of their section of the county. Other members of the club of that place are Emery Rebstock, and Lyle and Glen Finley. Mr. Kanne is the local leader.

H. N. Hall, who has charge of the Lazekie farm at Twilight, whose father, the late A. D. Hall, was one of the well known breeders of the state, and selected the Joffey cattle, became a member of the organization today and will purchase pure-blooded Jerseys.

Other members were taken in at the meeting.

Albert Letenemier, aged 18 years, and son of Mr. and Mrs. John Letenemier of Mountain View addition, Oregon City, was drowned at the falls Monday evening about 6:30. The body was not recovered.

Letenemier, in company with Adaan Satera, employed in the Crown Wilamette Paper company's mills, decided to go fishing after they had finished their day's task at the mills. They secured a boat and started out, although the water at this time is swift and dangerous. The boat in which they made their trip collided with a piling near the company's plant, wrecking the craft. Letenemier attempted to swim, but being chilled and the water being swift he sank. Satera clung to a portion of the boat, and was saved by Julius Spakle and Frank Fuge, who were fishing at some distance away, but had seen the young men in the river and hastened to their rescue. When they reached the spot Letenemier had disappeared, they then hastened to save Satera, calling to the young man to hold tight to the boat and in this manner he was saved from a watery grave.

Friends of Spakle and Fuge congratulated them upon saving the young man's life, but they only regretted they were unable to save Letenemier as well.

This is the first drowning at the falls since two young men lost their lives about three years ago, who were employed on the paper company's boat, and had come here to attend a moving picture show. When returning they lost their lives, their bodies being found several months later.

Letenemier is survived by his parents, a number of brothers and sisters. One brother, William Letenemier is employed at the postoffice.

Nine bids were offered Saturday for the road bonds of Clackamas county, all of them being from residents of the county. Those bids were all at par and the total was $260,500. This totalled with the $22,000 sold several weeks ago make $282,500 of the bonds sold.

The bidders were as follows: M. H. Johnson, Aurora, gave First National bank, Canby, $5000 of five year bonds; Clackamas County bank, Sandy, $10,000 four year bonds; J. J. Davis, Estacada, $500 five year bonds; The Bank of Oregon City, $15,000 four year bonds, $25,000 five year bonds and $35,000 six year bonds; M. A. Gage, Oregon City, $1000 four year bonds; D. L. Trullinger, Oregon City, $5000 five year bonds; C. G. Peterson by Alberta Dunn, $1000 four year bonds; W. P. Hawley, Sr., $50,000 six year bonds and $50,000 seven year bonds, or other maturities; Bank of Commerce, Oregon City, $60,000 five year bonds or other maturities.

There were no Portland bidders or others outside the county.
