COMMEMORATION OF LONG MINISTRY IS HELD SUNDAY, JULY 4

CANBY, July 8.—The completion and commemoration of Rev. A. J. Josslyn's half century in the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church, which was held near Needy, Clackamas county, Sunday last was one of the most unique, interesting and practical events occurring within the state that day.

Early in the morning automobiles, carriages, buggies, wagons, horsemen, footmen, men women and children from Portland Vancouver Wash., Fairview, Oregon City, Canby, Carus, Molalla, Molalla, Macksville, Marquam, Hubbard, Woodburn and Salem were wending their way toward the mecca of their day's outing under the restful shade of the fir trees in the grove at the old Methodist church near Needy. The grove was seated with the pews from the church. Tables for the afternoon luncheon were in readiness for their burden of good things. commodious and well decorated platform for the choir and speakers of the day awaited the gathering throng.

At 10:30 A. M. a community sing was held, and Professor Rigdon, of Salem, read a poem of his own construction upon "The Oregon Trail" which was an unusually fine production.

At 11 A. M. the superintendent of the Salem district of the Methodist church Rev. E. E. Gilbert, D. D., delivered an oration of unusual merit, charged and replete with high and holy suggestions of the national, international, educational an ecclesiastical policies that made his effort one of marked ability and usefulness. After this came the social community luncheon, taxing the lines of tables beyond their room and demanding of the green carpeted earth larger space for the spread of the surplus edibles.

This over, some friends took Mr. Josslyn and some pilots in an automobile down to the old camp ground, where fifty years that very day before he had preached his first and memorable sermon, resulting in the conversion of more than a dozen of attending people.

Returning from the old and sacred grounds a score, more or less, of those who were present when Rev. Josslyn preached his first and unforgettable sermon, sat or stood for their pictures in group form.

At 2 o'clock another enjoyable "community song" was had, after which several pioneers of the community spoke of their memories of the olden and unforgettable past.

Then followed readings and songs, admirably rendered by the Sunday school children of that place, and at 3 o'clock Mr. Josslyn took the platform for about 40 minutes for a reminiscence address, hitting the high places as he termed it of his fifty years in the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church. The people gave close attention to Mr. Josslyn's address, sometimes laughing and sometimes moved with tears as he passed from what he termed the sublime to the ridiculous of his experience.

The services were closed by illuminating and helpful address of Professor Hammond, of the Willamette University.

Much credit is due Rev. Gilbert and Rev. Cooper for the success of the occasion.

A Prominent

Druggist Testifies

Refondo Bench, Calif.—"I wish to call attention to my experience in the sale of Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets. I have never sold an article that has given such universal satisfaction. It seems that every bottle sold sells another. I am very much inclined, like most druggists of today, to sell the long shot stuff at a greater profit, or something 'just as good,' but in suggesting Anuric for uric acid and rheumatism I consider I have not only created business along that line but have gained the confidence of the public which more than repays me for my interest and suggestion, together with the satisfaction I get from having an article that I can place with perfect confidence. Nothing would please me more than to be able to introduce Anuric to the world for the benefit of all mankind. However, I have content myself by simply calling attention to the satisfactory results that follow as reported to me by the individuals, extending their thanks."—C. D. KNOX.

Many of Your Neighbors

Can Say the Same

Tuolumne, Calif.—"My back gave me considerable trouble, which I thought was due to kidney disease. After taking four packages of Dr. Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric-acid) Tablets I was fully recovered. I consider it a wonderful medicine. I also use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets whenever I am bilious, and they give immediate relief. I consider them a great medicine."

LOW BOND VALUES
MAY CAUSE HOLDUP
OF ROAD CONTRACTS

PORTLAND, July 6.—With several counties loaded up with bonds which they cannot sell on the present market because the law prohibits their sale at less than par, with word coming of a decision by the supreme court on the Clackamas county road bond case, which presumably knocks out a large amount of bonds voted by Lane, Crook, Jackson and Clackamas counties; with contractors declaring they cannot bid on more work unless their payments are expedited, the session of the state highway commission today became financial. In fact because of these developments, the commission did not award contracts, which were opened, but held the bid over until Wednesday, pending a decision as to what they should do.

Chairman Benson declared that because of the demoralized bond market, he believes the commission should sell as few bonds as possible this summer and should curtail and hold off every job that can be postponed. The state highway bonds do not bear much interest, and just at present more marketable securities bear considerable more.

Mr. Benson favored selling a minimum amount and then requesting the next session of the legislature to raise the interest rate so that bonds can be sold at par. Feeling pessimistic, Mr. Benson observed that at present costs and present prices, the highway commission can complete about 50 per cent of the state highway system by the time the resources are exhausted.

LEGION Praised IN INDEPENDENCE DAY
ADDRESS OF PERSHING

WASHINGTON, July 6.—General John J. Pershing, ex-commander-in-chief of the American expeditionary forces, in an Independence-day message Sunday to members of the American Legion and other fellow service men, said:

"The anniversary of national independence brings to our minds and hearts the obligations that rest upon us as a people. The sublime conception of our forefathers created upon this continent a new nation founded upon human liberty, which they left for us to perpetuate and strengthen. The spirit of consecration that enabled them to overcome in this great cause should be invoked that we in turn may transmit to posterity the sacred principles for which they fought."

To the men of the legion whose blood and sacrifices have proved their devotion we owe the deepest debt of gratitude and it is to them that we look for constant inspiration that our efforts to maintain forever a country where all men shall be free and equal may be supported by the same patriotism that gave them the victory in the great war."

M. E. BISHOP VISITS

SEN. HARDING ALWAYS A LEADER
Everything From Editor to 'Devil' On Own Daily Newspaper

"You know you promised to tell us all about Senator Harding last week," teased Jack as he tugged at his Uncle's coat.

"That's true, Jack. All right, I'll tell you all I can but there are so many things to tell about Mr. Harding that I can't possibly tell them all tonight. Now sit real quiet and don't ask too many questions."

"Warren G. Harding was born on his grandfather's farm, not far from the little village of Blooming Grove, Morrow county, Ohio, on the second day of November, 1865. There were eight children in the family and Senator Harding was the oldest. His father, George T. Harding, was the village doctor in those days and is still practicing medicine in the city of Marion, Ohio, the present home of the Senator. The original Harding family came from Scotland, and settled first in Connecticut and later moved to Wyoming Valley, Pennsylvania, where many of them fought in the Revolutionary War. Warren's mother, for he was Warren, Jack, just as you are Jack today, was Phoebe Dickerson, descended from the Van Kirsks, an old Holland Dutch family. So you see our next President has the strong blood of the Holland Dutch on one side and the fearless, alert, and liberty-loving Scotch blood on the other."

"As Warren grew up on his grandfather's farm he had to learn to cut down trees, chop wood, split rails, plant and hoe corn and all those things that had to be done when to raise crops meant raising them between the roots and the stumps of trees. Everything was done by hand for there was no expensive farm machinery. Your father knows, Jack, what hard work it was in those days."

"Didn't he ever play?" asked Ruth.

"You bet he did, Ruth. He was a healthy, big boy and like all healthy boys he enjoyed the sports of the country and village. He loved the old swimming hole and no boy could dive deeper or swim farther than Warren. He had a sunny disposition and was the real leader of the gang of his school-mates. When he was sixteen he looked like a man and had strength of a man and there was no older boy who dared bully him. And he always protected the younger boys. Up until he was fourteen years old he went to the village school, and then he entered the Ohio Central College of Iberia. He graduated high in scholarship. It was while there he showed a talent for newspaper work, for he was made editor of the college paper. But the boys in those days couldn't afford to go right through college. He had to stop for a time now and then to earn enough money to get ahead and finish. During these times he worked at many things. He painted his neighbors' barns, cut corn and drove a team to grade the road-bed of a railroad. He taught school when he was seventeen and played a horn in the village brass band."

"Now kiddies, it's getting late and I can't tell you more tonight. Next week I will start where I have left off and tell you more about the life and work of our next president, Warren G. Harding."

BRENTON VEDDER
NAMED FOR S.U.T.
OF COUNTY SCHOOLS

Brenton Vedder, for the past six years county school supervisor, was appointed Wednesday night by the county court as county school superintendent to fill the position left vacant by the resignation of J. E. Calvan, which takes effect July 15. Mr. Vedder will take up his new duties at that date.

Mr. Vedder is well and favorably known in Clackamas county and was principal of the Gladstone schools for a number of years. He has spent practically all his life in educational work, and this, with his close association with the office of county superintendent, makes him the logical man for the place. He is well acquainted with the school situation in Clackamas and will take the office well qualified for the work.

TWO WORKMEN KILLED

OAKLAND, Cal., July 2.—Two shipyard workers—George Sutton and Charles Hyde—were killed and a third was perhaps fatally hurt today when the three were brushed off a step of a crowded street car by another street car.

"But after he had a try at many things he still longed to be a newspaper man, and at odd times he worked in the little printing office. He learned to set type by hand and later ran a linotype machine, which is used today in setting one line of newspaper type at once. In fact he learned from the ground up everything there was to know about a newspaper and to this day he carries in his pocket a 'luck piece' which is nothing more or less than the old printer's rule he used years ago when he was setting type."

"All of Senator Harding's newspaper ambitions were realized for he finally became the owner and publisher of the Marion, Ohio, 'Star'. The 'Star' is his pet. When Warren was nineteen his father moved to Marion where the 'Star' was a struggling daily paper in a town of about four thousand people. Warren could think of nothing else but that he wanted to own that paper. His father finally helped him to take it over and then followed months and months of struggle and hard work to keep it going. At times he had to do everything from setting the type to writing the news and printing the paper on a press that had to be turned by hand. But that story is long to tell tonight. The result of his hard work has been that the 'Star' today is a big money making plant and could not be bought for any price. There are more than thirty thousand people in Marion today and the 'Star' has a larger circulation than any other newspaper in a city of that size in the Middle West."

"I will tell you something that happened in the office of that paper one New Year's morning that shows the character of our next President. A friend entered the office and found the Senator making up the form of the paper. 'A great Senator you are,' said the visitor. 'I'd be a great Senator if I didn't know anything else,' he replied. 'You see, this is a holiday, and we want to go to prom as early as possible and let the boys get out and enjoy themselves; so I am just lending a helping hand.' And when they went upstairs to his office the press in the basement was heard to stop. Jumping up, Senator Harding rushed to the basement, found the trouble that had stopped the press, repaired it and the wheels began to move again. That shows how he has mastered the details of everything he goes into. No matter what it is he is not content until he knows all about it. It was the same way with his first automobile. He would not rest until he could make all the repairs on the road and drive it as well as a chauffeur."

"Now kiddies, it's getting late and I can't tell you more tonight. Next week I will start where I have left off and tell you more about the life and work of our next president, Warren G. Harding."

Robbers Loot Home
Of H. Hannifin

The home of Herbert Hannifin was entered sometime Saturday afternoon and two gold watches, a gold chain and a set of diamond earrings were stolen. The looters also secured about $15 in cash.

The jewelry that was stolen were keepsakes and were prized very highly by the Hannifin family.

It is not known how entrance was made but it is likely that a key was used. The robbery was discovered Saturday evening when Miss Margaret Hannifin returned from her work in Portland and found the house in a topsy turvy condition.
