HAY CROP ESTIMATED ABOVE AVERAGE IN MACKSBURG SECTION

MACKSBURG, July 15.—Unkindred by the sugar's high price the annual first conserving goes on. Thanks to the beneficent art of canning this industry can be pursued minus that once-essential guard. The storerooms will display the accustomed array of jars waiting the time when profiteers shall have grown tired of seeing their warehouses stored with a staple that not only represents idle capital but in this world of imitation and overthrow can not be certainly immune from the catastrophe of fire and flood.

This morning of July 13th gives us the view of a landscape fresh from nearly twenty-four hours of summer rain with a growth that unobserved throughout Sunday and a rainy Monday—is well-nigh beyond belief. As to the pasture that valuable asset on the ranch when dairy produce pays so well, no greener could it have been in the smiling month of May than it is today when usually the grass is growing brown and sere.

The haying season is at its height and so far the ranchers say, the crop is heavier than it is wont to be. The Mothers' Club is to hold its regular fortnightly session on Thursday of the present week at the home of Mrs. Simon Miller.

The quarantine still hangs over Mr. John Hepler's home, and cannot be removed till the last of the present month. Two of the children who were thought out of danger have suffered a relapse and fumigation of the house must be postponed till the patients are entirely well.

M. E. Scramlin of Michigan is with his brother Geo. Scramlin for the present. Mr. Scramlin's son with his wife, are also on their way to Macksburg in a touring car and are daily expected at the Scramlin home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bucbee of Portland with their two children are visiting at the home of Mrs. Bucbee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Miller.

Mrs. Spencer and her little daughter, Virginia, who by their stay of four years in our place, have greatly endeared themselves to all who know them are to leave this week for St. Louis, Mrs. Spencer's former home.

STATE CANCELS PROPOSAL TO AID BUILDING BRIDGE

PORTLAND, July 10.—Location of the Mount Hood loop highway between Gresham and Brightwood was still undetermined after a conference Friday of the state highway commission and a number of Portland officials, including Commissioners Bigelow and Mann and City Attorney L. A. Rocha. It was decided, however, that the latter should have a survey of the two routes in question made and submit the results at the next meeting of the commission, July 20, when a definite decision may be reached.

A preliminary survey already made by the highway department shows that the route by way of Keiso and Sandy would serve a greater commercial purpose than the one advocated by the Portland officials on the north side of the Sandy, would be shorter and cheaper to construct by approximately $350,000.

These facts are controverted, however, by the Portland men, who claim that the route of their choice would not be more expensive to build and would have the additional feature of being more scenic. It is further claimed that it would be more advantageous to Portland by reason of the fact that it would approximate the course of the municipal water supply and be of assistance in its maintenance.

Another interest to be considered is that of Clackamas county, which favors the Keiso-Sandy route as a county development.

COUNTIES MAY ASK LEGISLATION TO O. K. BONDS

SALEM, July 10.—A formal request for a special session of the state legislature will probably be made upon Governor Olcott within a few days by the county courts of Jackson, LaPine, Yamhill and Clackamas counties for the purpose of securing the validation of the road bonds voted by these counties in violation of the 2 per cent limitation.

This was the intimation given out by S. S. Smith, editor of the Medford Sun, here Friday night in conference with the governor relative to the problem which has been presented by the recent supreme court decision holding invalid the $1,700,000 road bond issue in Clackamas county. This decision is said to affect issues in other counties in the state, aggregating several million dollars, voted for road purposes.

Governor Olcott has no intention of calling a special session of the legislature to provide legal machinery to make the 6 per cent county road bond amendment operative, it was learned Saturday.

STATE ORDERS MT. HOOD LOOP SURVEY MADE

The state highway commissioners at their meeting in Portland Wednesday decided to cancel their proposal to pay two thirds of the cost of the new bridge at Oregon City on account of the failure of the supreme court to validate the road bonds of the county.

From these bonds the county was to use $105,000 for the bridge and was to furnish a total sum of $125,000 for the bridge while the highway commission was to provide $250,000. A short time ago the commissioners informed the county court that they would go ahead with the bridge as soon as the court made provisions for the south end road out of the city. Estimates were made on two routes for this road, one along the river bank and the other over the hill but at that time no decision was made as the court did not have the necessary funds.

In a statement Friday Judge Anderson said regarding the action of the commission: "I do not take it that this cancellation of the proposal that the state pay two-thirds of the cost of the bridge means that the commission refuses to aid us but that they cannot see the object in holding this amount from their funds when they are fully aware that we will not have funds to take care of our end of it. Even if we did vote a bond issue for the bridge alone and it was approved, it would not be voted on until fall and then before we could float the bonds and receive the money it would be too late for work on the bridge this year. At the present time I do not see how we can even hope to have a bridge this year and the failure of the supreme court to validate our bonds has completely stopped all hopes of carrying out our road paving program this year."

The Community supper given at the Grace Church on Thursday evening proved a very enjoyable affair. Over 70 were in attendance, who did justice to the splendid supper. LOGAN PEOPLE ENJOY TRIP OVER SCENIC COLUMBIA HIGHWAY

LOGAN, July 15.—It seems to be a big problem, too big, in fact, for the weather man to regulate supply and demand at the proper time. The rain has been a great benefit to gardeners, but a great injury to the cherry crop, also hundreds of tons of cut hay. Most all the farmers around here have their hay out.

At the last meeting of Harding Grange, State Master C. E. Spence was present and addressed the grange on matters of interest to the members. Being the 3rd of July it was expected it would be a patriotic meeting. Dinner was served in the park on the long table in the grove.

Kenneth Brown, who had his face quite badly burned with hot steam at the creamery, is improving now. It was feared he would lose sight of one eye for a time.

Ivor Tolstad of the Lower Logan store, is the latest to purchase an automobile, a Cadillac.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Kirchem, accompanied by Edith Sprague, have returned from their outing at Hood River. Shady nooks along the Clackamas seem to be in demand for summer homes by Portlanders, as agents have been trying to list places for that purpose.

P. M. Kirchem had a crew of men Wednesday filling his silo.

On a recent visit to The Dalles via Columbia Highway, we noted many things of interest to a webfooter. During a rest period we explored Ontario Gorge, which is an interesting experience, with its perpendicular walls of basalt towering hundreds of feet above.

Arriving at Mitchell Point at eleven a. m., had to wait until 12:30 o'clock until the paving crew quit for dinner, when the long line of waiting automobiles were allowed to pass on. At Hood River it looked odd to us to see the tall hedges of poplar trees, between orchards which served as wind breaks, or maybe to keep the wind from blowing the apples off the trees. It seems to be a lively, clean place, but for us, we prefer one with the humps, ironed out. The tunnel between Hood River and Mosier is one of the scenic attractions being hundreds of feet above the Columbia. Leaving Mosier the uphill climb began. The road is good, though, of serpentine form, winding in and out around curves on the mountain, until the summit is reached.

The descent of the long grade is interesting for all along are fields or farms and orchards. Then the broad brown expanse of Eastern Oregon greets the eye in places. One thing we noticed most all the buildings are down in canyons or ravines with fields sloping up to the roadside. In many places the pine trees seemed to be badly injured from the December freeze. Cherry picking was under way at The Dalles, and many of the choice ones are shipped to New York through the association.

COURT NOT TO ASK FOR RE-HEARING ON BONDS

The county court Thursday declined to authorize a petition for a re-hearing, although Attorney C. Schuebel of the bridge bonds, taking the position that the whole matter had been definitely passed upon by the supreme court, which based its opinion upon the lack of machinery to make the 6 1/2 per cent county road bond amendment operative. It is evident that the county court feels that the opinion is so conclusive that nothing could be gained by asking for a re-hearing, though Attorney C. Schuebel advised the court that in his judgment a re-hearing might lead the court to reverse its first decision.

Mr. Schuebel said that some of the legal questions involved had not been presented for the consideration of the court, and that it would well be expected that Lane, Yamhill and Jackson counties would join with Clackamas in clarifying the situation, those counties having voted to issue road bonds.

The county court indicated that they would consider the advisability of submitting a proposal at the November election to issue bonds for the construction of the bridge at Oregon City across the Willamette river. Charles E. Spence, master of the state grange, who was an interested spectator, advised the submission of a measure to vote a direct tax of five or seven mills, in lieu of proposing another bond bill, though he favors an independent bond issue for the new bridge across the Willamette.

P. R. L. & P. PAYS TAXES
The Portland Railway, Light & Power company paid the first half of their county taxes July 8, which amounted to approximately $94,000. Of this amount, $227.50 was interest as the taxes were due April 8 and at that time the company failed to pay them.

SALEM, July 9.—Persons under 16 years of age who attempt to drive a motor vehicle in Oregon, are doing so in violation of the provisions of the recently enacted motor vehicle drivers' license law and are subject to arrest and fine, according to a statement issued by Secretary of State Kozer.

Although the enforcement of the law has been suspended temporarily, pending the issuance of licenses to those who have filed their applications, the law specifically prohibits the operation of motor vehicles by persons under 16 years of age, license or no license, and there is no excuse for the violation of this section of the act, Kozer explains.

More than 100,000 applications have been filed for these licenses and it is expected that it will take two or three weeks to clear the decks for a rigid enforcement of the provisions of the law. In the meantime persons who have as yet failed to make application for a license are urged to do so, as failure to possess a card when the local peace officers and the state field deputies begin their roundup of violators will be no excuse.
