The County Agent System

Edwin T. Meredith, secretary of agriculture, and the newest member of President Wilson's cabinet, paid a high tribute to the work of the county agents in his address Saturday before a group of people at the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

The secretary is an enthusiast on the subject of agriculture. He has made a fortune in the business of publishing a farm journal in Iowa. He is no polished diplomat and makes no pretense of oratory, but is full of his chosen subject and knows it from A to Z.

Meredith laid particular stress upon the pitifully small salaries paid executives in his department. The maximum allowed by law is $4500 a year, and many of his best men have been taken by private interests that pay more money for brains than the department of agriculture needs.

Congressman Fordney, of Michigan, who followed Mr. Meredith, is chairman of the ways and means committee, and he admitted that sound judgment was not always used by congress. He also stated that the administration had asked for eight billions of money, that congress had cut $1,400,000,000 from the demands and had still created a deficit of one billion.
