NEW ENTERTAINMENTS FOR HALLOWE'EN ARE BETTER THAN THE OLD

Let others deplore as they will, the degeneracy of the times, the passing of old customs and the intrusion of the new. We will rejoice and be glad that "We live not in those blessed days of old."

Hallowe'en for example, in those boasted times was a night to be dreaded, when vandalism ran riot and one house was far from his castle, when sleep was made impossible by the violent ringing of the door bell, which contrivance had a wire attachment soon to give way under rough usage, when the next morning waking found a missing gate, one or more broken panes of glass and the front porch, if not indeed the entire front of the house, splashed with decayed refuse from the grocery nearest by.

All this, at least in our vicinity, has been replaced by amusement of a more rational type. Social gatherings are held in homes brightened by appropriate decorations, the improvised lanterns not accepted. Children diverted by plays that delight them, while their elders betake themselves to dancing and cards. The usual cheer of refreshments will not be omitted. Quiet and order will be found on returning home and the next morning will dawn upon an undevastated domain.

Scarcely will the Hallowe'en excitement have quieted down when that day of days the one election will come the day of triumph for some, of crushing defeat for others, of momentous interest to us all.

The thrill of victory will have died away, the shock of defeat will, we hope, have been assuaged and the public have regained its wonted composure before the beloved and sacred Thanksgiving appears.

May all those who must meet with disappointment from the election recall the example set by our illustrious Roosevelt in 1912 who in the morning after learning that his stupendous undertaking had been in vain, was in his office at the usual hour, absorbed in his interrupted work.

REPUBLICAN NOMINEE CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Senator Harding in a pre-election statement to the American people made public here tonight declared the Republican party "goes to the people assured that they will recognize its superiority as an instrumentality of administration and that in the election now impending they will give it the certificate of their confidence and trust."

The Republican party nominee criticized Democratic administration of governmental affairs, declaring "the nation is determined to be done with autocracy under the mere guise of democratic forms." The Republican party, he asserted, "has proposed in its platform and developed in the utterances of its leaders a program which contemplates equal opportunity for all," and "recognizes the vices of exploitation and profiteering."

As to the league of nations issue, Senator Harding summarized his party's position as follows: "The Republican party purposes such an association of nations as will most effectively further the aspiration for world-wide and permanent peace without sacrificing any part of the independence of the American nation. It believes America can and must bear its full part in the responsibilities of the world, but is always believes that America alone must decide what that part shall be."

OREGON IS MISSED IN SPEAKING TOUR OF SECRETARY BAKER

PORTLAND, Oct. 27.—Word was received yesterday from the Democratic national committee by Secretary G. Starkweather, president of the Cox-Roosevelt club, that the plan to have Secretary of War Baker speak in Oregon has been canceled, and it has widened the breach between the President Wilson and Chamberlain wings of the Democratic party, as the leaders of the former suspect the latter of being responsible.

Secretary of War Baker is a member of the Pro-League special that is touring the country in the interest of the Democratic presidential ticket, and which will arrive here tomorrow.

Originally it was announced that Mr. Baker would make the chief speech for the party in Portland, and Mr. Starkweather telegraphed Mr. Baker, and also the national committee, urging that the address be made under auspices of the Cox-Roosevelt club.

In reply to his telegram Mr. Starkweather today received a message that the party on the special had been divided, and the secretary of war would not speak in Oregon.

The secretary of war and United States Senator Chamberlain, who is seeking re-election, are personal enemies, and leaders of the Wilson wing now strongly suspect that following the announcement that the secretary of war would speak here, the state Democratic committee brought pressure to bear to have the plan canceled.
