Logan People Not in Favor of Macadam

LOGAN, Jan. 12.—District No. 4 sent in seventeen dollars to the European Relief fund. Clackamas County Pomona Grange meets at Oswego Wednesday. A few from here expect to attend. James Crmer of Upper Logan, who went to Phoenix, Arizona, for his health, has returned to his home here. At the last meeting of Harding Grange, which was Saturday, January 1st, the new officers were installed for the year. Master, C. B. Sprague; Lecturer, Ethel Sprague; Secretary, Irene Kirchem. A watch party and social dance was given Friday evening, December 31st with a capacity crowd and good time being enjoyed by all. All the old fashioned dances as well as the new were indulged in. Mrs. Carrie Crmer is at the Oregon City hospital. We note in the Banner Courier some one presuming to "report" the consensus of opinion as voiced at the road meeting recently held at Logan. I was there, and about seventy-five others and must say, that said "informant" is badly mistaken in trying to give the impression that the majority favored a macadam road. A big majority vote favored a hard surfaced road and also that the work be let by contract to the lowest responsible bidder. Adolph Friederick is making a new concrete walk from the road to his residence. They say a cat has nine lives, but how about single tax and County division? The people down there, only to bob up again.

Macksburg People to Move to Canada

MACKSBURG, Jan. 12.—A taste of winter has come in this second week of 1921. This wave of cold that brought a temperature of 24 degrees below zero at Chicago moderated to the freezing point in its passage over the mountains. While the East and the Middle West had a struggle with the cold that called out all their reserve of courage as well as of fuel to withstand it, we had just enough of it to make enjoyable our open fires supplied from the waste wood left in the land-clearers track. Two days of bright sunshine have put the ground into such shape as to render the roads passable once more. The Mother's Club is to hold its regular fortnightly meeting in the present week at the home of Mrs. Henry Walsh. This meeting begins the sixth year of the club's existence. At this meeting election of officers for the coming year is to take place, also plans are to be discussed for work in the interest of the Eastern Relief. Those of our community who have decided to remove to Canada are preparing to go to their chosen region early in March. Roy Yoder with his family and Jesse Nozifer have planned to leave for Alberta, Canada at this time. Mrs. Ed. Baggess has returned from Eastern Oregon and is helping her brother, Joe, Gibson, in his store.

Estacada Passes Dance Ordinance

ESTACADA, Jan. 11.—Our little city has been in a state of excitement for the past few days on account of the controversy regard to the night dances. A petition was circulated by the American Legion to be presented to the City Council, asking them not to pass the ordinance, which had been presented at a meeting a few weeks ago. Then another petition was circulated and generally signed, favoring the said ordinance. Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the city council, the matter was to be decided. A general invitation was extended by the Council, to all interested, to attend this meeting. As was customary, the meeting was to be held in the city hall, but after Mayor Stephens called the council to order, a motion was made to retire to the high school auditorium as the city hall could not hold the crowd. At the auditorium a large crowd gathered and after the proposed ordinance had been read, prohibiting the all night dances and penalties thereof for those who did not obey the law, time was given over to eight minute speeches, for and against the ordinance. The discussion was spirited and at times rather personal. At the close of the discussion, the Honorable Mayor asked for a vote of the council. All five responded, and there was only one dissenting vote. Thus the great momentous question with our people was settled for all time and there will be no more dancing at public dances, after twelve o'clock, midnight. The American Legion was the bitterest opponents to the ordinance, claiming that having dances was the only way in which the organization could raise funds to carry on their work. D. H. Morgan and family packed their household goods and left Tuesday by automobile for Roseburg where Mr. Morgan will again go into the mercantile business. The Morgans have lived in Estacada for about one year, being connected with his brother, U. S. Morgan in the Estacada Feed Store. He sold out his interest about three months ago. On account of the meeting of the City Council Tuesday night and many who wanted to attend this meeting, the Parent-Teacher meeting was postponed. The people of Estacada and vicinity are feeling quite jubilant over the prospect of a new dam being built on the Clackamas above this place near Oak Grove. This means more prosperity for this part of Clackamas county, for the farther the country is developed east of here the better it will be for Estacada. The P. R. & P. have applied for the privilege of putting in this dam on the Clackamas river and it is quite likely the work will be done during the summer. Miss Anna Dillon visited relatives in Portland last Saturday. Bert Moore and wife have rented the Ed. Bates residence on Main St., now occupied by Ed. Douglass and family. Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kerkes enjoyed a visit with their daughter from Portland Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. Earl Willis of Portland, was here Saturday to visit her husband who is working for the Estacada Meat Co. Johnson, of the Estacada Pharmacy, visited relatives in Vancouver this last week-end. Mrs. W. A. Kohlermeir was here from Portland the latter part of last week, visiting her brothers, the Wilcox boys and sister, Mrs. Earl Kilgore. Mr. and Mrs. John Page returned Monday from a trip to Oregon City and Gladstone. Miss Mildred Douglass is sick with the measles at the home of her uncle Ed Douglass, on upper Main street. B. H. Finch, the hardware man, was a business visitor in Portland Tuesday. C. C. Thomas has gone to Portland where he will have employment. Ed Hunt left this week for Portland where he will again engage in business repairing violins and other musical instruments. Ed. Douglass expects to remove from Estacada soon to Molalla where he will do trucking again, having bought a new Kleiber.

It was alleged that in one precinct, where Bliss had 14 votes to his opponent's one, he gave one of the judges in the recent election $10 and a box of cigars, thereby violating the corrupt practices act. CROWDS FLOCK TO HEAR TRIAL OF BOND MAN

That the attorneys for the receiver of the defunct Morris Bros., Inc., of Portland, will attempt to hold Fred S. Morris and Henrietta A. Morris, his sister, responsible for such failure and the possible loss of thousands of dollars to investors in interim certificates, was the statement made before Robert Maguire, master in chancery, upon the resumption of the hearing Wednesday morning. While scores of creditors and others crowded into the commissioner's tiny courtroom on the upper floor of the federal building in Portland, hoping for some word that would sustain them in the face of what appears to them to be their own heavy loss through the failure of a point of law became an entering wedge and the hearing paused for most of the morning while attorneys debated. Packed into the seats and jammed against the walls of the little room, overflowing into the hallway, where John L. Etheridge and Mrs. Etheridge were seated for lack of room within, the audience listened attentively to shreds of evidence in the hearing that is seeking, among other things, to determine Morris' responsibility for the bankrupt condition. Mrs. Calvert Has Fine Buckskin Coat Mrs. Alvilda Calvert, wife of Harry Calvert, well known photographer, of this city, is the proud possessor of a handsome new hunting coat from buckskin as the result of her hunting expositions in Southern Oregon. Mrs. Calvert has never failed to secure the limit of deer when making these expeditions, and is now considered one of the crack shots of Oregon. Her aim is always true, and it was a noticeable fact that the skins used in making the coat were not marred with bullet marks. The coat is lined, and will be worn by Mrs. Calvert on her hunting trip in deer season. The artist in making this coat was Gawyer, the tailor, of Portland, Oregon. Mr. and Mrs. Calvert were among those to make the last trip from here in the deer season, and still have 50 pounds in cold storage for future use. They enjoyed venison for Christmas and New Year's.

MORE HERO BODIES ON WAY HOME

PARIS.—Exhumation of the bodies of the American soldiers buried at Bony cemetery, all men of the 27th (New York National guard) and 30th (Wildcat, from Tennessee and North and South Carolina) divisions has begun. Of 1777 bodies in the cemetery about 900 will be returned to the United States and the remainder will not be disturbed. Bony is to be one of the four permanent cemeteries in France and other bodies will be moved into the cemetery, but this work will not start until the work of sending the bodies to America has been completed. It is the first big battlefield cemetery to be reached by the army exhumation units. The district is so devastated that there is no shelter for the workers and a train had to be provided to make quarters for them. The winter weather has also set in and movable sheds have had to be built to shelter the men while working.

SENATE FAVORS IMMIGRATION TO U. S. FOR LABOR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Hard sledding is ahead of the Albert Johnson bill to suspend all foreign immigration for one year. Opposition to the measure since it passed over to the senate, where hearings are being held, has developed amazing proportions. The common criticism is that the measure is unscientific and excludes from the country certain classes of immigrants for whom there is a crying need. Among the opponents of the bill, it will be discovered before long, are several senators who have specialized on the immigration question and have been just as anxious as house leaders to see some check placed upon the after-war influx to this country. It is complained, however, that the Johnson bill fails to take into account the preponderant growth of the cities and the need for more farmers to develop the agricultural areas. Not only does the country need more farmers, it is asserted, but it also needs farm labor. Too many native Americans, it is declared, desire to live in the city, which makes it necessary to go to Europe for a Caucasian class willing to go on the land, either as farmer or farm laborer. The Johnson bill deals with the question in such arbitrary fashion that business men throughout the country have awakened to the danger of a depleted agricultural industry if the house measure is not remedied before it goes through the senate.

LIKES FARM BETTER THAN CITY LIFE

E. B. Anderson, a former business man of Oregon City, now engaged in the dairy industry and farming in Tumalo, Central Oregon, was in Oregon City on business this afternoon. He visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Anderson, of Gladstone, and also among his many friends in Oregon City, returning to his home this evening. Mr. Anderson says farming and dairying are far ahead of running a business and he is making a success of the industries he has undertaken. He owns 160 acres, all of which are under cultivation. He has 30 head of dairy cows and is growing his feed. He recently completed a 120-ton silo, and is now trying out the sunflower ensilage, which is found to be relished by the cattle. They prefer this to the corn ensilage, and he has 20 tons stored. Mr. Anderson is also feeding his stock alfalfa, as he has 60 acres planted to that feed, secures from two to three cuttings each season. The land is especially adapted to growing alfalfa and raising potatoes, for the crop of potatoes this year was the largest since Mr. Anderson has been in that section. He has planted the Netta Gem variety, the outer part being of grayish color, while the potato itself is of white and exceptionally fine quality. The land in that section is irrigated, the source of water being from Squaw Creek. The Anderson farm is located on the Pacific Highway. The people of that section are active says Mr. Anderson, and as a new hall was needed in which to hold meetings it was decided to hold a round-up on a small scale. All the people of that section took interest in the affair, and $600 were the net proceeds from the day's event. "Tippy" is the name of the handsome collier owned by Master Lloyd Anderson, and accompanies his young master to school each day, the teacher allowing the dog to remain under her desk until the school bell rings to dismiss the children. The dog is now "wise" when the bell rings, and as soon as the first "tap" is given he will arise from the floor and look for his young master and march out with all the students. He even took part in the races at the local "round-up" for when master Lloyd's horse started out in the race, with the little owner perched upon its back, "Tippy" was soon after its heels and came out in as good time as the pony. Mr. Anderson says hunting and fishing are excellent in that section, and a few days ago found three deer feeding with his dairy cows. They were unmolested by the Anderson family, and when they had gotten their "fill" departed for the wilderness from which they came.

At the annual meeting of members the St. Paul's Episcopal church held in the parish house Thursday evening, the following were chosen vestrymen to serve for the year 1921: William Hammond, J. R. Humphreys, E. A. Chapman, L. A. Morris, H. M. Tompkins, F. T. Barlow, Gilbert Russell. Former Oregon City Boy Badly Burned

HOOD RIVER, Or., Jan. 6.—E. C. Miller, Mount Hood rancher, has received a pioneer industry. He expects to give employment to a number of men the remainder of the winter heating ties from fir timber. Mr. Miller has a contract to furnish to the O.-W. R. & N. company 4000 hewn ties. Half of the material will be cut in the Mount Hood district. The other ties will be manufactured from timber purchased from J. W. Morton, along the Columbia river highway west of this city. Rollie Cross, of Bend, Oregon, and a former Oregon City young man, received painful burns about the body a few days ago, when he attempted to assist a family during a fire. A can of kerosene was thrown out of the building during the fire, and as Cross was near the doorway in the act of entering, the kerosene can struck him, spilling the fluid over his clothing, which at once caught fire. He made a hasty retreat and by presence of mind, rolled upon the ground extinguishing the flames, but not until his legs were badly blistered. A report reached here early in the week that Cross was in a serious condition, but news came yesterday that the boy is recovering rapidly.
