FARMERS MUST ORGANIZE

Business capital is organized. When business interests make demands they are acceded to.
 Labor is organized. When union labor speaks it is listened to.
 What do farmers do? Just kick, and let things go on.
 Is your job, is your investment worth protecting?
 Who is going to protect it? The man who spends his money for luxuries and then cries for cheap food? The man who names the price he'll pay for your food products? The man who sets the price on the things you buy? The man who works eight hours a day at from 50 to 100 cents per hour and expects you to work 14 hours a day so that he can have cheap food? Not on your life will these men protect your interests.

Will you do it? Will you see the law makers about it? Will you go in and control the markets? You, nor any of us, can do much alone.

It's coming, Mr. Farmer. You are going to have something to say about your business, you are going to be able to depend on getting a price for the products of your toil, which will be somewhere near the cost of production.

It's coming, Mr. Farmer. But are you going to help, or let the other fellow do it? The only way to help is to join your County Farm Bureau, the Oregon Farm Bureau Federation and the American Farm Bureau Federation. Be ready to join hands with other farmers of this county and put agriculture on a solid footing.

COMPARATIVE VALUES

You talk of your breed of cattle,
 And plan for a higher strain,
 You double the food of the pasture,
 You heap up the measure of grain;
 You draw on the wits of the nation,
 To better the barn and the pen,
 But what are you doing, my brothers,
 To better the breed of men?
 You boast of your Morgans and Herefords,
 Of the worth of a calf or a colt;
 And scoff at the scrub and the mongrel
 As worthy a fool or a dolt;
 You mention the points of your roaster,
 With many a "wherefore" and "when,"
 But, ah! are you conning, my brothers,
 The worth of the children of men?
 And what of your boy? Have you measured
 His needs for a growing year?
 Does your mark as his sire, in his features,
 Mean less than your brand on a steer,
 Thoroughbred—that is your watchword,
 For stable and pasture and pen,
 But what is your word for the homestead?
 Answer, you breeders of men!

OPEN DOORS IN BUSINESS

THE WOMAN PHYSICIAN.
 The practice of medicine is opening to women in larger numbers. It is one which the ambitious girl of physical health, a taste for science, and a zeal to administer to suffering need have no fear to enter. It offers generous remuneration, honor and satisfaction when success is attained, but as in most cases when the rewards are great, the struggle to attain them is commensurately severe.

Before beginning the medical course a college diploma should be won. This is not absolutely essential and some succeed after only two years, or even less at college. The medical course usually takes four years to complete and after this a year of hospital work is necessary. This makes one late in arriving at the rewards but the responsibilities of a physician are too great to be undertaken by immature or youthful persons. Both experience and training are demanded by those who hold life and death in their hands.

THE WOMAN AND THE BANK.
 Most women who are neither independent earners nor widows know very little about the Bank. To them it is a formidable building with still more formidable methods, both of which look too imposing and difficult to be usable by the average woman. This is all a mistake. Banks are now reaching out for the small accounts and trying in every way to be friendly to the small depositor and to make him and her feel at home with the Bank.

To the housekeeper the Bank is a valuable asset in home management, no matter how small may be the income or the outgo. All bills should be paid by check. This does away with the necessity of ever paying a bill twice as the endorsed check is the best possible evidence of payment. The paying of bill by check teachers one to be systematic and careful. It promotes savings and prevents losses. It is much more of a temptation to spend a dollar in your purse than to check it out of the bank.

The getting acquainted with the banker and his helpers is a wage in itself. It gives one business standing and if you ever wish to borrow money you will be much more likely to get it from your banker than if you have never had dealings with him.

Business houses respect more highly the person with a bank account and customers who pay bills by check receive more careful attention from tradespeople.

In opening a bank account there are certain bits of knowledge one will need to learn. Do not be afraid to approach the bank clerk and ask all about what the steps in banking are. The first is to make a deposit and here you will make the acquaintance of the "deposit slip." You should take home with you a small pad of these on which you make note of future deposits to save your time at the bank. On the "deposits slip" is such data as the name of the person making the deposit and to whose account it is made, and the amount, date and character of such deposit. A check book will be given you in which you may make the checks to pay your bills. Each check is numbered, dated, has the name of the person to whom payment is to be made, and the sum written both in full and in figures and your own name signed at the bottom. The "stub" in the check book makes a record of your expenditures, the date and for what and to whom each check is paid as well as noting each time you make a deposit, the sum, and the total remaining after each check is made out.

When a check is "cashed" it must be endorsed by the collector. This is done by signing the name at the left end on the back and is a conclusive acknowledgment of payment received. These endorsed checks are all kept for you by your banker and at times returned to you. They tally up with your stubs and show you where your money has gone.

The businesslike housekeeper looks over her bills when they are received to be certain they are correct and then pays them by check at a given time once a month.

THE WOMAN CITIZEN.
 The only excuse for politics is to create a safe government for our people, and there can be no safe government that does not give its first consideration to the child, the potential citizen of our country.
 Thank God that the women of America are to take a hand in the game of politics, which means that the babies' day is dawning as it never

TOOK EIGHT MEN TO TRIM ONE PORKER

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Feb. 7.—He was a big hog, and his piggishness was a credit to his family. He wanted to "hog" all the time of the class in livestock management, and nearly succeeded.

When the instructor endeavored to demonstrate to the class how a hog could be manured single-handed the 800 pound porker balked and refused to lie peacefully on his back during the operation.

A pretty girl can manure several men in short order without departing from the English language, but it took eight men, using several languages, to put the finishing touches on the hoofs of this husky grunter. Greatly outnumbered the hog was finally held on his back while one of the students daintily applied the pruning shears to its overgrown toe nails.

AUTO THIEVES HELD UNDER HEAVY BAIL

Alfred Twigger, of Portland, and A. J. Koscioliek, of Parkplace, arrested near Roseburg after a running gun fight with the sheriff's men there last week, have been bound over to the grand jury and are now in jail in default of $300 bail. The girl, Alvera Patterson, who was with the two men at the time of the arrest, is still at Roseburg, but it is reported that she has been set free by the authorities there.

The two men and the girl were arrested upon telegraphic word from the sheriff here, after they had taken a Ford auto at Parkplace. The trio left the machine in Eugene, and took another car from there, but were later captured after they fired several shots at a posse in hot pursuit near Roseburg.

EX-MAYOR OF SHERWOOD IS BADLY HURT

P. agent, heard Morback's cry for help, and rushing to the building from the street, he found the ex-mayor's arm had thrown the belt from the drive wheel of the machinery, probably saving the man's life. The flesh and muscles of the arm were torn to shreds, but the bones were not broken.

After Morback was released from the coils of the machinery, he was taken unconscious to his home, where first aid was administered and later was removed to a Portland hospital. Morback is part owner of the light and power plant at Sherwood.
