Randall Crawford's eighth birthday anniversary was observed in a delightful manner at the home of his grandfather, George Randall, Sr., on Fifth and Washington streets Saturday afternoon, February 5th, when the little fellow entertained a few of his Mrs. E. E. Petit, Mr. and Mrs. F. Can. friends in a manner long to be remembered by the tots attending.

> Games and music occupied the after noon, after which refreshments were served. The birthday cake, with its lighted candles was the delight of the kiddies, and all thoroughly enjoyed this as well as other refreshments served by Randall's mother, Mrs. Lottie Crawford, and who was assisted in serving by her litle daughter, Doiothy Crawford, and Agnes Hoffman. The decorations of the Randall
