POLICE ALLEGE JOHNSTONE IS THE 'SHADOW'

PORTLAND, March 16.—That Herbert L. Johnstone, said to have confessed since his arrest Tuesday in Los Angeles to a charge of attempting to blackmail George A. Mottman of Olympia, Wash., is "The Shadow" who terrorized Portland people early in January, is the firm conviction of Chief of Inspectors Clark of the Portland police department.

Samples of handwriting received by J. Wesley Ladd and other Portland residents were compared by experts with the letter received by Mr. Mottman and declared to be identical, according to Chief of Police Clark. Portland detectives conferred with the Olympia officials soon after the attempted blackmail of the Olympia man, in which Johnstone was actually captured and identified but allowed to escape. The clear description obtained of him in Olympia is said by Chief Clark to have tallied with the meager description of "The Shadow" obtained by police and deputy sheriffs here.

Although a letter containing a description of Johnstone and a copy of his picture, mailed throughout California by the Portland police bureau led to his arrest, evidence in the hands of the Portland police is not so strong against Johnstone as that obtained by the Olympia authorities. According to local officers, his prosecution will probably be undertaken at Olympia by the postal authorities.

So cleverly did "The Shadow" work during the period of ten days or more he operated here that a single finger print on a thermos bottle in a lunch basket left by him where he first waited for Mr. Ladd to drop a package of money is practically the only incriminating evidence against him. Efforts will be made by the police to obtain a copy of Johnstone's finger prints for comparison when he passes through Portland on his way to Olympia.

Fine Dairy Herd and Business Sold to Well Known Oregon City Men

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Durrell, who have been operating a dairy at Mount Pleasant, about two miles from Oregon City, have sold their interests and dairy herd to L. E. May and James Mellen, who took charge Monday morning.

There are 200 patrons of this dairy, and the new owners have announced that there will be no rise in the price of milk and cream. Mr. May came to Oregon City seven years ago, where he has since resided, and Mr. Mellen came here with his parents when a mere lad, and for the past 18 years has been superintendent of the weave-room of the Oregon City Manufacturing company.

Mr. Durrell and wife started into the dairy business in Oregon City two years ago with one single cow, and as the business increased and the greater demand for milk, they gradually added to their dairy herd some of the finest dairy cattle in the state. At the time of disposing of the business they owned cows, including Jerseys, Holsteins and Guernseys. Owing to his wife's health, Mr. Durrell sold his dairy business. They will remain at their Mount Pleasant home, the dairy herd having been moved to the Mellen place near the South-East road.
