$2000 REWARD
IS POSTED FOR YODER SLAYER

SALEM, Or., March 11.—Governor O'Leary today issued a proclamation recommending to the next legislature the payment of $1000 by special appropriation to the person or persons instrumental in bringing about the arrest and conviction of the murderer or murderers of Simon J. Yoder, Woodburn garage operator.

Although Sheriff Bower and his deputies have been working night and day in the hope that the slayer of Yoder might be apprehended, they admitted Thursday that they had no clew upon which to continue their search.

Yoder was employed by a man late Saturday night under the pretense that the latter had a defective automobile and desired to be driven to Salem.

EARLY MORNING
FIRE DESTROYS
HOME FRIDAY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Hulm, in Falls View Addition, was burned to the ground today morning about 6:30 and the household effects, outside of a few baby clothes saved, were destroyed by the flames.

The fire started from a kerosene lamp which Mr. Hulm was carrying. He caught his foot over some obstacle, and before he could regain his balance, the lamp was thrown against a stove, the glass breaking and scattering the kerosene in every direction.

HEAVY TRUCK
TURNS OVER ON HIGHWAY

A truck operated by the Willamette Valley Transfer company and loaded with crates of eggs, turned over on the highway about three miles from Oregon City on the New River road yesterday afternoon, and the cargo was smashed.

Failure to Punish Crime

Criminals do not commit offenses freely unless they feel fairly sure they can escape punishment. The present wave of crime indicates that the police and judicial forces of the country are not securing the arrest and conviction of criminals as they should.

William H. Taft, in a recent review of a book by Raymond Fosdick on the administration of criminal law, finds that the machinery for punishing crime is working very badly.

It is the opinion of many authorities that a great many people in this country have a tendency toward violence, leading them to commit brutal crimes, a tendency which must be met by strong repression.

The law's delays are an important reason for failure to secure convictions. If trials are postponed by faulty procedure, witnesses leave the locality where a certain crime was committed, the memory of events becomes indefinite, and it is much harder to secure convictions.

Crime will continue prevalent until the people wake up to the need for prompt and impartial enforcement of the laws. Police forces must be appointed on a basis of efficiency and not on that of politics.

Ake Was His Name
of "Hula Hula" Fame
But He Was Detained

H. W. Ake, Philippino, who came here to take part in a "hula-hula" at a local theater Sunday, done most of his "hula-huling" in the city jail, and in the course of his "gymnastics" around the city bastle, broke up most of the furniture and other articles for the comfort of prisoners.

Ake, it is claimed, got roarin' drunk and started out to see what he could do in the way of stirring up trouble. The first man he ran up against, however, was Chief of Police Hadley, who promptly put Mr. Ake in the city jail.

Monday morning, Ake was brought before Judge Kelly, who promptly said "50 and costs." Ake couldn't raise the money, and still in jail, although he is desperately trying to locate some of his "hula" friends in Portland to pay his fine.

RURAL-CARRIER EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for the county of Clackamas, Ore., to be held at Oregon City and Portland on April 9, 1921, to fill the position of rural carrier at Billing and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from other post offices in the above-mentioned county.

FORUM OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Enterprise:
A mass meeting of the Central Point Telephone company met at Central Point and talked over the rise in telephone rates and voted to refuse to pay the raise.

The first step is to master the field of art knowledge, perhaps in a one or two year course at school. One must know the best which the ages have produced in art, porcelains, tapestries, color combinations, the significance of line, painting, sculpture.

Chas. Schreck, of West Linn, was arrested Friday night by Constable Fortune on a warrant accusing him of forging the name of F. E. Shepley to checks on the Bank of Oregon City.

MR. AND MRS.
VAN WEY LOSE
ONLY CHILD

Marshall VanWey, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin VanWey, of this city, died at the family home on Eighth and Van Buren streets Friday afternoon, after four weeks' illness.

Little Marshall was a general favorite and popular among his little playmates. He was an unusually attractive and bright child, and there was a general regret in the neighborhood when his death was reported.

MRS. WILLIAM
KINNER DIES
AT HOSPITAL

Mrs. William Kinner, well known resident of Milwaukie, died at the Oregon City hospital Friday at 12 noon from embolism.

Mrs. Kinner's death came suddenly, and she was looking forward to going home in a short time from the institution, where she had been for the past four weeks.

Aesthetics On The Farm

By Howard Hillis.

Us farmers in the country cannot live on pretty views. I'm thankful for the beauty in the common things we use; I rejoice in the greenness of the grass and trees in spring.

I often think the fruit trees, with their load of snowy bloom. If that were all they ever bore, would be no waste of room.

I am thankful for the colors of the forests in the fall. With the haze of Indian Summer sort of dreaming over all.

And if God put grace and beauty in such things as harmful weeds, I'm glad he left a little for the things that fill our needs.

Let the rich man in the city the high toned paintings buy—Not one of them can equal the sunset in the sky.

So I see no use in pinning for the beauties man has made. Since Nature's works are free to all—and lay them in the shade;

OPEN DOORS IN BUSINESS

THE INTERIOR DECORATOR

To the girl with a love of beauty, there is no more delightful work than interior decorating. It requires, not only exquisite taste, original ideas, and training in art, but a wide familiarity with business as well.

When learning, one usually works awhile without wages, later getting $10 to $30 a week when worth it. The limits of this business may be pushed to almost any figure; a few women are now making $50,000 a year at it.

The first step is to master the field of art knowledge, perhaps in a one or two year course at school. One must know the best which the ages have produced in art, porcelains, tapestries, color combinations, the significance of line, painting, sculpture.

The business end is as important as the artistic end. She must deal with masons, painters, cabinet makers, carpenters, upholsterers, and with patrons whose tastes she must strive continually to refine without being offensive or discourteous.

Learning to buy is an important part of the training: what is on the market, what it should cost, and when is the best place to get it.

The money side of the business must be collected promptly, workmen must be held to finish contracted work on scheduled time, and they must be paid when the job is done.

THE WOMAN FOUNDATION FOR HEALTH.

Are you a member of The Woman's Foundation For Health?

Perhaps you are and do not know it. This larger and worth-while organization is not composed of members as individuals, but of fifteen influential national organizations such as the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, The Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, The League of Women Voters, the Y. W. C. A., the Congress of Mothers, and several college and alumni organizations of women.

Although it is now two years old, it is just finding itself and will presently be laying its helpful hands upon you however remotely you may dwell.

As its name implies, its aim is to teach women health—"the joyous and arousing whole of what health is."

THE VEGETABLE SALAD.

Do women busy in the home owe a duty to the state? How much of a housewife's time and attention should be turned from her home duties and given to public work?

THE WHY OF THE HOME.

The home is because of the children. Grown-ups might wander around and defend themselves, but there must be some fixed habitation for the baby.

FIRE DESTROYS
AT CLACKAMAS

The summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine R. Smith at Clackamas Station, near the rifle range, was destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon, caused by a coal oil lamp on the second story overturning and exploding.

As soon as the alarm was given neighbors and others rushed to the scene and assisted in saving the household belongings, but the fire had gained such headway in the second story that all contents of that floor were burned.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith was considered one of the handsomest in the county, and was occupied by them each summer. It was modern throughout, with hardwood floors, and was valued at $34,000. The home was partially covered by insurance.

The owner, who is known as "Pheasant Smith," has engaged in raising Chinese pheasants for some time. He and his wife are making their home at the Hotel Portland, Portland, and spent their summers and holidays at their summer home at Clackamas. This makes the second country home of the Smith family that has been destroyed by fire.

WM. OLIVER IS DEAD FROM HEART ATTACK

Wm. Oliver, of Oswego, was found dead in bed at his home at that place Monday morning about 8 o'clock. Death resulted from heart failure and he was 64 years old.

He is survived by his wife, of Oswego, and two children, one living at Eugene and the other at Seattle.

Oswego Citizens
Anxious for Recall

The mass meeting held in Oswego Friday evening to protest against the proposed raise in telephone rates of the Pacific Telephone company was largely attended.

Thomas Chalmers, of Oswego, acted as chairman, and among those whom he appointed to represent Oswego at a recall meeting were Frank Huffman, Mr. Savage, Fred Morey and Mr. Gray.

Fire Lads Will Reorganize Friday

A fire department meeting has been called by Chief Sells of all the departments in Oregon City for Friday evening at 8 o'clock, in the city hall, for the purpose of reorganizing the Oregon City volunteer fire department.

It was reported at the meeting that 27 telephones had been ordered out of homes in and around Oswego, but so far the telephones have not been taken out by the company.
