Canby Boy Reported Killed In Accident But Turns Up Safe

CANBY, April 6 .- Considerable uneasiness was caused among the menibers of the Soper family and friends of aErl Hutchinson, son of Mrs. Soper, when word reached this city Sunday that Earl had met with a fatal accident while on his return to Newberg from this city at Tiggard

The young man had accompanied a number of friends, including Fred and Slyvia Clemmensen and Miss Violet Roberts, to Canby spending the day at the home of Mrs. Soper, Leaving here about 4 o'clock they stopped over in Portland to attend a theatre, but unknown to relatives here. Later word reached here that an accident occurred, when an automobile had collided Paving on Streets with a motorcycle killink two young men. One of the witnesses of the ac cident reported shortly after that he had identified one of the men killed as Hutchinson. Harry Garrett, brother-inlaw of Hutchinson, accompanied by Allen Hutchinson, his brother, heard of the accident while in Newberg, and hastened to the scene, and found that a young man and young woman from Portland were badly injured when the former drove his car from the road in order to escape being hit by a motor-The car pitched down an em bankment, demolishing the same, and badly injuring the occupants. It was first feared that both had been instant. ly killed, but they were soon revived. and later removed to Portland.

Relatives and friends of Hutchinson and other members of the motoring party were greatly relieved when the facts were received here to the effect that they had not met with an acci-

To Start Very Soon

CANBY ,April 6.-Work is progress ng on the street improvement in Canby. A large crew of men with teams are now engaged in ploughing and grading the streets ready for the paving. The work on C street was started Monday. Through the protest of the Carlton & Rosenkrans company, the First National Bank, J. J. Sandeness and J. W. Snyder, the stately trees fronting the bank, real estate office of J. J. Sandsness and the property owned by the Carlton & Rosenkrans company are to remain, and the street so constructed that these trees wil cast their shade during the summer time along the street. It was feared by many admirers of the trees that they would be cut, when the street improvement was made.

One of the trees, which had seen its best days, and on the verge of dying in a short time, was cut down, and another fronting the Vinyard

Those to remain are old landmarks of the city, and have always been ad mired during the hot summer days by the many tourists that pass through

Rebekahs of Canby

Some 15 years ago a bright young woman went into a manufacturing concern as a bookkeeper, and in about 10 years she had acquired a thorough grasp of the business. She had not performed many of the mechanical processes, but they were simple and she could tell when they were well done. She knew the ins and outs of the concern better than any of the owners did.

Turning Down A Woman

The girl had advanced as far as women ordinarily went in the period before the war, and was paid about $16.00 a week. She felt she had gone far beyond the average office worker in efficiency, and could not see why she was not doing the work ordinarily performed by a superintendent. The principal owners were away from the office a good deal of the time. They needed some competent person to leave in charge during their absence. She filled the bill admirably.

When she suggested to them that it seemed to her she was earning more than an ordinary clerical worker, they turned her down. No girl had ever before been paid more than $15.00 in that office. They could not go beyond their limit for women workers.

The outcome was that the girl went off to another city, and when last heard from was getting on well in a big concern and obtaining promotion. Meanwhile the business she had left had had hard rubbing. Its troubles were largely due to war conditions, but if she had remained in her old position she could have done a lot to keep the company running full time

The moral of such a stary is that it is pretty poor business to fail to recognize exceptional gifts, even if the possessor of them is a women. However, young women workers should realize that the girl referred to was no ordinary office worker, who simply did things in a routine way. She used her brains on every bit of work she undertook, and tried to make a constant improvement in all the methods and operations over which she had
