Big Time Saturday

SANDY, May 26 .- Don't forget the great event next Saturday night! The Everybody come and bring your sister, aunt or cousin, best girl or somebody! There's no more important people in the world than the promising graduates, who are in the regular order of things, to have a place in the coming activities of life, and young folks deserve the best we have to give! They will pass it along, to the world!

"The Rose O' Plymouth" is a historical play and the popular performers will give a fine show! Everybod?

George Beers is going to play the violin and Ruby Dodd will give a musi cal reading. Both teachers and pupils are working very hard to give a good production and it will be a treat!

The next school event will be the baccalaureate sermon by Rev. Earl Cotton on Sunday night at the Methodist church and should be well attended. It is a sacred time in the lives of graduates who are stepping out of out a place each for himself, or herself, and this is always a service to make much of. The community owes it to these graduates to come with them, and pause with them a short hour before they pass out of our lives, for who knows where they wil go to begin the great drama of an active life in the world? Let us fill the church! Special music is being arranged for the occasion. Miss Mary Junker will sing, George Beers wil play, the Sandy quartette will sing and there will be one or two other good numbers

Program Ready for Commencement

SANDY, May 25 .- Everyone is cor dialy invited to attend the annual commencement exercises of the Sandy high school at the Odd Fellow's hall on Friday, June 3, at 8:15 P. M. Sandy is indeed fortunate in securing such a big man as Rev. Oswald W. Taylor, D. D., pastor Grace Memorial Episcopal church of Portland to deliver the commencement address as Sandy seidom hears a speaker of such note. The following program will be given:

Violin solo, George Beers; Invocation. Rev. Earl Cotton; Vocal solo, Miss Ruth Crum; Address, the Rev. Dr. Oswald Taylor; Vocal duet, Josephine and Pearl Dixon; Presentation solo, Miss Mary Junker.

The high school graudates this year Hazel Beers, Eugenia Proctor and Fred Junker. The pupils who have completed their eighth grade work eye is charmed by the wielding of the will also receive their diplomas on the evening of June 3. A capacity audience is expected at this event.
