250 OLD TIMERS AT BIG BARBECUE FEAST

Judge H. E. Cross Chosen To Head Newly Formed Association

Permanent organization of the Clackamas County Pioneers Association was effected at a big barbecue dinner at the Gladstone Chautauqua Wednesday. This meeting, attended by 250 old timers in the county, was the largest and most enthusiastic held this season by any organization on the grounds, the barbecue feast was furnished by the courtesy of the Chautauqua association.

At the election of officers, Judge Harvey E. Cross of Gladstone was made president; David Canfield, Oregon City, vice-president; E. C. Hackett, Oregon City, secretary; E. G. Canfield, Oregon City, treasurer, and Molly Barlow Wilkins, historical. As a coincidence, the day also marked the birthday of Vice President Canfield, a pioneer of '47. Dr. Owens-Adair was the oldest pioneer on the grounds at the dinner, her badge proclaiming her coming to the state in 1843. At the "love feast," just following the dinner, Molly Barlow Wilkins presided, and toasts were responded to by Gilbert L. Hedges, Hon. M. C. George, Harvey G. Starkweather, and George C. Himes, curator of the Oregon Historical Society.

Historic Volume Planned

At 11 o'clock in the auditorium President Cross, who is also president of the Chautauqua Association, presided, and addresses were made by Hon. J. D. Lee, of Portland; Hon. M. C. George, of Portland; and Peter H. D'Arcy, of Salem. The adoption of permanent by-laws and a constitution provided for annual meetings of the new association, and it is also planned to compile a historical volume dealing with the lives of the pioneers of this section.

HOME OF WASHINGTON

ON THE peaceful and picturesque shores of the River Potomac, some sixteen miles south of our national capital, stands Mount Vernon—the home of the Father of His Country. It was so named in honor of Admiral Vernon of the British navy and it is to the efforts of the Mount Vernon Ladies' association of the United States that the citizens of America are indebted for the preservation of this national shrine.

Occupying a site of great charm, commanding a sweeping view of broad river and pleasing landscape, is this grand old mansion—to which the young officer came to live shortly after his marriage and to which he retired from the presidency, to spend his days in a manner befitting one of his rank, means and time, and where he died in 1799.

The structure was built in 1743 and contains many of the original furnishings and relics of the family. Clustered about it are the barn, coach house, spinning house, meat house, ice house, wash house, kitchen and other outbuildings. Nearby is a remarkable, old-fashioned garden with quaint, oddly-designed spaces set off by box hedges, said to be 150 years old. In this garden is a coffee tree said to have been planted in 1824 by General Lafayette and cuttings from a willow tree which it is claimed were brought from the grave of the great Napoleon at St. Helena.

Enclosed in two marble sarcophagi, in a small and simple structure within the grounds, rest the remains of General George Washington and his consort Martha.

The Cost Of Crookedness

In addressing the world's Christian Endeavor convention in New York, Roger Babson, a well known statistician, remarked that the causes of business depression are not industrial but spiritual. He felt that the future of the country is not determined by politicians or laws, but by organizations like the Christian Endeavor society that are working for moral and religious progress.

Good laws and wise administration can do a great deal to remove business troubles, yet the underlying cause of commercial difficulties lies deeper. As long as people are dishonest and unfair, trying to get the better of each other, there is bound to be dissension and industrial stoppage.

If the whole world had been fair and honest, the great war would never have come. If all employers sought earnestly the welfare of their help, and all employees were willing to do a faithful day's work for fair pay, there would be no strikes and smooth prosperity would follow.

Human selfishness is very deep rooted. But you can persuade people that it pays to be square. When business men or workers try to put over anything that is not equitable, when they try to win their contentions by force and not by merit and reason, they should reflect that the people who try to squeeze and crowd are soon marked out for hogs. They get public disapproval, and encounter the fate that hogs usually get.

The only way to win any kind of success, is by a policy of honest and fair dealing in which the interest of all parties is given equal consideration. The people who take an unfair advantage because they think they can get it, may win it temporarily. But they create a reputation for themselves that sets everyone against them, and in the end they lose out.

A Creditable Experiment.

BY CHARLES EDWARD

Unofficially, it is stated that the road work in Clackamas county this year will cost more than $1,000,000. The building of the new bridge across the Willamette, the state highway work, the market road construction, and the general road work will easily bring the aggregate total to seven figures. This colossal improvement program, is practically characteristic of the rate at which road work is being done throughout the nation.

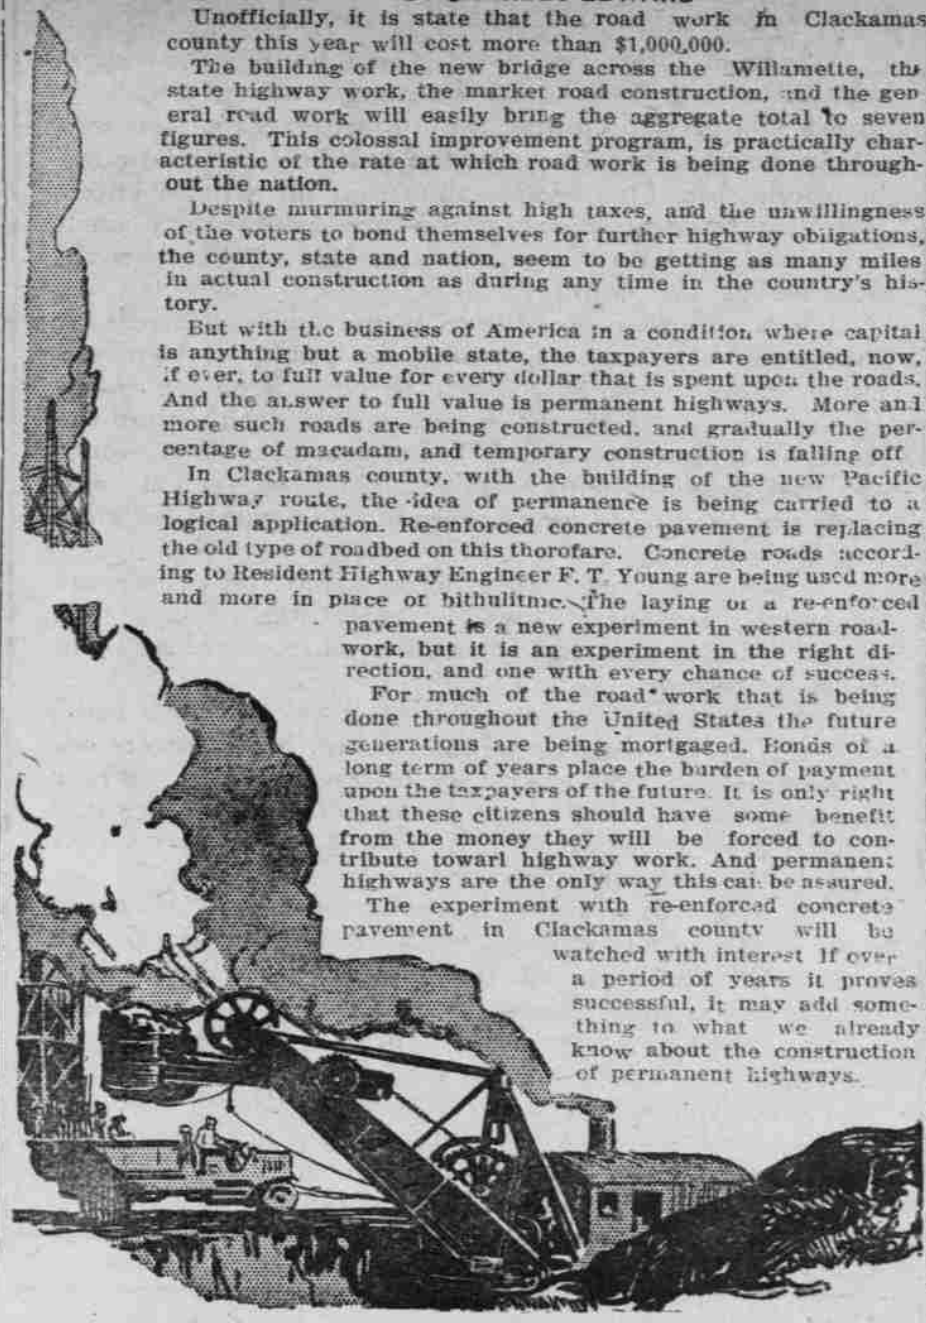

Despite murmuring against high taxes, and the unwillingness of the voters to bond themselves for further highway obligations, the county, state and nation, seem to be getting as many miles in actual construction as during any time in the country's history.

But with the business of America in a condition where capital is not so plentiful as in the past, the taxpayers are entitled, now, if ever, to full value for every dollar that is spent upon the roads. And the answer to full value is permanent highways. More and more such roads are being constructed, and gradually the percentage of macadam, and temporary construction is falling off.

In Clackamas county, with the building of the new Pacific Highway route, the idea of permanence is being carried to a logical application. Re-enforced concrete pavement is replacing the old type of roadbed on this thoroughfare. Concrete roads according to Resident Highway Engineer F. T. Young are being used more and more in place of bituminous. The laying of a re-enforced pavement is a new experiment in western road-work, but it is an experiment in the right direction, and one with every chance of success.

For much of the United States the future generations are being mortgaged. Bonds of a long term of years place the burden of payment upon the taxpayers of the future. It is only right that these citizens should have some benefit from the money they will be forced to contribute toward highway work. And permanent highways are the only way this can be assured.

The experiment with re-enforced concrete pavement in Clackamas county will be watched with interest if ever a period of years it proves successful, it may add something to what we already know about the construction of permanent highways.

Land Funds Divided; County Gets $129,277

In the apportionment of funds received for the sale of public lands during the two years ending June 30, 1920, Clackamas county will receive $129,277.

The apportionment of five percent of the funds received was made Tuesday by Sam A. Koser, secretary of state.

Under the law this apportionment is based on the area of public lands in each county, there being a total of 61,188.489 acres of these lands in the state.

The acreage in Clackamas county is 1,192,260. This acreage is the 17th largest in the state. The smallest is in Multnomah county which received $31,28.

Fire Starts in Brush but Does no Damage

A fire in the brush at First and High streets, on the bluff, started at 10 o'clock Wednesday night. The fire department extinguished the blaze before it had a chance to spread and do any damage. No cause for the fire was ascertained.

One worried California editor whose waste basket is overflowing remarks truthfully that it would help a lot if more persons could see the poetry of life and fewer would try to write about it.
