

49 TO ASK FOR CITIZENSHIP AT NEXT HEARING

LARGEST NUMBER ON RECORD APPLY

Lifting of Alien Enemy Ban is Cause, Says County Clerk Fred. Miller

The largest number of aliens ever to apply for citizenship in Clackamas county at any one session of the court, will be examined before Judge J. U. Campbell at the hearing which opens September 26.

A complete list of the applications was made out Saturday at the office of County Clerk Fred Miller. A total of 49 are up for examination.

The majority of these asking citizenship are Germans and Austrians who are barred from application during the war. During the latter part of June an order was issued removing the alien enemy restrictions, and applications were received from a number of those who come under the war ban after they had taken out their first papers, explains Mr. Miller.

Germans Apply

Sixteen of the applications for citizenship are Germans. Twelve are Austrians. Seven applications are on file from natives of England, six from Russians and five from Nirewegians. Two applications came from natives of Sweden and one from a native of the republic of Poland.

Of the total number of applications, 14 are from residents of Oregon City. Six applications are from residents of West Linn. Canby, Willamette, Mount Angel, Milwaukie and Gladstone are among the residences of the other applicants.

The number applying, according to Mr. Miller, is considerably in excess of any acted upon at any previous hearing on record. Formerly, 39 applications at one term of court were considered a large number.

ARENA AT MILWAUKIE SOLD; DANCE HALL IS TO BE BUILT THERE

Remodeling Not to Interfere With Regular Bi-monthly Boxing Bouts

The Milwaukie boxing arena was purchased Thursday from the Portland Railway, Light & Power company by E. E. Merges and W. W. Ely for $25,000. The new owners propose to spend $10,000 in repairs on the building and fit it up as a dance hall and motion picture theatre.

Was Car Barn

The property transferred is a brick structure 100 by 200 feet in dimensions, formerly used as a car barn by the P. R. L. & P. company. It is held under lease by George T. Moore, manager of the Milwaukie boxing commission, and was fitted up as arena with seating capacity for 6000 fans.

Moore's contract will continue under the new ownership, according to a statement issued by Merges today, and alterations to the building will not interfere with the regular bi-monthly events of the boxing commission. Moore's lease on the building expires November 1 and a new contract will be made at that time, Merges stated.

Dance Hall Planned

Operation of a dance hall at Milwaukie would be unhampered by the midnight and Sunday closing ordinances in effect in Portland, Merges said. The motion picture show would not be under supervision of Portland censorship and Ely stated that many films "unjustly censored there" would be presented at the Milwaukie theatre.

In addition to the theatre and dance hall, plans of the new owners of the property include the installation of a large cafe. Work of altering the building will begin immediately and the new resort will be ready for operation in about 60 days.

COMMITTEES AWAITING COUNCIL'S ACTION

Decision on River Ferry Now Needed to Secure Road's Completion

A new phase in the effort to meet the proposition of the Highway commission to pave the gap on the Pacific Highway at Bolton if the county will guarantee to keep traffic open during the time that the bridge is closed, is seen in the relation of the city of Oregon City to the problem.

The matter of keeping traffic open, according to the highway commission, will fall largely upon the county. But the court will take no action until civic and commercial bodies pledge their cooperation.

No Action Planned

A committee headed by Ralph Parker has the matter under advisement for the Commercial Club. Mr. Parker stated Friday that his committee would take no action until a committee was appointed by Oregon City. Pending such action upon the part of either the mayor or the council, Mr. Parker will take no steps toward a conference with the county court.

It is felt, as the reason for this action, that it is desirable that every body interested in the traffic situation should be taken into consideration when a progress is being made.

The highway commission, in reply to the agitation here for the immediate pavement of the remaining 3000 feet of the highway at Bolton, made the proposition to complete the work provided travel across the river would be maintained. Otherwise, it was felt that the improvement would be a "dead end" road during the year that the bridge is down, pending the completion of the new structure.

West Linn Has Committee

The West Linn Committee, which is headed by L. L. Porter, has also delayed action until a combined conference including representatives from Oregon City can be held.

Judge Cross some time ago made a statement that no official action upon the part of the court would be taken until representatives from the other bodies brought the matter to a point where it could be formally acted upon. The decision of the Commercial Club and West Linn committees to await the appointment of a delegation from Oregon City, places the proposition practically in the hands of the city as far as speedy action is concerned.

The average man can lift one and one-half times his own weight.

"SOVEREIGN STATE" CLAIM OF IRELAND

PREMIER REFUSES TO ACCEPT NOTE

Accusations Fired Against British by Eamon de Valera

Dublin, Sept. 15.—The accusation that the British government seeks "to read the ancient nation of Ireland and partition its territory," is made by Eamon de Valera in his latest note to Premier Lloyd George. The contents were made known this afternoon despite the fact that the premier refused to accept it after he had read it.

"In this final note it is our duty to reaffirm the position of our nation," said the communication.

"Our nation has formally declared its independence and now recognizes itself as a sovereign state. Only representatives of that state and as its chosen guardians have we any authority or powers to act on behalf of the people."

The note goes into an interpretation of De Valera's favorite phrase, "A peace conference on the basis of the consent of the governed," and concludes with the words:

"In reality it is your government that seeks to read our ancient nation and to partition its territory."

The Sinn Fein chieftain refused to comment on the new developments. They intimated that the situation was so delicate they feared they might complicate it still further by talking.

There is much significance in the fact that De Valera is not a member of the Irish delegation if the Inverness peace conference is held as planned. Arthur Griffith, the chairman, and Michael Collins, commander-in-chief of the Irish Republican army, who are nominated by Dail Eireann as two of the members, are known as two of the most radical leaders among the Sinn Feiners.

SUNDAY'S RAINFALL IN OREGON CITY SAID HEAVIEST IN 2 YEARS

Precipitation is 1.54 Inches; Damage to Crops is Believed Light

Oregon City got its share of the rain that fell over the entire coast as far south as San Francisco and as far west as Boise, Idaho.

The precipitation Sunday, from 8 a. m. until 8 a. m. Monday, amounted to 1.54 inches, according to C. B. Wilson, of Willamette, who keeps the official Clackamas county records of the amount of rainfall.

The heavy shower did some damage to hops and prunes throughout the county, altho the loss is not heavy. The benefit from the rain, it is stated will far exceed the damage as it will put the ground in shape for fall plowing and will alleviate the dangers from forest fires.

The rain is regarded as the knell of the dry season, but the official weather forecasters say that conditions are too uncertain at present to make any actual predictions.

The rainfall Sunday is believed to be the heaviest in Clackamas county for any one day during the past several years. During last winter a rainfall of an inch and a half was recorded, but the precipitation during the week-end was nearly a tenth greater.

Farmers over the northwest, according to press reports, are jubilant over the prospects of some wet weather. The year has been exceptionally dry and the ground has been in such shape, that if the dry spell continued, plowing would be difficult.

Although some damage to crops is generally reported over the coast, the majority of the ranchers were enabled to get their grain and other crops in time to avoid loss.

New Crop Boosted; Dean Makes Report

The mint industry in Oregon is booming up favorably according to Dean Adolph Zieffe of the agricultural college school of pharmacy, who as one of the directors of the Oregon mint growers cooperative association has inspected practically all the mint plants in the Willamette valley.

Dean Zieffe stopped in Oregon City August 26, while making his tour of this district, and discussed conditions in this part of the country, relative to the industry in which he is particularly interested.

He found that with the exception of plants on high and dry land the stand of peppermint and the yield of oil exceeded the average for the last five years. The highest yield reported was in the district of Brooks, Marion county, in the lake Labish country, where the yield averaged from 70 to 80 pounds of oil an acre. Because of the success in peppermint culture in this section it is expected that the acreage will be greatly increased next year.

Tests are being made on extracted mint hay for its food value, Dean Zieffe says. "Because of the high quality of Oregon peppermint oil it is proposed to erect a purification plant in order that only the purified oil may be sent from the state. Tests are now being made to determine the content of menthol and menthyl acetate, and from the preliminary tests which have been made the oil will be suitable for the manufacture of gum, candy, medicinal remedies, and for other purposes. Oregon peppermint oil has been tested by practical candy-makers who report that because of its high quality it requires less to obtain the desired flavor than oils from other sections of the country."

Distribution of Public Charity

"Ye have the poor with you always" said the Savior of mankind, and every community is faced with the necessity of spending more or less money on public charity. It has usually been more for the past year, since the period of waste and inflation came to an end. It should be a satisfaction to the taxpayer to feel that his money has done something to relieve the cases of genuine need on the part of worthy people. But there are many fake calls for help, and many persons make a study of how to work the public and supply their needs out of the public purse instead of by honest industry.

It has always been considered a kind of disgrace for a person to have to resort to a public almshouse. Frequently this feeling is not justified, as one may have done his level best for self support, but adverse circumstances were too difficult to be overcome.

The community should do its utmost to take the sting of defeat away from such people. Some communities soften the bitterness of public charity by calling their almshouses the "city home," suggesting that the community is a family that is glad to care for all unfortunate members.

The problem of separating the worthy from the undeserving, calls for close study of human nature. A person may be drawing relief from a number of charitable agencies simultaneously, without any of them knowing of the other gifts. A good many people lose ambition after receiving public charity. They get soft and easy going, conclude that the world owes them a living and refuse to get out and hustle.

Careful investigation is the only way to deal fairly and sympathetically in such cases. The people who deserve help will work with all their energy if they get a chance, and those who show this disposition to make good are entitled to generous treatment if sickness or other misfortune besets them.

Figures on Oregon Manufactures Given

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—A preliminary statement of the general result of the 1920 census of manufactures covering the year of 1919, for the State of Oregon was issued today by the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce. The figures are preliminary and subject to such change and correction as may be found necessary from a further examination of the reports.

The census of manufactures, 1919, like that of 1914, excluded the hand trades, the building trades, and the neighborhood industries, and took account only of establishing conducted under the so-called factory system. The word "establishment" as used in the census reports may mean more than one mill or plant, provided they are owned or controlled and operated by a single individual, partnership, corporation or other owner or operator, and are located in the same town or city.

Calendar Reports Taken

The reports were taken for the calendar year ending December 31, 1919, or the business year of the establishment most nearly conforming to that calendar year.

The census inquiry calls for the total amount of capital, both owned and borrowed, invested in the business, but excludes the value of rented property.

In addition to the component materials which enter into the value of products, the cost of materials in this summary includes the cost of fuel, mill supplies, and rent of power and heat.

The value of products represents their selling value or price at the plants as actually turned out by the factories during the census year, whether sold or on hand.

Figures are Given

In the following table, comparative figures of 1919 and 1914 are given. The 1919 figures are followed by the figures for 1914:

Bombing Frustrated; Much T. N. T. Found

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 19.—Fourteen hundred sticks of dynamite, three inches in diameter and ten inches long, and 100 sticks of T. N. T. were seized today by police following the capture of five dynamiters in the act of bombing a shoe repair shop.

One of the prisoners was shot in the side by police, who had surrounded the shop for ten hours following a mysterious tip that it was to be bombed.

One is Wounded

Richard Burke, 23 years of age, who was wounded and may die, was carrying the bomb when the five approached the shoe repair shop, after parking a stolen automobile two blocks away.

Forty detectives hidden in neighboring buildings, surrounded the bombers and ordered them to surrender. Instead, Burke hurled the bomb and the explosion tore the entire front out of the door, threw David Krenat, the owner and his family, from their beds and broke windows for blocks around.

Makes Confession

Burke was shot in the side by Michael Hughes, chief of detectives, and the other men surrendered. Burke confessed, according to the police that he supplied bombs to labor unions, as well as men to throw them.

Search of a South Side house where the prisoners lived resulted in finding the explosives and bomb making plant.
