EXPOSITION COMMITTEE IS SELECTED

Permanent Organization to Direct World Fair is Appointed

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 26.—(Special)—M. D. Latourette, C. E. Spence, Harvey E. Cross and E. E. Brodie, all of Oregon City, represent Clackamas county in the state wide organization which is to have charge of the staging of the 1925 exposition.

The appointments were announced yesterday by Chairman J. L. Meier at a meeting of the directorate of the 1925 committee. The list embraces representatives of practically every district in the state, and is to form the basis of the permanent organization for the handling of the world exposition.

Benefits are Cited At the meeting, Chairman Meier issued a statement regarding the scope of the exposition, the policy of the directorate and its relation to the state and nation. He said in part: "Let the broader spirit prevail. I am Oregon, not Portland, that we wish to advance. We need more people in the state at large. More hotels, apartment houses, homes, better and more highways, people on farm lands and factories to give abundance of employment. We have arrived at a period in our development where we need to tap the natural resources of the state. We need cheaper fuel to induce manufacturing, and additional markets for the products of the soil, the field and the farm."

Tax Remedy Seen This is the remedy for lowering taxes and increasing land values. The exposition will advertise Oregon and the northwest. The means by which people can come west on the paved highways and motor transportation. Unity will be given railroad and steamship lines to inaugurate re-education. Conventions of all kinds will come to all parts of the west and to the exposition, and thus hundreds of thousands will see the Oregon country for the first time.

"Candidly, there are no other means that one can think of that will advance the social and industrial resources of the state quicker than the exposition in 1925. It's Oregon's opportunity. It will be Oregon's last chance to stage a world-wide enterprise during the present generation. Twenty years ago Portland approached a similar period in the Lewis and Clark fair. The city and state profited thereby. It proved an asset instead of a liability. Many men looked with caution at the outcome, but the real beginning of the industrial expansion for Oregon began in 1905."

BANDIT ROBS BANK; CLERK SHUT IN VAULT

LONE ROBBER GETS $3380 IN CASH

Jefferson is Scene of Daring Holdup; Thief is Hard-Boiled

Jefferson, Sept. 27.—A lone unmasked robber this morning entered the Oregon State bank of Jefferson, in Linn county, about 9:10 o'clock, held up and forced L. W. Hall, bookkeeper, to turn over $3380 in currency and silver to him, and locked Hall in the vault and escaped.

Jefferson is just across the Clackamas county line. In the expectation that the bandit would attempt to make his escape through Oregon City, Sheriff Willson was called and shortly after the robbery left with Deputy H. Hughes to patrol the highways.

Hall was alone at the time and no one saw the robber enter before or after the robbery. Hall freed himself from the vault within two or three minutes by removing part of the combination and gave the alarm, but the robber had made good his escape.

Talked Hard-Boiled The man was between 33 and 35 years old, talked "hard-boiled," wore a dark suit and cap and had about a week's growth of beard on his face," said Hall.

"I was alone at the time and, when the man entered I greeted him, thinking he had business with the bank. He wore his cap as men usually do and nothing about his appearance made me suspicious.

Bandit Draws Revolver "He answered my greeting, then drew a revolver and forced me to put up my hands. He told me to open the vault door, which was still locked. I did so and then he demanded money. I convinced him none was in the vault and at his demand showed him about $500 to $600 in currency and in the neighborhood of $100 in silver by the window.

"He forced me to hand him the currency, but declined the silver. Then he demanded more and compelled me to open the safe. From the safe he made me hand him $2400 in bills and $440 in silver in a bag. In the safe were gold and securities valued at between $4000 and $5000, but these were partly hidden and he appeared satisfied after a glance in the safe.

Locks Him in Vault "After he had taken the money from the safe he forced me to enter the vault and closed the door, locking the combination behind it. I could hear his footsteps outside, but when I had opened the vault he was gone.

"The bank was fully insured." Sheriff C. M. Kendall and Deputy Sheriff J. G. Rodgers from Albany arrived here a short time after the robbery and immediately began a man hunt. Officers in all directions were notified of the hold-up and given description of the man.

HOME TOWN PAPER WEEK November 7th to 12th

The average newspaper devotes columns of space in every edition to boosting the affairs of others, but seldom boasts it's own business in any large way.

Somebody suggested that it was time for the newspapers of the country to adopt a week in which their own business should be given precedent, and the Oregon City Enterprise thoroughly endorses the idea.

The date set is the second week in November, from the 7th to the 12th, including that great world event, Armistice Day.

The official title for the week will be "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week."

Thousands of papers will join in this event, and our readers will hear more about it as time goes on.

Ever ready to help in any cause that is in the interests of a better community, better living conditions, and better government, we now ask the readers and advertisers of the Oregon City Enterprise to turn in and lend a hand during "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week," and boost for us.
