Hardie Connor, pastor, officiating. The church was filled to capacity with friends of the late postmaster, many from Oregon City being in attendance, for he had many friends in this city as well as in Gladstone, having made his home in Oregon City for some time. The Woodmen Lodge and the Neighbors of the Woodcraft, of which orders he was a member, were well represented. During the services three members of a quartet of which Mr. Parker was a member about 20 years ago singing in the Baptist church of this city, rendered most impressively "Nearer My God To Thee," "Calling Us Away" and "Let Him Sleep, Calmly Sleep." Those singing were J. W. Loder, of this city; Rev. E. A. Smith, of Lent; George T. Howard, of Portland; Mr. Parker was a tenor of the quartet singing here when he was a resident of Oregon City.

The floral tributes were beautiful, and were in great profusion, prettily arranged about the casket, while the casket was completely covered with rare flowers.

The pallbearers were old time friends of Mr. Parker, and were F. A. Burdon, T. E. Gault, Clarence Frost, of Gladstone; George T. Howard, of Portland; L. E. Jones and John W. Loder, of Oregon City.

Interment was in the family lot in Mountain View cemetery, and remains laid to rest beside those of his son, Ralph Parker, who died about two years ago.

CLACKAMAS COUNTY MAKING RECORD FOR CATTLE PRODUCTION

Carload of Guernseys Shipped To Gilliam County From Ranch at Redland

That Clackamas county is rapidly taking advantage of the possibilities attendant upon its location for the production of cattle, is shown by the fact that a carload of Guernsey cattle, consisting of eighteen head of grades and three head of registered stock, was shipped from Oregon City Tuesday morning, making the six carload of Guernseys shipped from Clackamas county.

The carload of cattle went to the dairy farm of F. A. Stinchfield, of Mayville, Gilliam county, Oregon, who had heard there is no other cattle like the Guernseys for the dairying industry, and the deal was negotiated through Mrs. A. I. Hughes, of Redland, Clackamas county, who is one of the best posted women on the Guernsey cattle than any other woman in the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes have some of the finest registered Guernseys at their farm that have been imported to the United States from Guernsey Island, which was proven at the state fair last week, when there was strong competition, and they brought back a number of the best prizes on their stock. They were awarded second prize on produce of dam, first and junior champion on a bull, when there were entered in the show 158 animals. Ceola, Frances and Kenneth Hughes' children of Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes, were each awarded first place on their three head of Guernseys in the juvenile department.

Mr. Stinchfield, who has engaged in the wheat growing business, is to try his luck with dairying as a side issue to growing grain. He recently purchased a fine pure-bred animal to head his herd from the Whalley & Vogelt farm at Hubbard, Oregon, and also bought a pure-bred heifer.

Powder Business Is Greatly Increased Thru Advertising

"My powder business has more than doubled over that of last and I give the credit to advertising in the Enterprise," was the statement of A. Mathew, DuPont powder dealer at Clackamas, last Monday while discussing a series of ads to run in the Oregon City Enterprise.

"During the Spring and Summer we carried a series of DuPont advertisements and in this period the sales on powder were exceptional."

During the past year farmers have cleared more land than usual and the majority of them used DuPont powder. Hundreds of thousands of acres have been cleared in the West recently, thus turning non-producing land into large and greater profits.

Clearing land with powder is the most economical method in most cases the first year crops pays for the powder and work and leaves a profit besides.

CONVENTION INTERESTS GRAIN MEN

LOCAL GROWERS ARE AFFECTED

Contest Between Middlemen And Farmers Reaches High Point

Local grain growers, members of the state grain growers' association are looking with interest upon the developments at the Chicago convention of the Grain Dealer's National Association which Monday voted to continue the fight against the farmer's cooperative marketing movement.

The middlemen started their campaign last June when following the organization of the United States Grain Growers, a national co-operative corporation of farmers.

At the convention, a vigorous warning was sounded by R. F. Monfield, head of the special executive committee conducting the campaign against the farmer's organization, that the dealers must carry the campaign on for their own preservation. He urged a "concerted and sustained campaign of education for the producer and the consumer."

"Failure to follow up this work so well begun," he declared, "will result in a flood of adverse legislation, in more adverse marketing schemes, and finally, without doubt, in the concentration of great bulk of the grain business in the United States in the hands of a few powerful interests."

"If we do not continue our educational work in five years the small dealer will be a thing of the
