Willamette Closed SUCIDE ATTEMPT OF DR. BRUMFIELD NOT FATAL WATCH KEPT

Sentence of Convicted Man May Be Pronounced on Next Saturday

ROSEBURG, Ore., Oct. 21.—Close watch is being kept to prevent Dr. Richard M. Brumfield, death penalty for the murder of Dennes Russell, from re-opening the wounds in his throat, made Thursday night with suicidal intent. Unless he manages to reopen the wounds or otherwise mutilate himself again, Dr. Sether, attending physician, anticipates no serious effects unless infection occurs.

Several stitches were taken to close the ragged wounds made, authorities think, with a broke eyeglass lense. The wounds indicate an effort to cut the juglar vein, but in this failed, although a minor vein was severed. Dr. Brumfield lies on his cot in a semi-conscious state and is being kept under the influence of opiates. In a M. Gardner. deep and jagged. S. Hadley, night guard at the jail, discovered blood on the floor when he went into the cell at 9.15 Thursday night to remove a screen from the window. On investigation he found Brumfield in a semi-conscious condition in his bed. The physician was called and the examination revealed that the suicide attempt had been unsuccessful.

Half an hour after the attempt at suicide was discovered the blood flow had been stopped Brumfield asked for District Attorney Neuner

It is believed Brumfield used his eyeglasses in inflicting the wound, as one of the glasses was found to be broken.

Dr. Sether reported at 10 o'clock that his examination of Brumfield showed he had inflicted cuts on both sides of his neck, one three and a half inches long and the other two and a half inches long, three small veins being severed.

Speed and Liquor Blamed for Crash

ASTORIA, Oct. 22.—The coroner's jury returned a verdict Friday that reckless driving, with both the chauffeur and the members of the party George Hickle, when the motor car the latter was driving plunged thru the open draw of the Lewis and Clark bridge early Wednesday morning.

Testimony of Harry Rodgers, the only man who escaped from the crash, indicated that the open draw was well marked and that the warning signals were plainly seen. Those who talked with Miss Irene Scott of Oregon City, who with Pearl Hutchinson and Rodgers survived, immediately after the accident, declared she stated that all in the party were intoxicated and that the blame for the accident rested upon them alone.
