THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Taken from the Oregon City Enterprise, October 23, 1891. Fire Protection on the Hill—The small fire in Thomas Miller's residence on the hill last week showed how weak would be the service of the fire brigade in case of a big fire in that part of the city. The department is well equipped for handling fire under the bluff, where the business section is located. This is the first fire alarm in the city for about six months. At the time Mrs. Miller was lying very ill with pneumonia. It was feared that the excitement would be injurious to her, but she proved not to be much harmed by it.

Oregon City Band at Portland—Last Friday night the Oregon City band went to Portland to participate in the tournament at the exposition. Cooke, J. L. Baker, Charles Moore, A. C. Warner, Erastus Smith. The first selection played by the boys was an overture "Filterroche" and the second "Medley Overture," and responded to a vigorous encore, the baritone obligato "Maringo" was finely rendered to a vigorous encore, the baritone intended Mitchell made a few remarks complimenting the Oregon City boys, and presented the leader with a silver cornet valued at $100. On returning home the Altona's whistle acquainted the drowsy people of the fact that Oregon City boys brought home the prize.

At a recent conference of German princes at which Emperor William was present the question was asked whether it was wise to allow a recognized enemy, to complete preparations were completed. Emperor William is reported to have taken a conservative position. The value attached to peace by this young man indicates clearly that he has begun to realize the profound wisdom of Bismarck's policy.

The sophomore class had a hay rack picnic, where everyone went in hay racks out to Stafford where one of the student's folks live and they have a very large ranch. They all went out to Christian's and had a picnic lunch. The menu was: coffee, cocoa, beans and salad. Students' Health Campaign Started

Among the first movements in the new program of the Clackamas County Health Association, is a campaign organized by Miss Morris to encourage the students in the local public schools to attain their proper weights.

During the past few weeks, the campaign has been started at the Eastham schools. A total of 373 children have been weighed, and of this number 323 were found underweight. A two-months "weight race" has been started. During this time the underweight pupils will make an effort to bring their bodies up to normal. At the end of the period, during which aided by the modern health crusade they have been using a balanced diet, those who have succeeded in attaining their proper weights will be guests of one of the members of the Clackamas County Health Association, who, in conjunction with those who failed to gain their weight, will give a party. The rate is for students in the second and third grades.

The work in the Eastham school has been practically completed and the weighing of the students at Barclay has been started. Miss Morris has been assisted by Miss Grace I. Tiffany of the girls physical education department of the local high school. The modern tendency in physical education work is to emphasize the necessity of proper bodily proportion, upon the theory that those who are underweight do not have sufficient reserve vitality to give them the stamina which is conducive of the utmost physical and mental activity.

WOMAN IS INJURED IN THREE CAR SMASH ON PACIFIC HIGHWAY

Mrs. Alfred Blatchford, Lents, Hurt When Machine Is Forced Off Road

Mrs. Alfred Blatchford, of Lents, suffered severe cuts about the face and the loss of several teeth, when a machine in which she was riding on the Pacific Highway Sunday night, was the third auto in a three car smashup.

The accident happened at 10:40 o'clock about a mile north of Canby. The bus driven by M. J. Lee hit a buggy owned by J. L. Anderson, which was parked along the roadside without lights. Blatchford's car, coming in the other direction, pitched to one side of the road in order to avoid hitting the bus, and Mrs. Blatchford was cut by the flying glass. She was brought here to Dr. W. E. Hempstead for medical attention.

Booze Is Demolished— Two wheels of Anderson's buggy were demolished, but the occupants were uninjured. The horse was not hurt. The Blatchford car was somewhat damaged, and was taken to Canby for repairs.

A third machine, following the Canby bus, ran into the rear of Lee's machine. The radiator was badly bent, but the bus not damaged.

Booze Is Charged— Charging that three men in a small automobile, in which was a considerable quantity of liquor, drove so recklessly that they collided with a large touring car Saturday night, between Jennings Lodge and Gladstone, driven by Mrs. William Wright of Wasco, the assistance of the sheriff of Clackamas county was elicited. The small car was so badly damaged the driver could not operate it and the men were compelled to make their way afoot.

On the arrival of the sheriff the damaged car was ordered towed to Oregon City, where it awaits the claimants. The car contained some liquor, it is said, while there was additional evidence of it on the road in the car driven by Mrs. Wright were six other persons—women and children—and it was said only the driver's prompt handling of the machine prevented more serious consequences.

A smash that was not serious occurred near Parkplace at 8 a. m. Sunday, when George Buchholz of this city ran his machine into the rear of a car owned by P. Baars of West Linn. Baars claims that he was parked and that he was run into while Buchholz says that the machine preceding him stopped without warning, causing the smashup.

THE MODERN WAY

The old way of caring for valuables was to place them in a desk, a cabinet, or an office safe; but the loss of millions of dollars' worth of valuables through fire, theft and carelessness in due course convinced people that a more efficient means of safe-keeping should be devised.

The outcome was the modern safe deposit vault, built to resist attack by forces of nature or man.

The modern way of safeguarding valuables is to use the safe deposit vault.

The safe deposit boxes of this Bank are naturally the last word in security, being safe, convenient and economical. We are always glad to explain the use of them.

They rent from $2.50 per year and up.

STORY OF FATAL RIDE IN CAR AT ASTORIA IS TOLD BY IRENE SCOTT

Former Local Girl Changes Her Testimony Before Coroner's Jury

ASTORIA, Ore., Oct. 21.—That Miss Irene Scott, a passenger in the automobile which crashed through the open draw of the Lewis and Clark bridge near here Wednesday night, was formerly a resident of Oregon City, developed today when she testified before the coroner's jury.

A sensational about face in the story told by Miss Scott, marked the investigation. Wednesday she freely told the district attorney, the sheriff, other officers and reporters that members of the party were intoxicated, had been drinking through the night and were driving at a reckless rate. The other two who were reconed refused to tell their story at all.

Thursday Miss Scott denied having any memory of telling her story of Wednesday, claiming those in the party had not been drinking and that they were driving at a moderate rate of speed. Wednesday she laid the entire blame for the accident upon the chauffeur. Thursday she inferred that the open draw through which the machine driven by George H. Hildebrand plunged was not adequately protected.

Miss Pearl Hutchinson and Henry Rodgers, or Ewing, as he first gave his name, corroborated Miss Scott's story. Miss Scott said her home is in Oregon City. She left there some years ago.

Mrs. A. Schaffer of Hillsboro, communicated with the sheriff Thursday, stating that George H. Hildebrand, driver of the death car and himself killed, was her son. His body had not been recovered Thursday night, despite constant grappling.
