Annual Bazaar At Lodge Held Tonight

JENNINGS LODGE, Nov. 30.—Much interest is being manifested in the fifth annual bazaar, given by the Grace Guild which will be held on Friday evening December 2 in the church banquet room. Mrs. H. Roberts is president of this progressive organization, and with a corps of efficient workers has had a very successful year.

The following ladies are to be chairmen of the booths associated with their names: Mrs. Edward Pearson, where a varied assortment of fine needlework donated by patrons of the Guild, Mrs. R. F. Deter, has the dinner, where a "Made in Oregon" menu will be served. Mrs. Booth, at a table where character dolls and their belongings are to be disposed of. Mrs. Covert is to have supervision of the fruits and vegetables.

Mrs. Blinestone, as manager of the W. R. A. Dubb store promises to be the hit of the bazaar.

Mrs. Olin Ford will have charge of the candy booth and is to be greatly assisted by a well known candy maker who is to make candy during the evening.

An attractive holder lady personated by Mrs. Babler and will be assisted by Mrs. W. W. Woodbeck will be a new affair at this bazaar.

Mrs. C. C. Hole will have the Red Cross seals for sale.

The proceeds goes towards the $700 that has been pledged and almost raised during the year.

On December 14th Mrs. J. W. Smith will be hostess at one of their popular teas.

And the fourth Wednesday in December a large Christmas party will be given. It is to be an evening affair to which the husbands of the Guild members will be bidden.

The first of January the installation of the new officers will take place. Those who will direct the Guild during 1922 are: President, Mrs. Henry Babler; vice-president, Mrs. Hugh Roberts; secretary, Mrs. W. I. Blinestone; treasurer, Mrs. Dan Jones; auditor, Mrs. Arthur Smith.

Education Week to Be Observed Here

"No service has suffered more from uneducated citizens than the schools," Dr. Chas. Ormand Williams, president of the National Education Association, and Alvin M. Owsley, National Director of the National Americanism Commission, have said after a thorough preliminary survey of the educational situation in the United States.

"The average citizen does not read educational literature or accounts of teachers' meetings or visit schools to learn what they are doing or how the children are faring," the statement continued.

"The average citizen has a conception of school only as he knew it in his own school days. American Education Week should give the tax payers who furnish the funds for the schools first-hand knowledge of the service for which they pay. Educators cannot afford to neglect this opportunity to advertise its aims and purposes."

"It is the duty of all the friends of education to think seriously and work hard on the problems of keeping the idea of public education before all the people all the time."

"In every possible way the public's attention should be centered on educational problems," the joint statement continues. "It should be centered upon the need of better buildings, libraries and equipment, playgrounds, better school attendance, better paid teachers, longer school term, better vocational education, better understanding of the form and fundamental principles of government and better and universal use of the English language. Special emphasis should be placed on the singing of patriotic songs, salutes to the flag, the flying of the flag from every school house every school day the weather permits, and upon short, interesting accounts of essential facts in American History."

Among the topics already selected by communities in every quarter of the United States for the observance of this week are these: American Ideals and Americanism; National Contributions to our Immigrant Citizens—their pride in our country and its principles of government; American Patriotism; Civil and Military Heroes; the School and the Nation; Education, the Greatest Investment for Community, State and Nation; How Education May be Promoted; The Community's Responsibility Toward the School, and Ways and Means for Promoting Better Education, Better Americanism.
