Former Oregon City Woman Passes Away

Mrs. Sarah Jane Cockrell, wife of R. J. Cockreil, well known in Oregon City, where she had visited on a num-

Mrs. Cockrell was a native of Center county, Pa., and at the time of her death was 68 years of age. She came west with her family from the east about 32 years ago, first making her home at Corvallis, and later in Albany. She has recently resided at Okanogan. Prominent among the instruments by which the business world measures commercial conditions, are the figures of bank clearings and bankruptcies. Bank clearings might be called the thermometer of business, registering its periods of warm enthusiasm, also as some might say, its times of cold feet. And bankruptcies are the barometer, a storm signal recording the presence of industrial and economic tempests.

Bank clearings for 1921 were 25 per cent below those of 1920. But no such decline in business occurred, since the prices of merchandise and raw materials must have averaged at least 20 per cent lower in 1921 than in 1920. It would seem as if the actual volume of business done could not have fallen more than five per cent.

Furthermore, it is noticed that bank clearings do not usually record business changes until after they happen, since so many of the payments for goods are not made until a considerable time after the goods are completed. Consequently the large revival in business occurring in the latter half of 1921 has not fully shown itself in these figures.

Bankruptcies for 1921 were not as large as in 1915, though exceeding all other years. The total liabilities for 1921 were a little more than twice those of 1915. But since transactions during 1921 were measured in greatly enlarged prices ,this increase in total liabilities is not remarkable. 1915 was a year above the average, as the country was getting a lot of war business from Europe then.

The business world has cause for satisfaction that no worse results followed the big price decline of 1920 and 1921. If the extent and suddenness of that fall had been predicted. The fact that the country has got along as well as it has in the face of this shock, shows that conditions are essentially sound, and gives reason to expect a large measure of prosperity in 1922.

KOBE, Japan, Dec. 24 .- (Special Correspondence) .- Nineteen hours out of Yokohama we pass quarantine at Kobe, one of the principal industrial centers of Nippon, and a near neighbor to Okasa, where manufacturing thrives. It is nearly dark when we go ashore, but two hours before dinner is used to do some last minute in a rickshaw, and we trundle off the long pier and up Main street, stopping here and ther. Finally, we conclude to walk. The little brown fellows jog along patiently. My driver halts suddenly, explaining that he "needs more wind in his wheel." He means one of his tires is deflated. There are no "free air" signs about, but a bicycle pump does the business. XMAS CHEER SPREAD

After dinner the children enjoy a Christmas tree in the social hall. It is all there, colored electric lights, tinsel and everything. Later they hang up stockings from a towel rack and go to bed. Madame declines an invitation to a party, but I join the captain and the purser and we drive swiftly to the residential district and are hospitably received by the American colony gathered there. Six boys from home have a house, dubbed "Stagger Inn." Were it not for the native construction of the house, it would be easy to imagine ourselves at home. I meet Mr. and Mrs. Hayes. The former is interested in the milling business in the Orient and knows Joe Ganong like a brother. He wants to know about Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Mount, who are his friends. This is going to be some party, I find. About 2 a. m., I ride back to the ship and go to bed. Next morning I learn that the ship officers change from guests to hosts and about 4 o'clock the Pine Tree State is invaded by 50 people, accompanied by the orchestra. Christmas morning. We leave at oon for Shanghai, so we take rickshaws and go about the city for an hour, buy postal cards and absorb a little atmosphere of Kobe. Many members of the colony come down to wave us good-by from the dock. We pick up five cabin passengers here for Chinese ports and are on our way, with 48 hours at sea ahead of us. During the afternoon we glide by the islands along the Inland sea. We are headed south in the bright sunshine on an even keel.

All of the Brodie family are vaccinated today. Smallpox is reported in Shanghai, and Manila has hoisted the quarantine flag against that port. This means that unless we are vaccinated we shall stay on board at Shanghai, which is not pleasing. So all of the passengers are scratched, hoping fervently that it will not take. Christmas dinner is very elaborate, and at the finish in comes a plum pudding shooting flames. Such fuel easily obtainable in this longitude.

i William Osborn dies; WAS ILL FOR 2 MONTHS

William W. Osborn, 45, died at the Oregon City hospital at 3:15 this Thursday morning, following an illness of two and a half months with lung trouble.

The illness was the result of a complication of injuries sustained about three years ago when Osborn, who was acarpenter, fell from one of the shopping. This is our first experience Hawley Pulp and Paper company buildings on the water front, landing in the Willamette river. His stomach was badly injured and he never fully recovered.

Osborn was born in New York, and came west at the age of 14. He and his family were in San Francisco at the time of the earthquake, and he then came to Clackamas county where for the past years he has been connected with building operations thruout the district. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American war, having served on the battleship Olympia under Admiral Dewey. Although not a member of the veteran's association, his comrades will have charge of the funeral services. Osborn is survived by his wife, who esides in Mt. Pleasant, his mother. Mrs. Mary A. Osborn, of Vancouver; three sisters, Mrs. George E. Holmes, who is here from the east; Mrs. Cary E. Stratton, Oregon City and Mrs. Alice Pfister, Seattle, and by one brother, Theodore Osborn, of Cornell, N. Y.

DIES OF HEART TROUBLE

Mrs. Christina Trullinger, prominent Oregon pioneer, of Woodburn, wife of Jasper Trullinger, an early Oregon pioneer, died on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of her daughters, Misses Minnie and Mary Trullinger, of McMinnville. Mrs. Trullinger underwent an operation in September, and had gone to McMinnville to recuperate. Her death was caused from heart trouble.

Mrs. Trullinger had resided in Ore-gon her entire life. Born near Gervais on June 15, 1859, she was married in that city to Mr. Trullinger in 1877. She was the daughter of Joseph and Mary Groshong, who arrived in Oregon City after crossing the plains by ox team in the year of 1848. The parents resided here for a brief time and later moved to where Gervais is now situated. After her marriage to Mr. Trullinger, Mrs. Trullinger and her family went to Molalla, where she made her home for over 20 years. In 1907 the family moved to Woodburn, since making that city their home
