Beaver Board Company Revives Just before its financial difficulties began in 1920, the Beaver Board Company was arranging to establish a factory in Portland, but it was obliged to abandon this plan for the time being. The Pacific Northwest will be interested in publication of plans for re viving the company. This will be accomplished by the issuance of $4,000, 000 first mortgage twenty-year 8 per cent sinking fund gold bonds. Liabili ties have been deferred and banking arrangements made so that the company can proceed with its business without embarrassment.

Krupp Cannon Works Reformed As one of the evidence of the reformation of Germany's warlike spirit is cited the conversion of the Krupp cannon works to the uses of peace. In the past these factories have made nothing but cannon and war supplies in war time and in peace have prepared in the cheerful Bernhardi manner for the next war. Present productions of these works include locomotives, agricultural implements and textile machinery. The company has purchased two large coal mines as a part of its equipment and is developing specialties in steel and alloys heretofore unknow. We might feel more impressed if we did not recollect how simple it is to transform industrial plants to munition works in war time.
