ADJUTANT WHITE WILL ENTER GOVERNOR RACE

George A. White, adjutant general of Oregon, will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

White now augments the list composed of Governor Ben W. Olcott, who is a candidate to succeed himself; State Senator Hall of Marshfield; State Senator I. L. Patterson of Polk county; Speaker Louis E. Bean of Eugene, and State Representative J. D. Lee.

The reply received yesterday by Judge Dimick from Adjutant General White follows:

"I have studied carefully your letter of March 31st, in which your temporary committee asks that I submit my name to the people of Oregon at the coming primaries as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

"What impresses me most in this appeal is that so many of the people of Oregon are concerning themselves so actively and energetically with the affairs and welfare of their state. It is only when the majority is awake to the affairs of government and alive to their own interests and obligations as citizens that we can hope to have good government.

"You and the thousands of Oregonians who have joined in these petitions have raised the banner of sound American citizenship. You demand a constructive reorganization of the functions of our state government so as to bring relief from the present tax burden of the people.

"You rightly demand a complete overhauling of the state's tangled financial affairs, an effective definition of expenditures and the restoration of the good name of popular government. These achievements are necessary to the renewed and continued progress and welfare of our state.

"You express your united desire to entrust me with this great task, stating that you find in my record the necessary qualities of courage, energy and devotion to duty to ensure a fulfillment of your desires as citizens and your relief as taxpayers from unnecessary burdens of taxation.

"While claiming no such virtues for myself, I have no alternative than to dedicate to this cause such ability and determination as I may possess in carrying such a program through this campaign and on through the processes of prompt and complete fulfillment.

"In the course of a few days I will make the final answer to your petitions by submitting my name to the people of Oregon as candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, and at the same time, give my platform and statement of principles."

GEORGE A. WHITE.

City Hall Talked

the business district. They favor the location of the building on a side street which would give freer access to the fire department without endangering traffic.

With these various contentions in the air it is probable that the matter will not have easy sailing no matter which way it breaks. Temporarily the circulation of the petitions to recall the bond issue of $35,000 have been held up pending the outcome of the May ballot. This gives rise to the speculation that the recall movement was merely a hoggy, started to foster the locating of the hall above the bluff, and intended as a retaliatory measure in case an attempt was made to place the building on a down-town site.

It is freely talked on the street that in the event of the adoption of a site below the bluff the petitions will be recalled in circulation in an effort to recall the bond issue at the November election, while if the hill site wins, the recall will be relegated to the scrap heap.

ILLINOIS LEVEE BREAKS; 400 PEOPLE HOMELESS

BEARDSTOWN, Ill., April 11.—Weakened by the pressure of the highest waters in the Illinois river's history which were whipped by a heavy gale, the levee broke shortly before noon today and 26 square blocks of the city were inundated. Approximately 400 people were made homeless. No loss of life has so far been reported.

Administration Will Oppose Cut In Navy

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The battle between the Harding administration and the little navy congressmen who are seeking to reduce the personnel of the navy to 67,000 men has begun in the house.

Separation Asked In Suit Filed Here

Suit for divorce was filed here Tuesday by Lydia against George Schoch. They were married in Oak Park, Ill., on February 18, 1920.

GLADSTONE NEWS

GLADSTONE MAY AID IN WATER PROJECT FUNDS

The project for obtaining artesian water at Gladstone may be financed by direct taxation or bond issue according to the discussions held at a meeting in the schoolhouse Friday evening. If the decision to finance the project by bond issue were adopted, it was pointed out that a revision of the city charter would be necessary. Another point deliberated at the meeting was the turning over of the well to the city in the event that water was found by drilling.

Economic School Has Good Session

The Homekeepers Home Economic School that has been held at the Gladstone Christian church for the past four days closed a most successful session Friday evening. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Elmer Meacham Redington of Portland and was under the auspices of the ladies of the Christian church, with Mrs. Thomas E. Gault as chairman. The course covered dressmaking, millinery, cooking and child training. Forty of the Gladstone ladies were enrolled. Lunch was served at twelve and dinner at 6:30. Mrs. Redington demonstrating the preparation of the dishes to be served. Mrs. Harry Wheeler had charge of the dining room and was assisted by Miss Alice Freytag. Mrs. Chester Parker and Mrs. S. H. Rankin. A cooked food sale was held after dinner Friday evening, over $80 was cleared on the venture which will be used to finish the upstairs of the parsonage and furnish it for Rev. and Mrs. Williams who will arrive about the first of May to take his duties as pastor of the Christian church.

City Attorney of Gladstone Resigns

A special meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening. The resignation of Charles Seivers, City attorney, was read and accepted. C. A. Frost was appointed to consult with Attorney Schuebel in regard to his taking up the city of Gladstone. The recorder was instructed to advertise for bids for the completion of the grading on Exter and Clarendon streets, the bids to be in the hands of the recorder not later than 5 o'clock p. m. April 20, the recorder was also instructed to notify all persons having property on the said streets to remove it before April 20 or the city would remove it at the owner's expense.

Water Question Is Talked by Citizens

The citizens meeting held at the school house Monday evening for the purpose of discussing the water question was largely attended. Mayor Yedder presided and Attorney William Hammond acted as secretary. It was decided to put in sink pipes in various locations and test the water, after which to dig a well if the test warranted such action. It was proposed to vote a special tax to finance the venture.

School Wrestlers Are Entertained

The Oregon City high school wrestling team entertained Friday evening, April 7 with a dinner party given by Reggie Russel at the home of his parents. Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Russell of Gladstone. A delicious dinner was served by the hostess who was assisted by Mrs. R. R. Gilmore, at 6:30, after which the evening was spent in music and games. The table was very prettily decorated with the high school colors. Hand sketched placards marked the place of each guest. Those enjoying the affair were: Harold Sherwood, Frank Allen, Ivan Gindler, George Tatro, Chester Newton, Elmer Londergen, Phillip Pain, Kenneth Martin, Vernon Jerral, Ralph McCoy, Reggie Russel, L. A. King and G. F. Russel.

Moneys to Return After Three Years

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Money of Ocean Falls, B. C., are returning to Gladstone about the first of May to make their home, occupying their home on Arlington street which has been occupied by Prof. and Mrs. J. W. Leonhardt for the past three years. Mr. Money is connected with the paper industry. Mr. and Mrs. Money formerly resided here and have a host of friends to welcome their return. Mrs. Money is a sister of Mrs. Frank Nelson of this place.

Antone Man Visits Home In Gladstone

Mrs. L. H. Strickland has as her house guest this week, her son, Bert Strickland, of Antone, Oregon. Mr. Strickland says the weather at Antone is unusually cold for this time of the year, there is eighteen inches of snow on the level and the drifts are twenty feet in some places. Many of the ranchers have run out of hay and feed and are hauling it in from places ten and twelve miles distant. Barley and oats are selling at $60 a ton, the Jackrabbits and quail are destroying and eating up whole hay stacks and invading the barns. Prices of sheep and wool have gone up as has labor in that vicinity. The range stock cannot get food and are dying.

Praters Entertain On Son's Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Prater entertained a dinner Sunday in honor of their son's birthday anniversary, Chester Prater of St. Johns. The Prater home was beautifully decorated with Oregon grape and daffodils. A delicious dinner was served by Mrs. John Hollowell, sister of Mr. Prater, and his wife who acted as hostess, as the mother, Mrs. J. H. Prater has recently been seriously ill, but is improving. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Chester Prater, of St. Johns, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Prater, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Reak secker of Oregon City, and Mr. and Mrs. John Hollowell of Glen Echo.

Noted Vocalist Is Enjoyed by Club

Members of the Euterpean Club enjoyed a real musical treat Monday evening at Meier and Franks' music store. The concert was given by Prof. Penhelt, a noted vocalist. After the concert the Gladstone ladies were entertained in the Meier and Frank teapoom by Mrs. Laura Fleu, of Minneapolis, who is spending the winter in Portland, and has been the house guest of Mrs. A. F. Parker of this place on various occasions. The ladies also enjoyed a visit to the Art Museum before returning to Gladstone.

SENATE APPROVES PACTS

WASHINGTON, March 31.—With the ratification of the nine power treaty relating to China and the Chinese tariff treaty, the senate completed yesterday the process of American approval of the achievements of the international conference on the limitation of armaments.

The Woman's Column.

(By Florence Riddick-Boys.)

WHAT HO? WHERE? WHITHER? What he (not to mention who); where are we "at" and whither bound? In the last half century women have been "marching." Out of our modesty and isolation we have emerged into more or less international women's organizations.

We have arisen to occasions. We have tackled problems. We have perfected great machines, our organizations all "set" ready to go—but whither? Like Alexander, we sigh for new worlds to conquer. What next is there for us to come, see and vanquish? Must we invent a Don Quixote windmill, to leave at it?

Wanted—something or somebody to do! We want a task, fibre testing, strenuous, all absorbing, thrilling. True, we are already doing a tremendous work, doing it continually and so easily that we are scarcely aware that we are doing it. Through our various committees, we are uplifting and bettering every known error and deficiency and evil, but no great, impelling cause, sufficiently imminent to arouse us all, loom s just now on the horizon.

For the moment we are at a siesta in our journey of progress where we may enjoy life. Then why not do it? Why fret, like David Copperfield, eager "to hew down trees in the forest of difficulties." Why not be content with our fine, orderly achievements, containing them in season and out of season, in committees, with the work so divided that every woman shall have an opportunity to serve and no woman be overburdened.

The poor we have always with us, and the blind, the halt and the lame, and infinite minor adjustments before the millennium shall arrive. But why champ at the bits and work ourselves into a fine frenzy of impatience? Is strenuousness an end and not a means? Why not the gentle arts of peace? The spindle, the distaff, delightful comrades with our mate, the wee head against our knee while the story book is thrust suggestively into our hand? Why not literature, music, art, social sweetness, poise, serenity?

The "new woman" is still "the eternal feminine." Who knows but "the pursuit of happiness," individual happiness and home happiness, may be a worthy end in itself—a desirable whither? Why not enjoy?

Children's Bureau Chief

Miss Grace Abbott, is the second person to hold the position of Chief of the Children's Bureau. She has succeeded Miss Julia Lathrop, who was appointed by President Taft ten years ago when the Bureau was established. Miss Abbott has served in the Bureau under Miss Lathrop and is familiar with all the latter's plans and ideals and is thus able to carry on efficiently the enterprises which were begun by Miss Lathrop. Up to this time, the work of this Bureau has been greatly handicapped by lack of funds, but the Maternity Bill will place new power and ability in the hands of the Chief so that it may be expected to get more satisfactory results.

Miss Abbott, as Miss Julia Lathrop, also is a Hull House, Chicago, worker, trained by Jane Addams. She has had long experience as a social worker and has demonstrated her unusual ability. She has been a director of the Immigrants' Protective League and has written a book on Immigration.

Fashions, Fads and Follies

One would think we were in the stone age, judging by the metallic trimmings used to-day. Isn't it hard? when metallic ornaments on hats, big stones on slippers, metal chains for belts and "metallic" ribbons are more popular than the soft kind.

Just where is the waist-line is now a problem past finding out. Like the prices of commodities it has grown between its old-time location and the knees. It suddenly disappears altogether and we have the straight suit jacket with no belt at all, and now the mysterious, misty draperies, so becoming to the Mistresses. They wave and dip and assemble and entwine until one cannot locate any location, but the whole figure gives the effect of a graceful, elegant bit of femininity, "without form and void," but wholly charming.

True, colors are running riot, but there is a trend toward harmony of color tone in the self-trimming so popular just now. The gown, suit, cape is trimmed with lucks, strips, and bands of its own goods; put on diagonally, criss-cross, up and down, around, or "exclusively at random."

Rural Children Ahead. Tables of weights and measures, collected for a year in The Children's Bureau of the United States, show that rural children slightly exceed the average for city children in both stature and weight.

The Typewriter. The typewriter, upon which so many women tap out a livelihood, was invented in Detroit in 1829 by Judge William Austin Burt. It was at first called the Typographer. Like most great inventions, it was little appreciated at the time, but the inventor was a candidate for election to the Hall of Fame in 1920.

The Dreaded Examinations. School children all over the land have been tortured of late by the First Semester School Examinations. Just what is the need of these, it is difficult to understand. Any teacher who is observing at all, and every capable teacher is that, knows without subjecting her pupils to this nervous strain whether or not each one of her students is fit to pass. Cramping for examinations seldom produces lasting result, and the health and nerve strain may easily undo what few benefits there may be to the examinations.

In Geneva, Switzerland, this year and the coming two, no examinations will be held. If the experiment is successful, this condition, happy for children and parents, will be permanent. The relief has already produced an improvement on the minds and bodies of the school children.
