STRAWBERRIES SHIPPED BY GROWERS AT CANBY AT CANBY IS ANNOUNCED

CANBY, June 13 .- Through the Oregon Growers' Association, strawberries are daily shipped to Woodburn from this point, averaging from 100 to 150 crates per day. These are of various varieties, among them being the New Oregon and Marshalls, and are of exceptionally fine quality, lunch and refreshments will be enthis city looking after property in-These berries are being brought to the W. H. Lucke warehouse, and shipped by the Southern Pacific to the Woodburn cannery.

It was feared that the strawberry crop this season would fall short, but indications now point to a normal crop, and Mr. Lucke says the shipping of strawberries from Canby will probably continue for about two

The berries in the local market range from $1.10 to $1.25 per crate, and are of excellent flavor for canning purposes. Many of the 1922 crop are of an unusually "tarty" taste, which is believed to be due to the late frosts when the berries were begin ning to form. Many of the yards are now being picked. A large picking will be on Thursday, when another big shipment will be made.

Canby has long been famous for her luscious strawberries. The soil adapted for growing this fruit, and this industry as a side line, while others are growing asparagus as a side

COUNTY'S STRAWBERRY CROP IS AIDED BY RAIN

CANBY, June 10 .- The rains of the past few days have greatly benefited the gardens and especially the strawberry plants of this section, since the hottest day registered 100 degrees. According to the strawberry growers of this section there will not be over half a crop this year. This is due to the late frosts and to the continued hot and unusual weather for May. The loganberries, from all indications, will be of a large crop. Many of these will be shipped to the canneries, some of the orders already coming in-Strawberries are finding a steady market, the larger portion of which are being shipped out of Canby. Cherries will be plentiful according to appearance of some of the trees

"Bird of Passage." The earliest use of the term "bird of passage" is found in eighteenth book of the Natural History of Pliny the Elder (23-27 A. D.), where he says: "The bird of passage known to us as the cuckoo," and the term has since been applied to birds which migrate with a season from a colder to a warmer, or from a warmer to a colder climate, divided into summer birds of passage and winter birds of passage. Such birds always breed in the country to which they resort in summer, that is, in the colder of their homes.

The term is said to have been first applied to sailors by Bacon who declared that the uncertainty, instability and fluctuating state of human life was most aptly represented by those sailing the ocean.

Vast Sum Spent for Food. The people of the United States spend more than $49,000,000 a day for food, or nearly $1,500,000,000 a month, Nearly one-third of the money goes for bread, potatoes, fruits, sugar and other food of a vegetable nature. More than two-thirds is spent for meat, fish, eggs, cheese and lard. The average householder hands over to the butcher more than one-fifth of his income. The people of this country consume in a year two and a half billion eggs and near ten and a half billion gallons of milk. But a large part of the milk goes to make 1,600,000,000 pounds of and 260,000,000 gallons of ice cream, butter, 400,000,000 pounds of cheese -Philadelphia Ledger.

Rosewood Merely a Name. Rosewood, so much used in making fine furniture, is not the wood of any rose tree, but is that of several species of tree and so called because it has a perfume of roses and a generally rosy color. One kind comes from Surinam and is very fragrant; another from Brazil is the Dalbergia nigra F. All., according to Samuel J. Record of Yale. There is also a rosewood from Honduras which is considered the best in the world for xylophone bars.

LUCKY WORKER GETS BUTTON Rather Odd Way by Which Employer Selects Longshoremen for Particular Job He Has. The ancient game of "Button, button, who has the button?" is played by serious groups of men daily along the New York water front, A small crowd may be seen gathered about a wagon from which a man distributes the buttons. The men who get the buttons

The man in the wagon with the buttons, as a matter of fact, is choosing workmen, and finds the button game a convenient scheme for making his choice. The plan is commonly used in selecting longshoremen to work cargoes on the ships. At an early hour longshoremen hunting jobs gather about the dock entrances. The man who needs workers takes his nosition in a wagon, or perhaps on a box, and calls for workmen. The crowd gathers about him. From his position the employer can see the face and figures of the men. From long experience he can tell at a glance which men best serve his purpose. He makes up his mind in a moment's inspection. To signal the man and get him out of the crowd would require time and lead to complications. He merely flips a button or small disk to the man he has selected. The man catches it and makes his way out of the crowd to the dock. The button game is a great saver of time.

KANGAROO A NATURAL BOXER

Youngsters Are Taught by Their Parents and Acquire a Really High Degree of Efficiency.

Kangaroos are natural boxers. The younger kangaroo is taught to defend himself in this way as soon as he is old enough to hop about. Naturalists who have watched the animals in their native surroundings say it is very funny to see the mother giving the youngster his first boxing lessons. Afterward the father takes up the teaching, and with much gentleness and patience trains him to box.

When kangaroos box they back off and rush in and prance about very skillfully. Each one watches for an Local Chautauqua that all dogs were color blind. The engineer made a lot of unnec essary snortings with his engine and would reverse the throttle, causing the wheels to spin around, which terrified the people. Then he turned on the side valves, blowing out great jets of steam, and the people almost fell over themselves to back out of the way. Finally the engineer stuck his head out of the cab window and sang out: "If some of you ladies don't put down your parasols I don't believe I can handle this critter much longer."

In three seconds every woman lowered her parasol, and they seemed much relieved when the engineer got his train in motion without further trouble and went lumbering away down the track .- Columbus (Kan.) Advocate.

Coal and Manchu's Ghost. The Fushun coal mine of China is one of the largest open-cut mines in the world. The Tartars are known to have worked the mine in the Twelfth century.

For years the Chinese have been urged to work the mine, but Chinese officialdom has always pointed to the fact that the spirit of Tai-Tsu-Kao, a Manchu emperor, who was buried 10 miles away in the Seventeenth century must not be disturbed. Thus for centuries superstition kept over 1,000,-000,000 tons of coal untouched. In their efforts to open the mines, the Japanese not only found great official hostility to their scheme on the part of the Chinese officials, but even the native coolies were reluctant at first to work, through their fear of the sleeping Tai-Tsu-Kao, 10 miles distant, Rainbows Shaken. It is usually supposed that the downpour of rain that sometimes follows a flash of lightning is due to the coalesence of fine drops on losing their electrical charge, but a Finnish observer concludes that the thunder jars the drops together. Near Vasa a heavy thunderstorm came up from the east late one afternoon, and, as the sun was unclouded, a brilliant double rainbow appeared in the east for half an hour, arching from horizon to horizon. At each roll of thunder the rainbows seemed to be much shaken, the wedge being displaced and the colors blurred. This could not be due to the lightning, and it seemed that the same cause might enlarge the raindrops and disturb the rainbow.

Craftsmen. The art of the Middle ages is really the art of youth. It has no finality, because that which it expresses can never be finished. It lives with unmeasured potentialities still before it. Until the Renaissance, and men's subsequent concentration upon commerce and science, it seldom rested in the West, but grew from one stage to another-as in our still living arts-of painting, and music, poetry, and the Alaska. drama-we still move and change and

The Middle ages were the age of youth. I do not mean merely of young nations, but of men who were building up the future and had unlimited development before them. It was our youth, and we are growing from it. In so far as our art lives-the art of our intelligentsia-it is growing from that stem. In so far as it is dead, it is in those forms of art which have ignored their own parentage, such as architecture, ornament, the crafts, and much sculpture, and have tried to form themselves from ancient models in the pedantry of the schools. They are cut off from the stem and they languish. But painting, like music and poetry, has gone on without a break and is alive today. . . . Let us take heart.
