DISHWASHING

Dishwashing-that agelong function feminine may be undertaken in the mood of the patient pack-horse or have a married daughter and a minor it may be glorified into the service of the vestal who keeps the home fires asked by the plaintiff, together with that it makes no tax on her attention Acres. and furnishes the ideal time to think; -quiet, happy, or inspiring thoughts in which the spirit soars.

To make the task pleasant, let us hope that your dishes are pretty. Ugly a division of the real estate, valued dishes are a constant affront to our sensibilities, but one can love artistic dishes-refined gold banded ones, homey blues, cool greens, or whole charges desertion. some brown bowls and dark red crock-

And think how much sentiment adheres to them, memories of merry hours about the family board, and they have served to feed those you love the best. The sacred chalice or the triumphant loving-cup are not more choice.

But too much time must not be consumed in doing dishes Life holds a multitude of opportunities, and time saved from dishwashing may be spent with the family, a book, in recreation, make the world better.

It is not economy to wash dishes af- man. It says: ter each meal. It saves time to get out pans, rack, scour, brush, mop, cloths towels, soap and hot water but stacked neatly in some place out of below the summit." (Never in the kitchen sink.) purpose.

Cooking dishes to which food is bad ly stuck should have long time soaking. Before dishwashing, thase which need it should be well wet up. Washing the cleaner dishes first and letting those mot dried soak in the dishwater while you wipe the first ones will make all of them go easily . Do not waste time in scrubbing when soaking would make the job a light mat-drain pan on the left, that the dishes may go ahead in progression, and as wash with your right hand you will then not have to cross over or change hands with each dish when you put it into the drain pan.

A plentiful supply of hot water makes dishwashing not unattractive. A mild soap and not too hot water is easier on both the hands and the gold decorated china. A dish mop saves the hands put presents the difficult problem of keeping it germless in the bunched up string. Hard water may be softened with horax, which is may be softened with borax, which is a good sterilizer.

Wipe the glasses without rinsing and they will shine ! wipe the silver. iFne hotels and din ing cars do not wipe porcelains,-no more should we. Stack them in the drain rack, pour boiling water over them and let them dry. The rack costs about $1.50. Draining in a pan will not do the job as well.

To lessen dishwashing, wipe out out away note and pans as soon as emptied, rinse and use again bowls and spoons when stirring up some thing and do not get out a new one each time, and use newspapers instead of pans to catch refuse when cleaning fruits and vegetables and chicken.

When you have ifnished the dishes rub a healing lotion on the hands; or pretty hands enhance life quite as much as does fine china,
