

CANBY AND SOUTHERN CLACKAMAS

WOMAN AND BOY HURT IN AUTO CRASH NEAR CANBY

An automobile driven by a young man by the name of W. Waters, of Portland, who was in company with W. T. Liggett, of Los Angeles, collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. H. K. Tureck, of Portland, about a quarter of a mile east of Canby Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, when the two machines were at a curve in the road, both going south.

Woman Is Hurt

As a result the Tureck car was badly wrecked, and Mrs. L. Nick, of Los Angeles, and her son, passengers in this car, are suffering from slight injuries, the woman having a bruise on her shoulder and the son scratches about the face. Their injuries were attended by Dr. H. A. Dedman, of this city, and they were able to leave shortly after for Portland, where they are visiting.

Auto Hits Pole

As the Legitt car approached the Tureck car from the rear, the driver of the Legitt car sounded his horn. The Tureck car is said to have been about two feet from the side of the curb, and as the Legitt car passed the front hub struck the hub of the Tureck car. The woman driver being somewhat confused when the two cars came together, failed to put on the brakes, and the car left the road, down an incline and collided with a telephone pole, causing much damage to the automobile.

Mr. Legitt's Car

Mr. Legitt's car was traveling about 20 miles an hour and the Tureck car about 15 miles.

Aid Is Offered

Legitt immediately gave assistance and offered to pay all damages, and also summoned Dr. Dedman to attend the wounded woman, Mrs. Nick and her son. They were removed to the Cottage hotel, where they remained for the day.

The Tureck party was on its way to Mount Angel to attend exercises, and the parties of the other machine on their way to Los Angeles. Waters, who has driven for two years in Portland, is considered a careful driver, and was allowed to go on his own recognition by Traffic Officer Brown. Legitt, who has been in Canby since the accident, expects to proceed on his way within a few days.

The damaged automobile owned by the Tureck family has been repaired at a cost of $80.

SIX FISH DEPUTIES REMOVED FROM ACTIVITIES HERE

Two State Men Now Remain To Patrol Willamette River About Oregon City; Cause Of Act Is Not Discussed.

STORY OF ATTEMPTED LADDER RAID IS TOLD

State Officers Frustrate Trial Of Poachers to Drop Nets Above Dead Line at Falls.

Six of the eight fish wardens, who since May 10 have been patrolling the Willamette river here, have been removed by the state commission under the direction of Chief Warden Carl Shoemaker. Lea French and Leon Larson have been retained here for the remainder of the season. The local officials are able to give no reason for the change other than that the decrease in activity on the river makes the large force of men unnecessary.

Salmon Confiscated

With the sale to the Portland Fish company of $106 worth of salmon from the Willamette river, the story of a frustrated raid on the fish ladder here is disclosed. The salmon were picked up by the wardens and the funds for their sale have been turned over to the state.

Sunday night, French and Larson made a trip in their launch to the mouth of the fish ladder below the falls. Here they discovered two men in a rowboat, who had dropped their nets above the restricted district.

Poachers Scared Off

Larson fired a gun to frighten the poachers, who dropped their equipment and made away with their boat. Due to the current in the river, the rowboat could get through and the launch was prevented. The men also abandoned a number of sacks which were filled with fish. They had been left on the bank and it is the fish from this part of the catch that the wardens sold.

The nets, and two pocket lights were also confiscated.
