NELL LAINHART WILL BE CALLED IN HECKER CASE

30 Witnesses Slated to Appear For State in Trial Here of Alleged Slayer of Bowker.

Nell Lainhart, who was held by the Portland police for investigation in the Bowker murder case, has been subpoenaed by the state as a material witness against her sweetheart, Russell Hecker. Hecker is to stand trial here June 27 for the first degree murder of Bowker, whose body was found in the Calapooya river, after an alleged shooting on the 82nd street read near Clackamas.

Bond Is Required Miss Lainhart has been placed under $1,000 security by the state for her appearance here. The order for her calling was issued Tuesday by Judge J. U. Campbell at the request of District Attorney Lyle Stipp. The girl was quizzed by the Portland police during the investigation of the case last April, as she was with Hecker before his ill fated trip with the Portland musician. She was later released, but it is indicated that from her testimony the state intends to draw out the plans made by Hecker which led to the midnight ride out the road toward Clackamas.

Thirty Are Called The calling of Miss Lainhart makes a total of 30 witnesses who will appear for the state. Fully half of this number will give testimony which is considered more than incidental, and the prospects are that the trial will consume some time. District Attorney Stipp is to handle the prosecution and will possibly be assisted by George Mowry, deputy district attorney of Multnomah county.

C. L. CARPENTER WEDS GIRL IN JOSEPH, OREGON

When C. L. Carpenter returned to his duties at the Bank of Oregon City following his vacation, he found that his "cage" was elaborately decorated in honor of an event that took place during his absence. This was his marriage to Miss Sara Kennedy, of Joseph, Oregon, June 5. In the center of the "cage" was a large shower bouquet of bride's roses, and formed a most artistic arrangement. The decorated "cage" attracted no little attention when the patrons of the institution visited the bank on Monday morning, and it kept Carpenter busy explaining the cause.

The wedding was of an informal nature, and performed at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Kennedy, with Rev. H. Waller, pastor of the M. E. church, officiating, in the presence of only relatives and a few intimate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter arrived in this city on Sunday evening, and for the present are domiciled in the apartments of Dr. and Mrs. Krassig on Thirteenth and Monroe streets.

The bride is one of the popular girls of Joseph, Oregon, where the bridegroom also resided until taking his position in the Bank of Oregon City last September. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carpenter, of that city.

BOY HUSBAND OF EX-MRS. HAWLEY IS GIVEN FREEDOM

Final Divorce Decree Issued In Portland Courts After Taking of Evidence June 7; Marriage Is Annulled

THIRD VENTURE IN MATRIMONY TALKED

Relations With Portland Man Said Reason For Failure To Contest Recent Case.

The final decree annulling the marriage of M. H. Luellwitz and Marjorie Fraker Luellwitz, formerly Mrs. Willard P. Hawley, was handed down yesterday by Circuit Judge Tazewell. The marriage was declared void because the bride had not waited the required six months after being divorced before wedding young Luellwitz.

Case Well Noted The marriage of the pair and the subsequent annulment suit of Luellwitz, who professed to be only 19 years old, attracted much attention. The public had not forgotten the bitterly contested divorce suits of Mr. and Mrs. Hawley. The decree finally awarded the husband was given November 16, 1921.

Testimony at the recent trial, which was held on June 7, was that the former Mrs. Hawley and Luellwitz were married March 16 of this year at Turlock, Cal. The young husband said he had met Mrs. Marjorie Fraker Hawley only two weeks before their marriage in San Francisco.

Marriage Was Opposed There was testimony by both the young husband and his father that the parents were strongly opposed to the marriage, even were there no legal obstacle. Luellwitz testified also that his wife preceded him to this city and that when he arrived early one morning to join her here he found a convivial party in progress in her rooms. He left her at that time, he said.

Reports that a third marriage of the former Mrs. Hawley is pending, are being heard. It was rumored at the time that the Luellwitz divorce was filed that Mrs. Hawley refused to contest the case because of her associations with a Portland man, said to be in the employ of the Standard Oil Company there.

of the Methodist church officiating. The bride was attired in a blue traveling suit.

Among those witnessing the ceremony were Z. Ellingson, father of the bridegroom, whose home is at Stafford, and Concie Kearney.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellingsen left on their honeymoon, which will be spent visiting the Tillamook beaches, and upon their return will take up their residence in Stafford.

The bride is an attractive and charming young woman, and was engaged in teaching school in Central Oregon. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Davis of this city.

The bridegroom is the son of prominent residents of Stafford, and is engaged in farming. He is well and favorably known throughout that section.

Action Brought On False Arrest Charge Quashed

The $1,000 damage suit for false arrest, brought against Night Officer George Titus by Walter A. Bennett, was dismissed by Judge J. U. Campbell yesterday, on motion of the plaintiff's attorney.

The action was taken following a settlement out of court, and Earle C. Latourette, appearing for Bennett, moved for the dismissal of the case.

Arrest Is Cause The action was the outgrowth of Bennett's arrest by Titus on April 29. Titus apprehended Bennett as he was coming out of his barber shop on Main street. Bennett was taken to the jail, where he was searched by the officer. Bennett claimed that there was no cause for the arrest other than that the police were attempting to harass him, and he had a perfect right to be at his place.

Under the circumstances I acted hastily and was mistaken in making the arrest. I make this statement to correct any impression that might be injurious to Mr. Bennett.

Statement Is Made "On the 29th day of April, 1922, my attention was called to a noise in Bennett's barber shop and shortly after Mr. Bennett and another person came out of the barber shop. I first thought from Mr. Bennett's actions that he was under the influence of liquor, but he was not and had a perfect right to be at his place. Under the circumstances I acted hastily and was mistaken in making the arrest. I make this statement to correct any impression that might be injurious to Mr. Bennett."

RIVER IS DRAGGED FOR BODY OF BOY; NO TRACE FOUND

W. H. Collier Believed to Have Been Drowned; Search By Sheriff Gives No Light On Case; Cause Is Mystery.

ROOMMATE REPORTS ODD DISAPPEARANCE

Despondency Scouted By All Officials; Old Clothes Are Missing; Money Untouched

After dragging the river for several hours with nets and hooks, Sheriff W. J. Wilson reported Tuesday that no trace of the body of W. H. Collier, believed to have been drowned in the Willamette river, had been found.

Collier, 23, an ex-member of the U. S. Marine corps, disappeared some time Monday evening. He is believed by the sheriff to have fallen into the river from the houseboat near Busch's dock where he and his roommate, Frank Cottrell, had lived since the first of the month.

Companion Misses Boy Cottrell, upon returning from work in the evening, found that Collier was missing. He had left the boy, who is in the employ of the Crown-Willamette plant, in bed, and he was not there upon his return.

The sheriff found that Collier's clothes, his watch, money and personal effects were intact. He had drawn no pay for his past week's work at the paper mill, and the only things missing from the boat were an old pair of overalls and a glove. Collier had started to paint the inside of the boat, and the job was about half completed.

Old Clothes Were Worn The paint and brush were found. According to Cottrell, Collier never left the place without being well dressed, and would not even have gone over to the mill in the old clothes he had been wearing.

The officer holds the theory that the boy must have fallen into the river and been drowned. His roommate is not sure that he could swim, but had heard him make several references to being in bathing at times before, but he made the remark that he never stayed in long because the water was always too cold.

Despondency Is Scouted There was no reason for the boy to have been despondent, his roommate says, and he had been in the best of spirits. He was seen by a groceryman, from whom he purchased bread, about ten o'clock that morning. He evidently returned home and prepared his breakfast, as the dishes were found.

Collier has no relatives here, but his parents live at 1418 Spruce Street, Minneapolis. They have not been notified of the boy's disappearance, as the hope is held that he might be located, but if no headway is made with the investigation, word will be sent to them today.

WEST LINN PEOPLE ARE BACK FROM LONG TRIP

P. J. Winkler and daughter and son, Miss Clara and Harold, returned to their home at West Linn on Saturday evening after a month's motoring trip to California, that extended into Mexico, covering 3,000 miles.

Resorts Are Visited Leaving here they made the trip south by way of the coast route and returned by the valley, preferring the former, for the weather was much more favorable.

Various parts of California were visited, among these the principal coast resort, and finding these well patronized. They camped much of the time at the California automobile parks, where every convenience for the comfort of the tourists was at hand. One day was spent in Mexico, and the party was satisfied to leave when the time arrived, for the weather was unusually warm on the day they arrived there.

Farmer Is Host At Santa Ana, Calif., they were guests for several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon, former residents of Oregon City, who are now specializing on oranges and walnuts. Their place is located in the heart of the city, and considered one of the finest little places in that city. Five acres are planted to oranges and walnuts, and large crops of fruit result each season. Last fall Mr. Solomon harvested from 45 walnut trees 20 tons of nuts, and the orange trees are now laden with delicious fruit. Owing to a late frost many of the oranges were frost bitten, and these are detected at the large packing plant, where the Winkler family visited, when tons were thrown to one side, unfit for packing.

Hundreds of motorists were met, who were making their way to Oregon, many of whom were from Eastern points, and were delighted with the Western coast.
