Invention Help to Cripple Driving Car

CANBY. Or., July 12-L. V. Gray, jeweler of this city, has invented an appliance, whereby he is able to operate his Ford automobile without the use of his feet, since he met with an accident in 1913 at Benton City, Wash. while employed as a fireman for the O. R. & N. Railroad company, causing paralysis of the lower limbs.

The appliance, especially arranged for his car, consists of extension bars for the clutch, brake and reverse, which enables him to drive and safely manage the car.

Mr. Gray is a man of unusual ability. Following his accident he took up the profession of a jeweler, study. TRIAL REFUSED IN MOUNT LIBEL SUIT

7 Defendant Doctors Fail In Attempt to Remand Case For Second Hearing Here; Opinion of Judge Is Given.

IMMEDIATE APPEAL WILL BE NEXT STEP

In Motion Hearing Before Judge Robert G. Morrow.

A new trial in the Mount libel suit, under which Dr. H. S. Mount secured a verdict for $20,000 damages against The Portland Post of the American seven local physicians, was refused row. In an opinion covering the affidavits and motion of the defendants asking the rehearing of the case he holds a review unnecessary and declares their alleged new evidence inadmissible on grounds that they were fully aware that it existed before the trial was concluded

The case, on the existing verdict of the Clackamas County circuit jury. will be carried to the supreme court and the action for an appeal will be started at once, according to Earle Latourette, one of the attorneys for the defendants.

The action, originally brought for $50,000 on the basis of a libelous communication published to the county court, is against Drs. O. A. Welsh, M. C. Strickland, A. H. Huycke, C. H. Meissner, Ross Eaton, C. A. Stuart and George Stuart, and was tried before Judge Morrow in the local court.

In discussing the affidavits presented by the defense to prove prejudice on the part of the jury, Judge Morrow holds that the charges made are insignificant as to their attitude and that the claims of the defense do not justify the setting aside of the verdict.

The so called new evidence, concerning he report of a specialist on one of the controversial medical matters brought up in the trial, was mentioned considerably during the progress of the case, the judge says in his opinion, and the defense was fully advised of the existence of the report which they claim substantiates their contentions on his point in the case. On his account the judge refused to consider their claim of new evidence, although no testimony concerning the nature of the report of the specialist was introduced by the plaintiff in the

In denying the motion for the new trial, Judge Morrow also refused to allow the plaintiff to file counter affidavits to meet the contentions of he defense in he motion. Because of erpermitting the introduction of affidayits in denial of two of the separate paragraphs of the motion.
