Oswego-Wilsonville Highway To Be One of Major Lines for Combined Expenditure.

Work on the outlining of the tentative road program in Clackamas county for 1923 is under way in the office of the county surveyor, and activities on the various surveys have commenced, following the final awarding of the contracts for the highways which are being constructed under the 1922 plans. The work next year, according to D. T. Meldrum, county engineer, will include as comprehensive extension of the present contratced roads as is possible with the funds which will be on hand, and the pro- Child Burns Foot in Hot Ashesgram will include the opening up of some territory in the county hitherto dependent upon seasonal roads.

Grading Nearly Complete One of the major projects which is being considered by the engineering department is Market road number 12, known as the Oswego-Wilsonville road. Grading of 9900 feet from the end of the Oswego bridge is now under contract and will be completed within another week. The survey has been completed as far as the Athey bridge, while the grade between Tual atin and Meadowbrook to Stafford is finished. The plan for next year is to continue the construction of the tend to spend another week at the Priebe, and responded to by the astotal distance will be about eight

The completion of this road, Mr. Meldrum points out, will open up one of the richest farming countries in the county. It will also give a complete west side route connecting with Market road six, to the county line and thence into Portland via Newberg.

The market road fund this year aounted to upwards of $100,000 and a $153,950 bond issue provided for much of the pavement which was contracted.

Pavement Is Standard The pavement which is being laid in the county, the engineer states, is of practically the same specification as that which is being placed on the state highways. The same restrictions governing grades and curves are being used, the only difference being that instead of the wider pavement, the county contracts are for 16 foot construction. The experiment of laying a narrow pavement along side of a macadam road has proved satisfactory in the Monitor district, Mr. Meldrum states, but the pavement will not be generally adopted as specification because it is applicable only to those 'districts' ly adopted as specification because it is applicable only to those 'districts where there is little traffic. The standard roadbed for macdam in the county varies from 24 to 30 feet, depending upon the type of country through which the road is being laid.
