2 WOMEN ARE HURT IN SMASH-UP ON HIGHWAY

Mrs. U. P. Bode, Portland, Is Injured When Cars Crash At Curve on 82nd Street.

Mrs. U. P. Bode, 69 E. 10th street Portland, is slightly injured, her sister in law badly shaken, and Theodore E. Stevens, 768 Stuard Building, Seattle, under arrest, as the result of a serious accident at McNichols corner, one of the most dangerous places on the 82nd street road at 6:15 o'clock last evening.

McNichols big sedan struck a touring car driven by Bode, whose wife and sister were in the car. Bode was driving north and Stevens was coming south at the corner, which is a sharp curve upon a heavy grade about 1-1/2 miles north of Clackamas. The fact that Bode swerved his car into the bank attempting to avert the crash is said to have prevented fatal injuries to the occupants of the machine as it averted a head on collision.

That Stevens was traveling at a high rate of speed was evidenced by a 60 foot mark made by the locked wheels of his machine in the pavement, according to Traffic Officer Carl Long, who rushed to investigate the accident as soon as it was reported. It required three garage men two and a quarter hours to untangle the wreck and get the cars ready to move. The Bode car is complete wreck.

Stevens offered a $100 check as bail, which was refused by Long because the man resides outside the state. His machine was held to guarantee his appearance in the justice court here today.

Unions File Suit In Washington to Test Out Orders

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Legality of the order obtained by the government from Federal District Judge Wilkerson at Chicago, restraining the striking railway shop crafts and the railroad brotherhoods from interfering with transportation in prosecution of the shopmen's strike, was assailed today in a suit filed in the supreme court of the District of Columbia by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, one of the organizations on strike. The question of jurisdiction of the Chicago court was also raised by the petition which denied that the plaintiffs had been guilty of any illegal act "before or since" July 1.

Special Session Of Clackamas County Teachers Is Called

A special session of the Oregon State County Division of the Oregon State Teachers' Association has been called by the executive committee for next Saturday, at 10 o'clock. Because of the crowded program for the teacher's institute this year, it will be impossible to allot a half day period for the business of the association as is usually done. The special session has been called primarily to nominate state and county officers of the association.

The program for the two hour session, prepared by Secretary Lewis E. Reese, follows: Music and reading, Mrs. Beatty; Opening remarks, Leonard, Chairman; Report of Secretary and the Treasurer. Amending Constitution-report of Nominating Committee Supt. J. L. Gray, Chairman. Bessie Cunningham, Mrs. Salisbury, Supt. B. B. Wakefield, Supt. Edgar R. Means, Carl Landerholm, Mabel Larson. Discussion of OSTA report. Institutes and reading circle work led by Minnie B. Altman, followed by open discussion. Teachers Council in rural schools, led by county Supervisor, Mrs. Ethel Lansdowne, followed by open discussion.

Attempt by Son To Save Father Futile

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 7.—Having seized a live wire in a coal mine near Elm, J. Robertson ordered his son, who had been working with him, to cease efforts to save him lest the son should lose his life. After the son had been seriously burned in his endeavors to rescue his father, he ran for help, and in thirty minutes succeeded in having the current turned off. The father died soon afterward.

TEMPORARY Reaction to Sudden Advances Depressing; SLUMP HITS Domestic Markets and Is Vital Factor in U. S. TRADE

By Robert E. Smith

President of the Lumbermen's Trust Company Bank, Portland, Oregon. Probably because the prevailing optimism has discounted business improvements a little too rapidly, commodity markets are showing a general downward trend. The too rapid advance in sugar has been followed by a decline and it has developed that talk of a shortage was without foundation of fact.

Coffee is dull and unsteady, the market being afraid that Brazil may unload some of the stock she has been withholding. Under pressure of a surplus, rubber has dropped to a new low price which is said to be under the cost of production.

Cotton keeps climbing as the result of a crop estimate of eleven million bales and a probable consumption of one million bales larger. Wool is still strong and despite pessimism in the woolen goods trade, the American Woolen Company has easily sold all the fabrics manufactured. The most recent sale reported was one of a block of 400,000 pounds in Montana which brought from thirty-seven to thirty-nine cents a pound.

Automobile production in July was only 14 per cent under the June record, and 20 per cent better than July 1920. The total was 246,600 cars. However, a serious blow has been dealt the industry by the announcement by Henry Ford that his plant is shortly to shut down on account of fuel shortage occasioned both by the coal strike and the railroad strike, the latter of which hinders shipment of the available coal supply.

When the continues weak, the price in Chicago for September delivery being only about a dollar a bushel. Hopes that it would strengthen due to export demand have not yet been realized. The lumber market continues fairly active, but the strike of the railroad shopmen is said to be a detriment to the industry on account of a shortage of cars and the delays enroute.

Building Increases A complete report of building permits for 160 cities in July shows a total of $231,735,384, a decline of 17 per cent from the June high record, but 31.5 per cent above July a year ago. The decline appears to be mainly seasonal and many sections are still breaking the record. An active demand for materials at firm prices and a scarcity of skilled labor are generally reported.

Cement production during July was 11,557,000 barrels against 9,568,000 a year ago, and shipments were 12,850,000 as compared with 10,301,000; stocks at the end of the month were 8,224,000 against 10,414,000. The coal shortage is handicapping the industry severely. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has started construction in Long Island City, a suburb of New York, of a series of apartment buildings in which the rates will be $9 a room, extremely low in comparison with the prices now being exacted by New York landlords. The Insurance Company will spend $5,000,000 in this enterprise.

Iron and steel products are advancing sharply due partly to the 20 per cent increase in wages given about two weeks ago under the necessity of holding labor. The United States Steel Corporation, hindered by the lack of fuel, is operating at about 60 per cent of capacity, and independent companies are now running about 50 per cent of their average. Most producers believe that for the rest of the year rationing of the steel supply will be in order.

Prices Down If the figures prepared by the American Petroleum Institute are correct, the United States Senate's investigation of oil and gasoline prices is doomed to defeat so far as the effort to prove that prices are made by monopoly is concerned. These figures show that independent interests own 66 per cent of the refining capacity of the United States and Mexico and have an investment of $2 for every one dollar of the standard group. The Standard of Louisiana has made four cuts in six weeks of gasoline prices and there has been price cutting on a large scale on the Pacific Coast. Due to the low prices for crude oil at the wells independent producers have agreed upon co-operative storing of oil and a shut-down of all unnecessary drilling.

Coalamine Threatens In some quarters it is still feared that the bituminous coal strike will not settle soon enough to avoid a coal famine this winter with its accompanying gouging of consumers. The settlement at Cleveland added only about a million tons weekly to the output at that time and, while this has been increased as miners and operators made peace in other regions it is probable that several weeks will elapse before the output rises much above six million tons. This is less than the consumption whereas at this time of the year at least four million tons weekly should be moving into stocks. The miners and operators have not yet been able to get together in the anthracite region, but high hopes are held of an early settlement. The railroads have put many clerks and station hands at work in the shops, but rolling stock is admittedly deteriorating and becoming daily less able to handle the traffic that is offered. Carloads, with the exception of coal, are very close to record and as coal production increases, the movement of leather goods will be handicapped. The deficiency of transportation will restrain industrial activity this fall. The men in control in the settlements with the individual roads, some of the roads are intimating to the men in advertisements that they are willing to concede the only point of difference now existing, namely, that of the seniority rights of the workers. If the men will come back to work, President Byram, of the

The Woman's Column. By Florence Riddick-Boys. FAMILY TABLE TALK

Some of the sweetest hours of home are spent about the family board! What a pity that we ever appear there inartistic in person, and that the linen is not always snowy, or that we should ever desecrate this hour by making it a time of clearing house for complaints and declamations!

A mother, who realized the possibilities of this precious time, made it a rule that only pleasant conversation should be permitted at table. When the children forgot the rule, she curbed them gently with the reminder, "Sweet thoughts make sweet lives."

The "breaking of bread together" may be almost a family sacrament. Here each may bring his inner thoughts and feelings and problems, and lay them before a sympathetic audience. Here, without consciously trying, the father and mother establish the family standards. "Small pitchers have big ears." The children unconsciously absorb the atmosphere here. To habitually criticize neighbors or to talk pessimistically is to sow bitterness and hate in young minds. To speak slightly of a neighbor is to undermine the good he might be able to do your child.

It is very interesting, as well as profitable, to give each one a chance to tell what experience, thought or bit of information he has met since the last gathering. This makes for mutual appreciation and spreads the information through the group.

Teachers are able to pick out those children in whose homes is high grade family conversation. They have a breadth of vision and fund of knowledge not to be found in the child who hears only gossip. It is helpful to parents, as well as to children to make this exchange of ideas, for it will keep the parents in touch with the coming generation and prevent their becoming old-fogy.

News and citizenship and the movements of the day are always live topics and their discussion will help all to be better citizens. Wit, and jollity, and the humorous story add piquancy to the meal. In the natural home, these will pop out brilliantly and make meal-time a jolly hour. It is the part of the mother to steer the family conversation, keeping it high grade and orderly and giving each his chance to express himself. The open mind is necessary to sociability. If one assumes the attitude "I know, if you do not think as I do, you are wrong," conversation is killed at once. Frank differences of opinion are to be expected and are interesting, but each should have equal freedom to think for himself.

CANNING COMPOUNDS Beware of preservatives and canning compounds. There could be some safe and harmless canning compounds—and probably are—but most of them are harmful. To take the risk is neither safe, economical nor practical. In many places their use is prohibited by law. Harmless preservatives are sugar, salt, vinegar and some spices. One cannot eat much of foods containing these. The only wise alternative is to can your products with the utmost care, killing all bacteria present, and depending on this and the air-tight seal to keep them in fit condition. Foods containing canning compounds are not only less wholesome but the use of the preservatives encourages carelessness in the process of canning and the use of unsound and unfit food to begin with because the canner thinks, with the aid of preservative, he can get away with it anyhow.

SUMMER SQUASH Boil until tender, put through colander, season with salt, pepper, sugar and a little butter. Don't dispense this delicious dish. Another method is to slice the squash and fry in hot meat drippings until tender. Also slice, boil until tender, then serve with salt, pepper and butter, without mashing it, or pour over it a white sauce.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS When cooking strong smelling vegetables, if you put a piece of stale bread into a clean cloth and put it in the pot, it will prevent the odors from going through the house. Even, so, however, it is well to keep doors shut into other rooms and the kitchen window open. After peeling onions, the smell can more easily be washed off with cold water than with warm. Soap will set the stain. Rub with lemon, or tomato. Charcoal added to the water in which ham and cabbage are cooking will destroy the odor. (Try it for onions.)

Vegetable Waters If you have sickness in the house, save the water in which vegetables have been cooked and make it into broths for the sick person. It is strong in mineral salts and might almost be better called "mineral water" than vegetable water. With a little salt, pepper, butter, milk and thickening it will make a nourishing and pleasing soup. Why throw it away even if you are all well. Why pour it down the sewer tract when your own digestive tract needs it and would assimilate it.

M'ADOO WILL RUN FOR OFFICE NEXT ELECTION

Former Secretary of State Expresses Determination To Be Candidate in 1924.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, is an avowed candidate for the democratic nomination for president in 1924, William C. Lyons, of Denver, a former Colorado state senator and sergeant-at-arms at the last three democratic conventions, declared here today.

"I saw McAdoo in Los Angeles less than a month ago," Mr. Lyons said, "and he told me very plainly that he would be in the race this time. He will enter the California presidential primaries unopposed and will have the undivided support of the democratic organization in San Francisco."

FLYING PARSON KILLED WHEN MACHINE FALLS

RUTLAND, Vt., Sept. 7.—Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, known as "The Flying Parson," was killed while flying at the Rutland fair today. Lieutenant B. W. Maynard was one of the famous aviators of the United States army during the war with Germany, when he won his title of "Flying Parson." He joined the aviation corps immediately upon the entry of the United States in the war.

He was one of the most spectacular aerial performers in the army and among the most daring. He added greatly to his fame in the fall of 1919 when he finished first in the endurance contest flight of a round trip across the United States. He later won the "air derby" from New York to Toronto and return. He flew the 1042 miles of the derby course in 46 1/2 minutes of actual flying, averaging 134 miles an hour.

Lieutenant Charles Wood of Ticonderoga, N. Y., and Charles Monette of New York, a mechanic, also were killed. The plane fell 3000 feet.

FINAL TRIBUTE IS PAID MAN KILLED BY INDIAN

WOODBURN, Sept. 7.—Tenderly the body of Captain Grover Todd was laid to rest yesterday afternoon in the little cemetery near this, his home city. Clouds that had been gathered darker and darker throughout the afternoon parted as the sorrowful procession reached the flower-crowned grave. The sun shone in all its September splendor during the burial ceremony.

Todd was killed by an Indian boot-legger at New Grand Ronde Saturday morning, the former national guard captain having been appointed a prohibition enforcement officer several weeks ago. Long before the body of the veteran was carried to the armory on the shoulders of boys who served under him in France, friends and neighbors filled the building to its capacity. The platform was lined with floral tributes, and many wreaths and sprays were received from out of town.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR BISHOPS AND DEPUTIES

PORTLAND, Sept. 7.—Officers elected in both the house of bishops and the house of deputies, reception by the bishops of applications for the next triennial meeting from three cities, and the filing of several memorials dealing with diocesan matters, launched the business session of the Episcopal convention yesterday, following the devotional service which occupied the forenoon. The women's auxiliary met at the same time.

The two houses of the convention will continue their preliminary deliberations today and will meet tomorrow in joint session tomorrow morning to hear the report of the presiding bishop and council and the budget report.

TELEPHONE RATE CASE MAY START OCTOBER 2

SALEM, Sept. 9.—The telephone rate case is to be reopened. Action was taken unanimously this morning by the public service commission to this effect and calling for a hearing to open October 2 at the courthouse in Portland. The resolution was almost identical with that offered recently by Commissioner Corey on which no action was taken. Commissioner McCoy presented the motion today.
