

REAL ARTICLE IS TO BE USED FOR BRIDGE OPENING

Volstead Decree Expected to Be Overlooked in Plan to Dedicate Arch; Plaint of Old Tars Is Resurrected.

CONGRATULATIONS SENT QUEEN HARRIET

Hope for New Era of Good Feeling Between 2 Cities Anent River Is Expressed.

Ask an old tar. Those wizened veterans of storm and surf have a notion born of salty experience that no galeon, sloop or brigantine can sail down a christening with aught but the best of vintage. There is a story, spun atop the bales of okum, that the Peter Aredale, whose bare ribs cast gaunt shadows upon the Clatsop sands, was named with something of viler stuff.

Who drank the champagne, the tale does not recite. But a substitute was dashed against her bulk, and though the landlubber may doubt, the seafarer man knows, and knows well, that it was this breach of maritime law which brought Neptune to wrath.

This is one of the complications of arid volsteadian times. But despite the rulings of less than one half of one per cent, the real stuff, yea the same bright effervescent producer of the lightened brain, designed no more for the threats of men, will splash upon the portals of the new span upon the dedication of the Willamette river bridge December 23.

The committee isn't going to take any chances. Harking back to the sea tales of tragedy which have followed the grape-juice christenings, they have decided that champagne from the finest vineyards in the world, is none too good for the naming of the new arch at the hands of Queen Harriet.

But just where the champagne is coming from is the question.

"We're going to have it if we have to put a collection bottle in one of the stores and ask the patriotic citizens whose contact with the bygone days is more than a memory, to donate a drop each," declares M. D. Latourette, chairman of the general and executive committees.

And so the search for the bottle of champagne has begun.

"Queen Harriet. Accept my sincerest congratulations upon your election as queen of the Willamette river bridge celebration.

"I shall be only too glad to serve as your maid and may your rule for the day be the beginning of a period of better mutual understanding and co-operation between Oregon City and West Linn.

"VENA BARNES."

This was the message sent yesterday to Miss Harriet Phillips, elected queen of the bridge dedication here, by Miss Barnes, who was also a candidate for the election. Under the agreement made when the contest was Miss Barnes is to be maid of the celebration.

U. S. AID FOR ASTORIA IS URGED BY SHANNON

Telegram to Pres. Harding Sent by Mayor; Oregon City and West Linn Help.

A telegram to President Harding, urging the passage of the legislation necessary to the federal appropriation for the relief of Astoria, was sent yesterday by Mayor James Shannon for Oregon City.

With the full approval of the municipal administration the mayor urged governmental measures for the aid of the stricken city.

The voluntary quota of $1,000 from Oregon City and West Linn will be subscribed fully by the first of the year in the opinion of M. D. Latourette, chairman of the local relief committee. He urged the giving of voluntary subscriptions to aid the raising of the fund. No organized solicitation campaign is planned but subscriptions can be left at the store of Burmeister and Andersen.

The surplus from the fund raised for the staging of the Willamette river bridge celebration, will be donated by the two cities to the relief work.

Stores To Reopen

ASTORIA, Dec. 15.—"We will open again as soon as we can get the safe open."

So reads a typical advertisement in the Morning Astorian, one of the Astoria daily papers, copies of which have been received here and which show remarkable adaptability to circumstances on the parts of the editors and publishers. Both the Astorian and the Budget have been appearing regularly in spite of the loss of their plants in the fire a week ago.

Almost before the flames had ceased to spread the Budget had arranged to use the plant of the Seaside Signal and until yesterday type for the evening daily was set at the beach town and the paper printed on the press of the Toveri, Finnish daily whose plant was outside the fire zone.

Machines are saved. Two Linotype machines and a Ludlow typograph machine were saved from the plant of the Astorian. This equipment has been placed at the Budget's disposal and both papers are set up with it. The Astorian is also printed on the press of the Toveri, making three daily newspapers to be printed in the same shop.

The first building permit issued after the fire was to the Budget and workmen have begun rebuilding. New machinery has been ordered and in a few weeks the paper will be in its own home again. The Astorian plant will also be rebuilt at once.

Advertising in the publications is heavy, most of the text announcing new temporary locations or intention to rebuild as soon as possible.
