The school plant of America is vaiit is used only for day school purnity 5 per cent upon the investment, its employment for day instruction only United States of $30,500,000, says Clarence A. Perry in the Survey. As was said recently, "most of us no more appreciate what it means to have these possessions than the people of Europe before 1492 appreciated what it meant to have the earth. There was a whole hemisphere of incalculable wealth and opportunity about which they knew nothing. And in the school plant there is a whole hemisphere of value unrealized, undiscovered by those who think of it as simply a building for the education of children, with the added use of an occaaloual evening school." The school building should be the capitol of the neighborhood, the focal point of educational, recreation, political and social life. Its importance as a place for the development of inteiligent public spirit through the free discussion of public questions is fundamental, for those who are opening our schoolhouses for the largest public and will yield larger profits, and has service are simply carrying on the traditions of freedom."

and the more thoughtful, sagacious investors, who always aim to get in at the bottom and go up with the crowd, are looking for other natural resources to develop. What more natural, then, than that they should turn to an industry that has yielded made more wealthy men than any other line of business?

That they have walted so long is surprising to those familiar with the vast deposits of precious metals known the building was not used by unvilody of in the mineralized sections of the Northwest. But we are pleased to note the change has come, and the period of preliminary development actually begun. Every portion of our State and the entire Pacific Coast will During the long summer months no feel and benefit by the, as it were, one entered them except pressibly the electric touch of gold that will be proworkmen who went there to make re- duced from our mountains and valleys. There are almost innumerable properties simply waiting sufficient capital to properly develop and equip them, which, coupled with competent engineering ability and experience, to-

They are coming with the economic strength of source of the placer gold in the masonry of the hills. And, on the smug faces of the timid, that hybrid smile will change to a sunburst of genuine approval; for, as in the old days, the placer gold was the beginning of, and gave substance and form to husbandry and the commercial life of today, so will the mills and smelters of the new era, thundering in their extraction of primal gold, give to every industry here an impetus undreamed of, in the

It may not be genways in which the taxpayers are now erally known, but is a fact, neverthegetting more service from school property. In Rochester, where every other choolhouse has become a neighborbood social center, an extensive use of classrooms is being made by men's civic clubs for nonpartisan discusslong of political questions. "The schoolhouses are the places for political meetings," said a county commitleeman in a Rochester social center. "I do not mean that they should be opened to any one political party, but to all. Why should I be compelled to go into a barroom to address a political meeting, where the bartender using me to advertise his beer? Why should I be compelled to go into smoke filled rooms to talk on political ssues when we have buildings like this where those things can be taken up?" How easily the ordinary public chool plant becomes the focusing wint for the social activities of the peighborhood is well illustrated by Rochester public school No. 9. Be oldes being a day, evening and vacation school and serving as a public clubhouse for men, women, boys and tirts, the building is used as a moving picture theater, a lecture hall, a gymnasium, a bathhouse, a dance hall, library and a playground house. A free dental clinic is to be established in it, and it has already become a public health office. Its yard is used as a playground, an athletic field and a school garden. With a little more round for a park the whole plant would come close to a realization of the ideal social center. Is there any other American institution that so naturally attracts to itself all the vo- ing the valleys of Oregon, as they are ried interests of the community?
